Uncle Sam's Last Words.
Pegging Our Dollar.
Why Pay Six Billions?
Two Ford Anniversaries.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

FRANCE refuses to pay anything; Poland refuses to pay anything; England, instead of $75,000,000, will pay $10,000,000, in silver, and get credit for fifty cents an ounce, although silver is worth only thirty-five cents. And that is the grand total of our grand "foreign debt collecting enterprise."

UNCLE SAM must remind himself of the criminal standing on the gallows with the rope around his neck; asked if he had anything to say, and replying, "yes, I want to say that this will be a lesson to me as long as I live."

EUROPE, "very sorry," can't pay what she owes, but is generous with good advice, especially concerning our own money.

Foreign countries will fix a price at which our dollar shall be "pegged" compared with the British pound, and we are quite docile about it.

Meanwhile, England is accumulating more gold and France adds constantly to her supply.

ENGLAND'S gold reserve has risen to one hundred and eighty-eight million, two hundred and forty-five thousand pounds. A good deal of gold.

France has three billion, two hundred and forty-four million dollars worth of gold in her vaults. These figures help you to understand why those countries cannot pay Uncle Sam what they owe. If they did pay, they wouldn't have as much gold.

LATE YESTERDAY afternoon dispatches from London announced that a "pact" had "pegged" the dollar at 84 cents.

If the dollar is worth 84 cents, how much it one cent worth? Who decided how many cents the dollar is worth, how was the deciding done?

The French government, by its own action, cut eighty per cent from the value of its franc, cutting it down from a little less than twenty cents to a little less than four cents. That made it easy to pay off the French internal debt, and to pay Englishmen that bought French "franc bonds" at the old price.

Americans will ask why it is necessary for Europe to fix the value of the American dollar. We had an idea that that value would be fixed by the value of things that the American dollar can buy.

THE UNITED STATES is about to spend three billion dollars on public works for employment, will pay workers, contractors in currency, and those buying the bonds that it is proposed to issue, will all be paid in UNITED STATES CURRENCY.

That currency will bear the government's name, and be just as good as government bonds, which also will have "the government's name" on them.

Why the government should insist on issuing bonds and paying interest for the pleasure of using its own currency to pay its own bills may be plain to the wizards of "high finance," but it is a profound puzzle to the average American.

IF THE COUNTRY issues three billions of bonds and pays four per cent interest for a period of seventeen and a half years it will have to pay six billion dollars, principal and interest, to get three billion dollars' worth of work done.

High finance tells you "it is necessary to issue bonds and pay interest to keep the government's credit good."

Does it help the government's credit to pay out six billions, loading that weight on the backs of taxpayers, instead of paying three billions in currency, as the work progresses and retiring that currency without interest, just as the bonds would be retired?

TODAY HENRY FORD'S motor company is 30 years old. This is also the fortieth anniversary of the day when Henry Ford first interested himself in building a gas engine. He says:

"I made my first gas engine in 1893, and it still runs."

Henry Ford has made and sold more than 21,000,000 Ford cars, but he says:

"The past does not especially concern me; my real task is still ahead."

More power to him.

NEXT SUNDAY will be "Father's Day." A more appropriate day might be the first of the month when father signs checks.

Advertisements advise loving children to give father presents of all kinds, from hats to shoes, neckties to garters, 3.2 beer to cigars.

The best present is something that father can use or wear. Whatever it is, it will be a surprise.

AN ELECTRIC light bulb containing "a small amount of neon gas and metallic sodium" is said to multiply visibility by sixteen and to be "the future lamp for lighting highways, and for automobile lights."

The invention of this lamp is credited to Dr. Gilles Holst, of Eindhoven, Holland, but the American General Electric Company, in its Cleveland laboratories, has long been experimenting with sodium-vapor bulbs.

The new bulbs cast no sharp shadows and are said to provide three or four times more light with the same amount of electricity.

MAUG SEIZED WITH PAL IN OHIO

Killers Who Escaped Pen Here Caught After Holdup

The Maug mob killers are under arrest at Lakewood, O., Cleveland police and Lakewood detectives said today after examining fingerprints and photographs of John Maug and Edward Turpac, Western Penitentiary fugitives. They admitted their identities.

George Koestle, superintendent of the Bertillon division of the Cleveland Police Department, said there was no doubt of the identity of the pair.

County Commissioners have offered a $10,000 reward for the capture of the desperadoes.

First information that two men arrested in Lakewood on robbery charges had been identified as the Western Penitentiary fugitives was contained in an Associated Press dispatch from Cleveland.

SURE OF IDENTITY

In a telephone conversation from Cleveland, Bertillon Chief Koestle said:

"Lakewood detectives brought me the fingerprints of the two

Bank Probe Calls Aide Of Pinchot

By MARK SHIELDS

HARRISBURG, June 16.—Duncan McCallum, secretary to Gov. Pinchot, will be summoned before the Senate Banking Investigating Committee June 29 to explain how he prepared a list of insurance and bond agents and brokers who must be favored by the State Banking Department in placing insurance on closed banks and the bonding of employes.

William D. Gordon, secretary of banking, after telling the committee he had never known of political influence in the working of the banking department, disclosed the existence of the list, given him by McCallum, yesterday afternoon under questioning by Representative Ellwood Turner, of Delaware County, and Senator Harry Shapiro, of Philadelphia.

Gordon said 162 brokers and agents were included and were employed in the placing of new insurance or renewals.

McCallum is to be questioned about this "preferred list" as the committee's retaliatory intimidation of what it calls an original intimidation by the Pinchot administration, through the Banking Department's request of its agents, that report should be made of any notes in closed banks indorsed by a member of the committee or Republican State Chairman Edward Martin.

Knowledge that such a preferred list existed is not new, nor is it original with the Pinchot administration, but this will be the first opportunity to place the list on record.

Through a long session of testimony yesterday afternoon, Gor-

RECOVERY MEASURES SIGNED

Industry Bill Called Greatest in History By President

WASHINGTON, June 16.—(AP.)—President Roosevelt moved his recovery program into broad operation today with the signing of the final emergency powers sent to him by Congress in the closing hours of early this morning.

Smiling and determined, he in quick succession approved three bills which gave him great command over the nation's industry and railroads and public works, and put on the statute books a drastic revision of banking.

The keystone of the emergency program—the industrial control bill—was signed with a statement asking wholehearted co-operation of "industry, labor and every citizen of the nation."

FAR-REACHING ACT

The President termed it the "most important and far-reaching legislation" Congress has ever enacted. He said:

"Its goal is the assurance of a reasonable profit to industry and living wages for labor with the elimination of the piratical methods and practices which have not only harassed honest business but also contributed to the ills of labor."

Jobs for hundreds of thousands of men are contemplated under

RALPH LaROCCO, CORAOPOLIS' DELINQUENT TAX COLLECTOR . . . PICTURED AFTER ARREST

FOUR OTHERS SEIZED IN PROBE

Brother of Senator Sought for Quiz By Park

Tom Coyne, a brother of Senator James J. Coyne, today was ordered arrested by District Attorney Andrew T. Park as one of the five alleged jury-fixers in the trial of the Monaca Club.

His arrest was ordered today by Park after the District Attorney had conducted a single-handed investigation which revealed that five persons plotted to "fix" the jury. Four have been arrested.

THREE OTHERS SEIZED

Three others arrested last night and today are Ralph LaRocco, delinquent tax collector in Coraopolis; Charles Fahey, employe of the State Auditor General's Pittsburgh office, and Charles O'Connor, Leetsdale politician.

The first prisoner, Constable Edward Costello, of Glenfield, was arrested Thursday.

When LaRocco was searched by county detectives today they reported finding lists containing the names of seven jurors. According to Ed. Stringert, Ben Avon iceman, he introduced Costello in the homes of three other jurors in Ohio Township last Sunday.

PLOT CHARGE

Park announced today that charges of conspiracy and individual charges of embracery would be filed against all five "fix" suspects before Justice of the Peace Margaret Morgan, of Sewickley.

Parke's assistant, Roy T. Clunk, today took statements from Fahey, O'Connell and LaRocco. Fahey was accompanied by his wife and his brother-in-law posted a $2,500 bond for him.

At Coyne's wholesale beer house in Oakland this afternoon attaches said he had gone to the courthouse—but there no sight of him was reported.

The Monaca trial, postponed Wednesday because Judge Samuel H. Gardner felt that a newspaper article was "inflammatory," is now slated for next Tuesday.

Defendants, along with Tom Coyne, are Tom (Goose) Goslin, South Side figure, and Tom Dolan, all accused of operating the Oakland spot which was finally raided, not by city or county police, but state police, at the behest of Judge Frank P. Patterson.

DICK POWELL NOT IN DANGER

Dick Powell, whose ascendancy in the theater began in Pittsburgh, today was reported in no immediate danger from a pneumonia attack that put him in a Los Angeles hospital as he was preparing for another movie.

The interest with which Pittsburgh theatergoers follow the fortunes of the curly-haired Powell was indicated by the many telephone inquiries to the Sun-Telegraph regarding his condition.

An Associated Press dispatch said he was seriously ill, but that his condition was described as "satisfactory."

Powell contracted pneumonia after an attack of influenza. He recently made a personal appearance tour of eastern cities.

Studio officials said his place in a film ready for production probably will be allotted to another in view of the grave turn his illness has taken.

Roosevelt Wins Vet Fight; Congress Ends

Momentous Record Set By Special Session

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, June 16.—President Roosevelt's "honeymoon" session of the overwhelminly Democratic Seventy-third Congress passed into history early today after he won a dramatic victory on the veterans' issue, leaving an unprecedented record of legislative achievements.

In its closing hours Congress supported the President on the veterans' issue as it had done with unswerving loyalty on all major legislation. It finally enacted, at night session, his personal plan for liberalizing the

HOPE ON WANE FOR MATTERN

NOME, Alaska, June 16.—(AP.)—Sparsely settled northlands or the Bering Sea today held the fate of Jimmie Mattern, round the world flier, unreported since leaving the Siberian coast two days ago.

Along the 2,500-mile hop from Khabarovsk, Siberia, no ship or land settlement had reported sighting him.

While searching plans were held in abeyance today because of the frequently with which "lost planes" have turned up in Alaska, aviation men recalled that he had said before leaving Khabarovsk several days ago on his first attempt to reach Alaska that his plane was in "fine shape."

HEINER HEARS ABOUT MORGAN

Caustic comment accompanied the quarterly installment of income taxes received at the office of Internal Collector D. B. Heiner today. Some were:

"The House of Morgan pays none."

"Give my regards to Morgan."

"How about Morgan?"

It took a whole lot of little fellows to make up the $3,048,912.91 collected during the first 15 days of this month and they showed their resentment for the big financier who paid no income tax, as revealed by the hearing in Washington.

This year's June installment was approximately $500,000 below collections of last June, when the first 15 days netted $3,536,806.95.

Accused Employe's Successor Named

Park H. Martin, of Bellevue, today was named chief county maintenance engineer by the County Commissioners.

The Commissioners made no move to oust E. A. Griffith, who has held the post for several years, but they indicated they expected Griffith to resign. Griffith was named in an auditors' report last week as having accepted an automobile and $1,000 from J. W. Butler, McKeesport contractor, under alleged threat of holding up estimates on a road job.

Bring 'em Back to Life Expert in Law Tangle

NEW YORK, June 16—(INS.)—C. Henry Hyman, inventor of the electric pace-making needle, success of which in bringing the apparently dead back to life so interested the American Medical Association, was served with a summons to appear in court next Monday.

He is charged with experimenting on animals without authorization of a recognized medical laboratory. The Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals was the complainant.

Hyman, uncle of Dr. Albert S. Hyman, whose paper on the resuscitation of the dead caused such a stir at the doctors' convention in Milwaukee, was working in his laboratory when he heard much shouting and banging at the door.

He opened it and a very irate policeman entered. The policeman had encountered one of Hyman's minor inventions designed to keep out the children of the neighborhood, an electric shocker on the doorknob.

The policeman read the penal code to him, pointing out the maximum sentence of one year.

Hyman's differences with the S. P. C. A. have been of long standing. A year ago he went to their hospital with his electric needle machine, which looks like a portable radio, and offered to bring their condemned animals back to life as fast as they were taken out of the lethal chamber. The challenge was not accepted.

Cavanaugh, Two Others Freed in Tax Trial

The remaining three defendants in the Homestead tax assessment case were ordered acquitted by Judge W. Heber Dithrich today on the heels of the withdrawal of Assistant County Solicitor Ralph H. Frank as associate counsel for the prosecution.

Those freed were Burgess John J. Cavanaugh, C. J. McBride, former secretary of the County Tax Board, and William Dee, former subordinate assessor, all of Homestead.

Late yesterday three other defendants, Jesse Honse, Martin Delaney and Port Eckles, superintendent of Homestead schools, had been ordered acquitted.

Frank withdrew from the case after County Detective Michael McDermott had testified as a character witness for the three defendants still on trial and Detective Peter Connors had stood up with 50 other character witnesses as willing to testify. Connors was not called.

Frank said:

"I will not participate in a prosecution in which the District Attorney's employes openly work for acquittal of the defendants."

Frank told the court he had no criticism of the manner in which Assistant District Attorney Earl T. Adair had conducted the commonwealth's case but could not countenance county detectives appearing as character witnesses for the defendants.

DUCE ORDERED SEA SQUADRON FLIGHT

Rome-to-Chicago Trip Transportation Aid, Commander Says

(Gen. Italo Balbo, Italy's flying minister of aviation, is writing exclusively for Universal Service the full story of Italy's newest daring aerial adventure—the formation flight of hydroairplanes from Orbetello across the North Atlantic to the Chicago Century of Progress Exposition. He will tell the story in four dramatic articles, of which this is the first. Gen. Balbo's own story of the flight will appear in this city in the Sun-Telegraph.)

By Special Cable

ORBETELLO AIR BASE, ROME, June 16.—The idea of the present flight was born at Rio de Janeiro two years after completion of the Italy-to-Brazil flight when Premier Mussolini, in his message, announced the greater aerial enterprise of the tenth year of the Fascist revolution.

In 1929, being in the United States on the occasion of the Chicago aeronautical exposition, held from December 1 to 9, 1928, I had proposed to study the possibilities of a mass flight from Europe to North America, but I convinced myself that the time was premature.

After the triumphal message from Premier Mussolini, received at Rio de Janeiro, I conceived the plan of circling the globe from Italy by way of India, Japan, the Aleutian Islands, Alaska, Mexico, Panama, New York, and from New York to Ireland, and thence to Rome. I sent one of my best

DEBT DEFAULTS COST AMERICA $100,000,000

France Adopts Martyr Role in Again Refusing to Pay

By KINGSBURY SMITH
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, June 16.—Loser by more than $100,000,000 in the latest debt clash with Europe, the United States today found credited in its accounts only $11,154,592.50 instead of the $143,605,295.07 due from the debtor nations.

Representing less than 8 per cent of the total amount due, this sum marked at least one payment in line with the Lausanne plan whereby Europe intended to force a dime-on-the-dollar final settlement of its debts to this nation.

At the same time, the United States was confronted with a demand from at least five of the debtors for a review of the entire debt situation with a view to drastic reduction of the total $11,000,000,000 owed this nation on account of American loans made abroad during and shortly after the World War.

FRANCE DEFAULTS

France again had defaulted and along with her, Poland, Belgium, Hungary, Estonia, Lithuania and Jugoslavia failed to pay.

Great Britain, Italy and Latvia made small partial payments. Czechoslovakia and Rumania offered still smaller ones, but they had not been accepted up to early today.

Only one debtor nation paid in full, Finland. The payment of this little republic, which always has met its obligations to this government, totaled $148,592.50.

All payments with the exception of Latvia's, were made in silver in accordance with the authorization President Roosevelt recently received from Congress to accept up to $200,000,000 in silver in payment of the debts.

This gave the debtor nations an additional advantage of approximately 28 cents on the dollar on the basis of present world silver prices. Thus Great Britain actually paid only about $7,200,000 and Italy approximately $720,000 in terms of gold.

France Defaults Debt; Assumes Martyr Role

PARIS, June 16.—(AP.)—Hope that a solution could be found to the problem of intergovernmental debts "in the interests of the economic restoration of the world" is expressed is the French note announcing the "deferment" of the $40,000,000 instalment due the United States. The note said:

"The French government still thinks that within the shortest time a solution should be found to the problem of intergovernmental debts in the interests of the economic restoration of the world and notably in view of maintaining and also developing the results already achieved and in so large a part due to France's sacrifice of her own claims.

"The French government consequently is obliged to defer payment of the sum due June 15. But it intends in no way to break unilateral engagements freely entered into, and desires to renew to the federal government the assurance that it is always ready to give by all opportune means the most active help to finding a satisfactory solution."

HINT MONETARY AGREEMENT IN LONDON

Woodin Denial Fails To Halt Rumors Of Stabilization

LONDON, June 16.—(INS.)—Despite denial of Secretary of the Treasury Woodin in Washington that an agreement for currency stabilization has been reached in London, a well-founded feeling spread through financial circles here today that some form of control to limit exchange fluctuations is imminent pending de jure stabilization.

Financiers here interpret Woodin's denial that an agreement has been reached as applying to de jure stabilization only and believe that it does not rule out an agreement to control fluctuations and keep the American dollar at about $4 to the pound for the duration of the World Economic Conference.

Weakness of Britain's monetary position and her acute desire for some form of currency stabilization was thrown into sharp relief with publication of a letter whereby the British Treasury virtually forbade stock traders from participating in "injurious" foreign exchange and security deals.

Conference Adjourns Over Week-End

By GEORGE R. HOLMES

LONDON, June 16.—In an atmosphere of hope, mingled with confusion and some disputes over methods of procedure, the World Economic Conference organized itself into two main commissions today and then recessed for the weekend to permit leaders to thresh out details.

The committee meetings this morning were marked by a general desire to get somewhere speedily, but no one seemed to know just how.

James M. Cox, of Ohio, in presiding as chairman at the first meeting of the Monetary and Financial Commission, said:

"Gentlemen, let us go to work."

But opinions were so varied as to which direction the work lay that they decided to quit until Monday.

WELCOME RESPITE

Most delegates welcomed the respite.

The American delegates seem more relieved over adjournment of Congress than anything else. They feel they are now free to go ahead unmenaced by backfiring at home.

Generally speaking, they continued optimistic. After the breakup of the committee meetings, Secretary of State Cordell Hull, American delegation chief, chatted informally with Gen. Jan Smuts, of South Africa, and later told International News Service:

"I have talked with a number of moderate tariff proponents from cany countries. I feel confident we are in a position to make real progress on the whole wide front of trade restrictions.

"I think we have made a good start."

While the commissions met, the wheat conference also was in session today, but it broke up without getting anywhere on an agreement for acreage reduction between the principal producers.

Playing Prince

NANCY, WALES GOLF RIVALS

LONDON, June 16.—(INS.)—British sporting circles today anticipated with unprecedented interest the forthcoming match between the Prince of Wales and Viscountess Astor in the semi-finals of the parliamentary golf handicap.

The match will be played over the Walton Heath course at a date and time suiting the convenience of both.

Lady Astor, only American-born woman member of the House of Commons, was the only feminine competitor in the tournament. She knocked out five prominent men players on her way to the semi-finals, while the Prince, improving all the time, marched ahead against slightly inferior opponents than those encountered by Lady Astor.

INDICT 7 MORE MEN IN VOTE FRAUD PROBE

Six Involved in False Count, One Charged With 'Gag' Threat

Seven more persons were named in indictment presentments returned today by the federal grand jury investigating Congressional election fraud charges here.

One of them was charged with intimidating a witness slated to appear before the grand jury to tell what he knew of the alleged frauds.

Members of the election board of the Sixth District, Third Ward, were charged with altering and falsifying election records and conspiring to violate the rights of voters.

FRAUD CHARGED

The indictment set forth they certified 122 votes cast for Michael J. Muldowney, Republican candidate for Congress in the Thirty-second District, and 79 votes for James J. Davis, knowing the certification to be false.

Those named in the indictment were Anthony Sibilia, judge of elections of the district; Jack Frankel, majority inspector; Henry Silverstein, minority inspector; Davey Slutzky and Harry Kalson, Clerks, and Harry Kart.

Albert Diulius, judge of elections in the Tenth District, Fourth Ward, was charged with influencing and intimidating James Hanley, who is under subpena to appear before the grand jury June 29. Diulius was aleged to have threatened Hanley with bodily harm.

Government agents, at the direction of Special Federal Prosecutor Earl F. Reed, today are making an investigation of alleged threats made against five Fourth Ward voters by persons said to be opposed to the election fraud probe.

The threatened men sought Attorney Reed a short time before the Grand Jury made its first returns yesterday. The indictments they then presented before Judge Nelson McVicar named as defendants 11 members of election boards in the First and Second districts of the Third Ward.

Bench warrants for the arrest of the 11 indicted men were issued by Judge McVicar today. Bond was set at $2,500 each.

The jury today resumed its investigation of fraud in the Eighth District of the Third Ward.

Before meeting with Attorney Reed the threatened men said they were told that after the election probe they would "land in a hospital."

Weather Conditions.

Pressure is relatively low over the lower lakes (Buffalo, 29.85), with cloudy weather in the lake region, the Ohio Valley and New England and light showers have occurred over most of this district since yesterday. A trough of low pressure (Calgary, 29.56), extends southward from the Canadian Northwest to Arizona, with attendant light showers in Arizona and Saskatchewan. High pressure overlies the Southern states (Chattanooga, 30.24), with fair weather, mostly clear, over the plains and the southern states. Temperature changes were mostly slight, but towards warmer generally.

River Conditions.

Light rain fell over the watersheds last night without effect on the falling rivers. Stage at Franklin is 2.0 feet; Lock No. 7 (Mon.), 11.7; Pittsburgh, 11.5; Dam No. 4, 9.5; Dam No. 6, 8.5; Dam No. 10, 9.0; Dam No. 12, 9.1. The rivers will fall. The dams are up.

men, and I compared them with those of Maug and Turpac. They are positively the same. One of them at first claimed to be Thomas Seaman. He is Turpac. The other claimed to be William Fisher, but he is Maug.

"I showed the detectives pictures of Maug and Turpac that we got from Pittsburgh, and the detectives said they were the same men.

CAUGHT AFTER HOLDUP

A series of robberies in the Lakewood district was laid at the door of the men who escaped from the penitentiary here April 27. A taxicab holdup last night led to their arrest, police said.

Both men were armed when arrested. Sergt. Carl Steiger, of the Lakewood police, said Maug boasted:

"If you hadn't got the drop on us, we would have shot it out with you."

Cleveland police said that 10 days ago a Western Union office was held up and a taxicab driver robbed of his machine. They said the same pair had staged the holdups.

The Ohio robberies followed a series of escapades in the Pittsburgh district after the prison break. Several weeks elapsed before the fugitives fled from the district. They escaped from an abandoned stone quarry in New Homestead under the fire of county detectives May 9.

LIFE-TERMERS

The fugitives were serving life sentences in Western Penitentiary for the killing of Vernon (Port) Moses, Ross Township Constable, when they scaled the prison wall with two other convicts. Their companions were recaptured.

Police said the suspects at Lakewood signed confessions in connection with the Ohio robberies before their identification as Maug and Turpac.

PINCHOT PICKS WORKS BOARD

HARRISBURG, June 16.—(INS.)—Pennsylvania took its first step to aid President Roosevelt and federal authorities in carrying out provisions of the national recovery bill when Gov. Gifford Pinchot today established a state emergency public works board.

It consists of Louis E. Staley, Secretary of Forests and Waters, chairman; Samuel S. Lewis, Secretary of highways; Attorney General William A. Schnader, Theodore B. Appel, Secretary of Health, and John L. Hanna, Secretary of Property and Supplies. W. W. Stevenson, chief engineer of the Department of Health, was named secretary of the committee.

This body will have complete control of the public works projects in Pennsylvania. Their suggestions will be made directly to federal government officials, who must approve all work before it may be started.

WIFE DIVORCES DODGE HEIR

DETROIT, June 16.—(AP.)—A divorce was granted in Circuit Court today to Marie O5Connor Dodge, of Grosse Pointe, Mich., from John Duvall Dodge, 30-year-old son of the late John F. Dodge, motorcar magnate. Mrs. Dodge charged desertion.

In a property settlement arranged in the court, Mrs. Dodge will receive $300,000, while a trust fund of $108,000 will be set up for her daughter, Mary Ann, 9.

Weather Delays Hop Of Italy's Squadron

ORBETELLO, Italy, June 16.—(INS.)—Still another delay in the mass flight of 25 Italian seaplanes to Chicago was caused today by reports of poor weather over the Alps.

The flight, which was to have begun at 6 a. m. today, was postponed until probably Sunday morning.

GENERAL HUGH JOHNSON, President Roosevelt's "industrial director," hopes and expects to have four million men, one-third of the country's idle, back at work not later than next October.

The factory payrolls and employment for many encourage the belief that General Johnson's hope will be realized.

1,000 Watch Flood Rage Through Homes

KELSO, Wash., June 16.—(AP.)—A thousand homeless persons saw flood waters many feet deep surging through and over their homes in South Kelso today, while the waters from Cowdement River, pouring through a 150-foot break in a dike, crept nearer the main business district.

Through the late hours last night, the waters rose an inch an hour, but a high tide pushing up the Columbia came and went without materially changing the situation.

UNIONS TO DEFY RAIL SLASH

CHICAGO, June 16.—(AP.)—Spokesmen for the 1,000,000 union workers on America's 201 class 1 railroads declared today they would ignore the demands of their employers for a 22½ per cent reduction in wages to replace a 10 per cent temporary "deduction" in effect at present until November 1.

Sentiments of the employes were expressed at a conference of the Railway Labor Executives' Association, comprising 21 unions.

Many of the union leaders said the railroad were not serious in the wage cut demand.

The railroads, however, in demanding the reduction yesterday, declared themselves united 100 per cent in the demand and would make no concessions.

Parley 'Museum' Of Fossils, Says Shaw

LONDON, June 15.—(AP.)—George Bernard Shaw, who has been exceptionally quiet—for Shaw—since he returned from the United States, gave voice today through his whiskers to an opinion on the World Economic Conference. He said:

"This week there is the World Economic Conference consisting of an assemblage of gentlemen not one of whom appears to know anything whatever about economics, even of the most elementary kind.

"When you examine their qualifications you will find that they are all gentlemen who have made a deplorable and hopeless mess of national affairs in their own countries and have come to the Geological Museum—a museum of fossils—in the hope that since they cannot get their own countries out of the mess, other countries may do so.

"Some day we must take things out of their hands and try to save civilization."

Roosevelt to Take Rest After Congress Victory

WASHINGTON, June 16.—(AP.)—Triumphant in Congress as no recent President ever has been, Franklin D. Roosevelt is going to take a rest.

By special train tonight, the President leaves for the coast of Massachusetts. A brief stop is planned tomorrow at Groton School, near Boston, to see his son, Franklin, Jr. Then motoring on to Marion, he expects to be aboard the trim schooner Amberjack II by nightfall.

On Sunday morning he expects to start the Amberjack II sailing toward Campo Bello Island, barely across the Canadian border from Maine. Here is his mother's summer cottage.

Two weeks hence, Mr. Roosevelt expects to be back in Washington.

GROTON, Mass., June 16.—(AP.)—Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., son of the President, received his diploma from Groton School today—33 years after the graduation of his father from the same school.

President Roosevelt had hoped to attend, but telephoned Franklin, Jr., from Washington that it would be impossible for him to be present because of the press of affairs in the capital.

Mrs. Roosevelt, her daughter, Mrs. Curtis Dall, and her eldest son, James, were present, however.

Asked how the President was bearing up under the heavy pressure of presidential business, Mrs. Roosevelt replied:

"Oh, he's grand. I don't believe he ever felt better. I know I've never seen him look

Ex-Wife Throws Bricks When Banker Reweds

NEW YORK, June 16.—(INS.)—The former wife of James H. Heckscher, prominent banker, might have resented his marriage to a blonde typist half her ex-husband's age.

But she shouldn't show her displeasure by hurling bricks through the windows of her ex-spouse's home—particularly at 3 a. m.

Justice of the Peace O. W. Wilson thought so, and, as a result, Mrs. Mary Heckscher, 51, was held without bail today on charges of malicious mischief and assault.

But she wasn't held until she had succeeded in breaking nearly all the windows, forcing entrance to Heckscher's mansion, breaking his glasses by a quick clip on the chin and smacking his successor in the eye.

The former Mrs. Heckscher said:

"He broke my heart, so I broke up his night of romance for him."

Heckscher and his first wife were divorced in 1929. He later married Lillian Altwater, who had been a typist and secretary in the bank in which Heckscher is a vice president.

WITNESSES FAIL TO LINK HUSBAND IN BATHTUB KILLING

FINDING OF WIFE DEAD IN HOME RELATED

Stanford Man Hears Sheriff Tell of Grilling

SAN JOSE, Cal., June 16.—(AP.)—Whether David A. Lamson struck the blows which witnesses said killed his wife, Allene Thorpe Lamson, in their Stanford University home, remains a question to which no answer has been offered as his preliminary hearing continues here today.

The hearing, through which the state seeks to have the 31-year-old Stanford Press representative held for trial on a murder charge, resumes at 2 p. m., with a long list of witnesses yet to be heard.

Autopsy surgeons testified yesterday three fractures of the skull killed the attractive Stanford Y. W. C. A. secretary, who married Lamson three years ago after a college romance.

FRACTURES FATAL

Dr. Milton Saier said any one of the fractures might have caused death. His testimony was corroborated by Dr. Blake Wilbur, son of President Ray Lyman Wilbur, of Stanford.

Other witnesses told of the discovery of Mrs. Lamson's body in the bathtub Memorial Day; of Lamson's conduct just before and after the discovery and of the condition of the campus cottage.

Lamson was summoned from the yard where he was tending a bonfire Memorial Day, said Mrs. L. M. Place, real estate agent, who called with prospective tenants for the cottage.

The witness said Lamson went through the house and a few minutes later appeared at the front door, blood on his hands and face, and cried:

"My God, my wife has been murdered!"

CHIEF'S STORY

Lamson, who sat quietly beside his counsel in the small courtroom, heard H. A. Zink, Palo Alto chief of police, relate Lamson's purported explanation of his actions the day of the tragedy.

Zink said Lamson told him he rose from bed at 5 a. m. and worked in the garden until 9 a. m. when he woke his wife, drew her bath water, prepared her breakfast and returned to the yard.

The husband was quoted by the police chief as saying he discovered his wife's body in the tub as he went through the home to open the door for Mrs. Place.

NEIGHBOR TELLS KIDNAP STORY

BARNSTABLE, Mass., June 16.—(AP.)—Walter Cahoon, 26, neighbor of Kenneth Buck, today told a Cape Cod jury how Kenneth had told him of implication in the kidnaping of Margaret (Peggy) McMath, a few hours after it took place.

He said Kenneth had gone to his home about 7 o'clock on the night of the abduction and asked him to play golf with him. During the game, Cahoon testified, Kenneth told him that he was in a "devil of a mess," that he was connected with a rum ring which had kidnaped the McMath child.

Cahoon said they played by the shack near the eighth fairway, and that Kenneth said he wanted to find out if the child still was there. They learned nothing, however.

WOMAN HELD IN KIDNAPING

ST. PAUL, Minn., June 16.—(AP.)—Mrs. Fern Sankey, acquitted last night of complicity in kidnaping Haskell Bohn of St. Paul, was arrested today on a federal warrant charging conspiracy to kidnap Charles Boettcher II, Denver broker, several weeks ago.

The warrant alleges that Mrs. Sankey participated in a conspiracy "to kidnap Boettcher, transport him to Buffalo County, S. D., and hold him for ransom."

Boettcher was held more than two weeks and released when $60,000 ransom was paid.

Bohn was held in Minneapolis a week last year and released on payment of $12,000.

Mrs. Sankey's missing husband, Verne Sankey, is wanted here for the Bohn seizure and at Denver for the Boettcher kidnaping.

Northwest Sizzles In New Heat Wave

ST. PAUL, Minn., June 16.—(AP.)—Another heat wave has descended on the Northwest.

Bismarck, N. D., reported a maximum of 100 yesterday; Fargo, N. D., had 98, five degrees warmer than the previous high of the season, and Williston, N. D., sweltered in 98. At Winona, Minn., it was 100. Havre, Mont., had a high of 102.

Reider and His Bride

MR. AND MRS. PAUL J. REIDER . . . ANN ELIZABETH FARRELL

The Reiders leaving Holy Rosary Church today after their wedding, interrupted when the maid-of-honor, Miss Kitty, the bride's sister, became faint, had to be helped from Father Maladey's altar by the bridegroom, Pitt's 1932 football captain, and the best man, the Sun-Telegraph's Chilly Doyle. Lamson Faces Accusers In Stony Bereavement

Sisters Send Brother Glances of Love At Hearing

By ELENORE MEHERIN
Author of "Chickie" and Other Novels

(Copyrighted, 1933, by International News Service.)

SAN JOSE, Cal., June 16.—(INS.)—A figure graven in stony bereavement. His face a mask in which only the large eyes live. Suffering mouth tightly clamped. Hands joined. Eyes fixed on the witness box—fixed with a long, steady, almost hypnotic gaze. Hour after hour, he sits motionless as though his whole being has been muted.

Thus he sat all yesterday in the solemn courtroom of Justice Grandin H. Miller, where the hush of emotion kept the spectators breathless as the tragic and terrible drama of Allene Thorpe Lamson's murder was re-enacted.

Only once did Lamson unclasp his small, well-made hands. When the X-rays of his dead wife's head were produced, he ran his palm quickly across his forehead and for a moment closed his eyes. Then he turned his glance directly on Dr. Robert A. Power's face. His eyes never flinched. They had an uncanny fixity—a strange, disturbing power.

Inside — strange types for a murder trial! The Lamson sisters, quiet, reserved, bearing their grief with a touching dignity. They send glances of love to their brother.

Doctors, seeming reluctant, tell of three frightful gashes caused by blows from a blunt force. But strange, strange detail, no clot on the wounds, nor on her neck. No blood on the body. Some one washed the blood away?

Tense, still oppression becomes almost pain as an efficient, worried little person, all in white takes the stand. She's Mrs. Place, first person to enter the death house after Lamson discovered his wife's body. A wave of belief in Lamson's innocence washes over the courtroom as she testifies:

"We heard a noise—I can't describe it—not a shriek—not laughter. A strange human sound. Almost immediately Mr. Lamson opened the door—all white—all shaken, blood on his hands. He sobbed: "My God, my wife has been murdered.' Afterwards he paced the floor in the greatest anguish. He mumbled. He seemed distracted."

The defense attorneys confer. There's Edwin Rea, heavy, large-bodied fellow in a brown suit. Just the opposite of peppery, impetuous Arthur Free. Free is the eager terrier type, always on the alert.

Rea asks:

"Did Lamson call his wife's name?"

"Yes—and he said 'sweetheart.' Endearing things like that."

MAID OF HONOR FAINTS AS KIN WEDS REIDER

Sister of Grid Star's Bride Becomes Ill Before Altar

Paul J. Reider, 1932 football captain at Pitt, and Miss Ann Elizabeth Farrell were married today in the Holy Rosary Church, Homewood.

Father D. J. Maladey officiated.

The ceremony was interrupted when Miss Kitty Farrell, her sister's maid of honor, became faint and was helped from before the altar by Reider and his best man, "Chilly" Doyle, Sun-Telegraph sports writer.

Ushers were Warren Heller, all-America halfback, and John Love, star tackle. Attending the ceremony were other members of the Pitt varsity and many friends and relatives of both families.

Following the ceremony, the bride and groom and the wedding party went to the bride's home, 7223 Penn avenue, for a wedding breakfast.

The honeymoon is planned as a motor trip down East.

After their return, about August 1, the Reiders will be at home in Frankstown Acres, where the bride's father, Jack Farrell, is building them a new house as a wedding present.

The bride attended Divine Providence Academy.

RUNAWAY HORSE KILLS OWNER

Thrown from his wagon when his horse ran away early today and collided with a parked automobile, Louis Sife, 47, a huckster, of 931 Vickroy street, was injured fatally.

Sife's body was thrown over the automobile to the street. He was dead of a fractured skull on arrival at Mercy Hospital.

Two helpers, William Dorfner, 16, of 20 Holt street, and Walter Steiner, 18, of 18 Holt street, was injured slightly.

Police said Sife's horse became frightened in Locust street, and at Shingess street crashed into a parked automobile of Charles Bahr.

MINISTERS DROP CANNON SPEECH

NORMAN, Okla., June 16.—(AP.)—Bishop James Cannon's programmed anti-beer address here Monday night has been cancelled by the Norman Ministerial Alliance, the Rev. Herbert J. Cockerill, president, said today.

Mr. Cockerill said:

"We decided that in view of the fact our program was full, we couldn't have Bishop Cannon."

The Southern Methodist bishop is in Oklahoma to campaign against state legalization of 3.2 beer.

The Rev. Emerson O. Houser, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, said:

"His (Cannon's) leadership has been discredited and so far as I know, none of the Norman ministers are in favor of his apperance here."

Forest Army Axmen Invade North Park

Company of 175 Boys Assigned to Duty In Home County

Detraining in the gray dawn and driving rain at Wildwood station, Allegheny County's Civilian Conservation Corps arrived to occupy North Park this morning.

Under command of Capt. L. A. Witney, the contingent of 175 boys, all from Allegheny County, had left Fort Meade, Md., last night. Enrolled June 2, they had been in training there.

Highest praise was bestowed on the Allegheny group by their commanding officer, Capt. Witney said:

"By jove, they're the best behaved bunch for entirely undisciplined men that I've ever run into."

The company will set up encampment for a six-month stay in North Park. They will patrol South Park as well.

BANDIT SLAYING HOLDS WOMEN

BUFFALO, N. Y., June 16.—(AP.)—Two women hitch-hikers who said they were from Chicago were being held here today for questioning in connection with the murder of a gasoline station attendant at Albion, N. Y., on Sunday.

The women said they were Mrs. Margaret Dzik, 31, of 21 North Racine street, and Mrs. Jean L. Little, 22, of the same address.

Police expressed doubt they were the two women who were in the cab from which one of two men shot Frank McAllister to death after refusing to pay for gasoline. The western part of the state is being searched for the quartet.

JUDGE LOWELL WRIT LOSES

BOSTON, June 16.—(AP.)—The United States Circuit Court of Appeals today reversed the decision of Federal Judge James A. Lowell in granting a writ of habeas corpus to George Crawford, a Negro, which would have prevented Crawford's return to Virginia to face a murder charge.

Crawford was wanted in Virginia for the murder of Mrs. Agnes Boeing Ilsley, wealthy sportswoman, and her maid, Nina Buckner, slain at Middleburg, in January, 1932.

The State of Massachusetts honored the extradition request of the Governor of Virginia, but counsel for Crawford appealed to Judge Lowell for a writ of habeas corpus to bring about his release.

Judge Lowell, in approving the writ, commented that since it appeared from the evidence that Negroes did not serve on Virginia juries, the Supreme Court would hold his trial there to be illegal. Counsel had contended that trial of Crawford in a state in which Negroes did not serve on juries would be a violation of Crawford's constitutional rights.

MAE AND MARY, LOVE DEAD, TURN TO OIL

Pair Sip Tea as Their Husbands Mdivani Lose 'Jobs'

LOS ANGELES, June 16.—(AP.)—Affairs of the heart as conducted by the brothers Mdivani, for several days an open page to the public, today had given way to the more prosaic subject of oil wells.

For Mae Murray, film actress, and Mary McCormic, opera singer, the royal road to romance by way of the Georgian republic has terminated in the forest of blackened derricks on the beach at Venice, Cal.

As stockholders of petroleum enterprises, in which Princes David and Serge Mdivani are interested, met yesterday to oust the pair as directors and officers, Miss Murray and Miss McCormic met in the former's hotel room for tea.

The singer, who is suing Prince Serge for separate maintenance, observed:

"I have had most terrible dreams. Do you have bad dreams, too, Mae?"

"No, I haven't had enough sleep to dream."

Money advanced to the two brothers for their oil well ventures was the principal topic of conversation over the teacups. Meanwhile, at a special meeting of the oil companies' shareholders, a new set of officers was elected in the absence of the princes whose father made a fortune in oil in the Caucusus.

An attorney for Miss McCormic was elected president of the companies and one for Miss Murray, vice president. D. A. Russell, named Wednesday as receiver for the Mdivani properties, voted as a representative of the princes stock.

The Mdivanis' wives' money is tied up in five wells, and good wells, too, they averred in tribute to their husbands, now in Paris.

PARIS, June 16.—(AP.)—Passport difficulties may delay the return of the Princes Serge and David Mdivani to America to answer suits brought by their wives.

They are here for the wedding of their brother, Alexis, and Barbara Hutton, Woolworth heiress, and they indicated today their applications for visas had been referred to Washington because they sought to re-enter the United States not as visitors but to "stay and work."

GIRL INMATES CLASH IN HOME

DETROIT, June 16.—(AP.)—Police were called today to quell a disturbance involving 35 girl inmates at the Juvenile Detention Home, 20 of whom, they said, were attempting to take away the keys of matrons, who were being defended by another group.

Sergt. Robert Allen, in charge of the squad which answered the call, said 20 Negro girls cornered Miss Jessie M. Morrison, night supervisor, and demanded her keys.

Miss Morrison, he said, called for help, and another group of 15 girls and two nurses, went to her assistance.

In the melee that followed, the officer said, Miss Morrison lost the keys, which lated were found in a wash bowl.

The entire group was battling on the second floor of the home when police arrived. They said scratched faces and arms were numerous as the inmates were herded into their roms.

TENNESSEE PAIR SEIZED HERE

Notified by telegram of the theft, which occurred at Elizabethon, Tenn., detectives waited 15 hours at the home of Paul B. McKinney, 300 Second street, Pitcairn.

Finally the men, David McKinney, 23, and a cousin, Marien McKinney, 21, arrived in an auto, which they said they'd bought in Cincinnati. Marien had $340, David, $3.

PRINCE TO WED ON COSTLY RUG

PARIS, June 16.—(Universal.)—Preparations for the wedding Thursday of Barbara Hutton, American heiress, and Prince Alexis Mdivani of Georgia indicate that the ceremony will be one of the most costly and colorful in the history of the old church of the Russian Embassy in Paris.

Costly rugs to be laid throughout the church were presented by the couple in appreciation for the archbishop's special dispensation permitting the marriage to be performed on June 22, although it is unorthodox to wed on Tuesday or Thursday.

Workmen have been redecorating the building on so extensive a scale that for several days past it has been necessary to hold the regular services in the basement.

CONGRESS BOWS TO PRESIDENT ON VETS

economy slashes on compensation to veterans of all wars.

The new Congress, swept into power with the President's election last November, followed his slightest legislative wish throughout 14 weeks.

In that time, it empowered him to take America off the gold standard, close banks, reorganize railroads, fix farm prices, rescue home owners, aid the unemployed, regulate industry, launch a $3,000,000,000 public works program, reorganize the government service, control security issues and operate Muscle Shoals.

It also legalized 3.2 beer.

The session was replete with drama, but none so stirring as that on its last night. Then the Senate reversed itself to support his personal plan for ameliorating drastic slashes in compensation to disabled war veterans, ordered in the original economy act.

VOTE 45 TO 36

By a vote of 45 to 36, it adopted a conference report on the $650,000,000 independent offices appropriation bill which included the President's plan.

The Senate previously wrote the Steiwer-Cutting plan, providing $30,000,000 more than the President desired for veterans' compensationtion, into this bill by a vote of 51 to 39.

Nineteen Democrats joined with a solid Republican vote to bolt the President. On the second test, nine of the Democratic bolters slid back into the administration fold while two "ducked" the vote.

One Republican—the insurgent leader, Norris, of Nebraska—also avoided the ballot after opposing the President on the first one.

The nine Democrats "who marched up the hill one day and marched down the next" were Black, of Alabama; Brown, of New Hampshire;; Bulkley, of Ohio; Caraway, of Arkansas; Lonergan, of Connecticut; McAdoo, of California; Reynolds, of North Carolina; Thomas of Oklahoma, and Walsh of Massachusetts.

Those who "ducked" were Costigan, of Colorado, who absented himself, and McCarran, of Nevada, who entered a pair with the missing Norris.

The eight Democrats who held out against the President on both ballots were Bone, of Washington; Copeland, of New York; Hayden, of Arizona; Long, of Louisiana; Neely, of West Virginia; Overton, of Louisiana; Trammell, of Florida, and Wheeler, of Montana.

A six hours' debate, carrying past midnight, preceded the Senate's action. It required but four minutes for the House to approve the bill after that.

A moment later, at 1:40 a. m., the House voted to adjourn the special session whenever the Senate desired. A few minutes later, the Senate voted to adjourn sine die—and the special session passed into history.

Roll Call in Senate On Veterans' Issue

How Veteran Aid Will Be Reduced By New Orders

WASHINGTON, June 16. — (AP.) — Veterans' aid changes made by Congress this session will depend much on executive orders yet to be issued interpreting the newly-made compensation laws.

In general, cuts will be made along the following lines, according to the best information of veterans' authorities:

MEXICAN WAR

No soldiers living. Widows' pensions of $50 monthly cut 10 per cent.

CIVIL WAR

Soldiers' pensions, service, $75; disability, $90; cut 10 per cent. Widows, $30, $40 and $50 monthly, cut 10 per cent.

INDIAN WARS

Soldiers, $20 to $50 monthly, cut 10 per cent.

SPANISH-AMERICAN WAR

Final compromise provides that all Spanish War veterans over 55, who are 50 per cent or more disabled and who are in need, shall remain on the rolls at a basic rate of $15 a month.

Since the basis of what constituted "need" is to be determined by the President, the entire status of the Spanish War veterans' situation depends upon the executive order.

Compensation will range from $15 to $100 a month, instead of from $20 to $72 as before the economy act.

WORLD WAR

Whereas the first regulations issued by the President under the economy act cut the average veterans' pay from $44.16 to $20.10, the final compromise guarantees that no service-connected case will be cut more than 25 per cent, and the average only 18 per cent.

The economy act regulation cut all presumptives from the rolls, while the compromise sets up reviewing boards to pass on whether or not their injuries were really war-connected, and pending such decision, continues them on the rolls until October 31 instead of cutting them off July 1.

Neuro-psychiatric diseases, if developed within a year from the close of the war, are made presumptive, and tuberculosis, if within two years.

The rate of $30 a month for a widow and $6 for each child of presumptives and service-connected cases was restored, whereas, under the economy act orders, widows were to have been cut to $20, with $4 for each child.

Non-service connected cases were wiped from the rolls entirely, except for the totally, permanently disabled. The flat $20 a month they were to have received under the economy act was raised to $30 by the compromise. Estimate was made that from 90 to 95 per cent of these cases will be dropped from the rolls.

The original Roosevelt regulations were designd to save $420,000,000 a year, while the compromise finally agreed to is expected to trim expenditures by $320,000,000.

Imagination Fails Judge, Liquor Suspect Held

PHILADELPHIA, June 16.—(AP.) — Harry Graisvery was haled before a magistrate after police had seized liquor at his home. The magistrate asked:

"What were you doing with so much liquor?"

He replied:

"Judge, I just moved in the house last week. I guess the fellow who moved out must have left the stuff. Can you imagine that?"

"No, I can," replied the magistrate, and held Graisvery for a further hearing.

INDUSTRIAL ACT SIGNED BY PRESIDENT

the $3,300,000,000 public works provision.

Mr. Roosevelt turned from the formalities of signing the powerful legislation in the presence of the congressional leaders, to summon the aides who have been arranging to get the program going at once.

His ideas will be firmly in the minds of the administrators before Mr. Roosevelt sets out tonight for a two-weeks vacation.

First to be signed was the Glass-Steagall measure, drastically revising the banking system and curbing use of Federal Reserve funds in speculation.

Members of the Senate and House banking committees, who worked for months on this legislation, surrounded Mr. Roosevelt as he penned his name, despite protests that had been received against the bill.

BILL'S PROVISIONS

The legislation provides for insurance of deposits after a period of six months, requires divorcement of security affiliates from banking houses, and allows statewide branch banking in those states which permit brancn banking.

Senator Carter Glass (Dem.), of Virginia, beamed happily as he saw the measure for which he had fought so stubbornly go into the statutes. One of the pens used was proudly fondled by him.

Twenty years ago in the House, Glass battled through the Federal Reserve act as chairman of the House Banking Committee.

He said today:

"This is almost as important as the Federal Reserve act. It supplements and strengthens that act."

Minutes after the bank bill signing, the President received another group and put his name to the industrial measure and subsequently to the railroad legislation.

The latter provides for a federal co-ordinator to guide the carriers through a reorganization aimed at putting them on a paying basis.

GLASS LASHES CUTTING

WASHINGTON, June 16.—(AP.)—With biting sarcasm and fiery gesture, Carter Glass, of Virginia, in the closing hour of the Senate lashed sharply at Bronson Cutting, of New Mexico, for what he called "a wanton and unprovoked attack on me."

Senators sat silent as the southern Democrat, veteran of 32 years in Congress, hammered at Cutting, Independent Republican, with whom a quarrel over veterans' relief had developed into a personal wrangle.

Cutting had started the exchange with criticism of senatorial conferees, headed by Glass, on the veterans' relief issue, holding they had "surrendered everything for which the Senate was in favor."

Adverting to Cutting's profession of esteem for him, Glass recited to the Senate a biblical analogy of Joab and Abner, reminding them Joab stabbed Abner while greeting him as a friend.

Tarentum Man Dies After Fall on Stairs

Joseph Olshewski, 46, of 74 Spruce street, Tarentum, died from a broken neck today in Allegheny Valley Hospital, according to a report to the Coroner. He was injured in a fall down stairs at his home Wednesday night.

Industrial Bill Called Historic By President

WASHINGTON, June 16.—(AP.)—In signing the industrial recovery act, President Roosevelt issued this statement:

"History probably will record the national industrial recovery act as the most important and far-reaching legislation ever enacted by the American Congress.

"It represents a supreme effort to stabilize for all time the many factors which make for the prosperity of the nation and the preservation of American standards.

"Its goal is the assurance of a reasonable profit to industry and living wages for labor with the elimination of the piratical methods and practices which have not only harassed honest business but also contributed to the ills of labor.

"While we are engaged in establishing new foundations for business which ultimately should open a return to work for large numbers of men, it is our hope through the so-called public works section of the law to speedily initiate a program of public construction that should early re-employ additional hundreds of thousands of men.

"Obviously, if this project is to succeed, it demands the wholehearted cooperation of industry, labor and every citizen of the nation."

Earlier in the day, President Roosevelt had thanked Congress for its accomplishments in a special letter sent to both houses at adjournment, praising Congress' co-operation, he said:

"This spirit of team-work has in most cases transcended party lines. It has taken cognizance of a crisis in the affairs of our nation and of the world. It has grasped the need for a new approach to problems both new and old. It has proved that our form of government can rise to an emergency and can carry through a broad program in record time."

Double Killing Remains Unsolved

INDIANA, Pa., June 16.—(AP.)—Mystery surrounding the death of James H. ALLISON, 77, Center Township farmer, and his aged sister, whose bodies were found in the ruins of their burned dwelling on May 14, remains unsolved.

A coroner's verdict said the burning of the farmhouse was "probably homicidal."

TAX LAW PROBE MEMBERS NAMED

WASHINGTON, June 16.—(AP.)—Representative Doughton (Dem.), of North Carolina, as chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, today selected those of its members who will investigate income tax evasions with a view to a program to tighten revenue laws. He said:

"We have put our staff of experts to work and by the January session of Congress we will have plans to stop tax dodging and the escape holes in the law.

"The recent disclosures before the Senate Banking Committee in its investigation of J. P. Morgan and Company and other financiers shows the necessity for such an investigation.

"In addition we want to study ways and means of getting rid of these obnoxious excise taxes and if not repeal some of them, lower them.

"We are going to study the whole field of taxation with a view to working out a better and more simplified means of providing revenue for the operation of the government."

The subcommittee consists of Representatives Sam Hill, of Washington; Cullen, of New York; Vinson, of Kentucky; and Cooper, of Tennessee, all Democrats, and Treadway, of Massachusetts; Crowther, of New York; and Frear, of Wisconsin, Republicans.

While the committee will work during the summer months, it won't begin hearings until November.

Last Training Flight Fatal to Navy Pilot

VITAL CONGRESS ACHIEVEMENTS

WASHINGTON, June 16.—(AP.)—The first Roosevelt Congress accomplished a history-making record of legislation, passing every vital bill submitted by the President and starting the government on new enterprises.

Briefly recapitulated, here is what was done:

Financial Legislation

Took the American dollar off gold, placed the banking system under emergency federal control, canceled all public and private promises to pay in gold.

Appropriated more than $5,270,000,000, most of it for extraordinary expenditures, to be bond issue-financed, and not included in the regular budget. Empowered the President to reduce normal expenditures almost $1,000,000,000 to bring the regular budget to somewhat of a balance.

Imposed new taxes to yield $220,000,000 a year to fund the extraordinary bond issues; continued through 1934 all special excises levied by the previous Congress; enlarged the federal tax on gasoline and transferred the electricity 3 per cent tax from consumer to producer; limited the capital gains and losses provision of income tax law.

Ordered far-reaching revision of American banking methods, limiting the power of private banks, reducing the opportunities for speculation with bank credits, insuring deposits restrictedly and strengthening Federal Reserve supervision.

Put issuance of all securities under federal supervision, inaugurating policy of making seller beware.

Measures for Relief

Authorized country's biggest public construction program, more than $3,000,000,000 worth, to create employment.

Voted first federal large scale direct relief grants, $500,000,000.

Made possible anti-trust law suspension for new industrial policy of government-supervised trade agreements to control production, boost prices, wages an employment.

Approved creation of civilian conservation corps, to employ 250,000 young men at conservation work on $1 a day basis.

Gave Secretary of Agriculture power to boost farm prices through a wide variety of alternative programs, combining most of the farm relief proposals of the past 10 years.

Made available $4,000,000,000 for relief of farmers and homeowners hard-pressed under big mortgage load.

Authorized reorganization of railroads under federal direction.

Other Legislation

Legalized 3.2 beer.

Approved government entry into power business by orderingg operation of Muscle Shoals with federal sale and distribution of current, inaugurating wide-range program of developing the Tennessee River basin as a model rural-industrial area.

Dunn 'Champion' Introducer Of Bills

WASHINGTON, June 16.—(AP.)—Impending adjournment failed to stop Pennsylvania's most prolific bill introducer in the House.

With adjournment only a few hours away, Representative Dunn, of Pittsburgh, blind former state legislator, introduced a measure calling for sweeping upward revision of veterans' pensions and allowances.

School for 2,000 Has 4,000 on Rolls

UTICA, N. Y.—(INS.)—Because there are more than 4,000 students in the Utica Free Academy with seats for about 2,000, the school is being run in two sessions while a committee of citizens is advocating renting space in downtown office buildings and on the roofs of department stores until the city can construct a new high school.

PINCHOT'S AIDE CALLED IN BANK QUIZ

don detailed the manner in which he has been liquidating the state's 142 closed banks under the direction of 42 deputies. He said that authority over the banks was centralized in Philadelphia in the office of one of his deputies, William Louis McGee, and that realization corporations of volunteers among business and financial leaders had been set up in five districts, including Pittsburgh, to act in an advisory capacity to local agents.

The advice of these advisory groups and the wishes of the agents in charge of banks are subject to review by McGee and then by Gordon, who assumed full responsibility for the entire procedure.

"WHOLESALE" DISPOSALS

Drexel & Co. in the east and the First of Boston Corporation in the west have been selected as "wholesalers" for the disposal of securities in the closed banks, Gordon said. These two big firms operate through a list of 97 brokers who have been selected by Gordon.

He explained that the plan enabled him to gather from various banks scattered lots of the same security and sell in the best market. Only one brokerage charge is made to the banks, he said, that being the rate fixed by New York practice, and the fee is split between the larger security house and the smaller broker.

Securities are deposited with either Drexel or the First of Boston to be sold at a fixed price. If this price is not reached within a definite time the securities are returned to the banking department with the suggestion that a new price be agreed upon.

DECLINES INTERVIEW

Though not questioned by the committee on this subject, Gordon said that in some cases sales were made at 75 per cent of the face value, in some cases for par, and in others less than 75 per cent. He said there was no settled practice on the subject.

The secretary of banking, who had been a defensive witness all afternoon, with lengthy explanations in response to every question, declined to amplify any of his testimony or to be interviewed on any subject upon which he had not been questioned. He said he would wait until interrogated by the committee when he next appears.

Committee members appeared satisfied with the mechanics of the system adopted by Gordon, though Senator Shapiro pressed him as to whether there was anything in the banking act authorizing him to set up a central office for handling closed banks. Gordon replied:

"There is not, Senator, but there is nothing which prevents it. This was an emergency, with more closed banks than had been conceived when the act was written."

Shapiro explained to Gordon that he was not making criticisms, and that the Secretary need not consistently assume an attitude of defense.

CENTRAL OFFICE COSTS

Costs of the central office were nine-one-hundredths of one per cent, pro-rated against the assets of all closed banks, Gordon said. This cost was in addition to the costs of individual banks for employes. The central office functions in much the same way as a utility holding company in furnishing "management advice." The costs in money of this office was $420,000 for 19 months.

Gordon insisted that the centralized system was the only proper method of dealing with the emergency. He said that only two banks had been reorganized and reopened, the Washington Union Trust Company and the Homewood Bank at Pittsburgh. He explained:

"These were the only banks which provided sufficient new capital. All wanted to open, but with wooden money so if depositors made withdrawals they would have to close the next day.

The morning session was devoted to a furore over the letter written by McGee to bank examiners asking for a list of notes, if any, which members of the committee or Gen. Martin have in closed banks, and if any effort had been made to settle any obligations existing.

McGee, explaining that he had lived in Pennsylvania for 46 years, and had been employed in the Banking Department while Gen. Martin was State Treasurer, said he understood Martin was a member of the Legislative Committee. McGee said he did not know that Gen. Martin had never been a member of Senate or House.

COMMITTEE LAUGHS

This explanation aroused merriment in the committee hearing room, and members of the committee plainly intimated that they suspected an effort by the Pinchot administration to intimidate the Republican organization controlled committee by dragging Martin into the picture.

McGee said he had discussed the letter with Gordon, but both agreed yesterday that it had been a "foolish move."

There was much speculation as to how the letter came into the possession of the Sun-Telegraph, and Gordon said he would discharge any employe of his responsible, if his identity could be arned. He added that he would rosecute if the case should come under the provision against giving out information about the banking department.

It developed that 150 copies of the letter had been mimeographed and sent to each bank.

The committee, balked in attempting to trace responsibility for the letter beyond McGee or Gordon, was also interested in how it became public. There appeared to be a doubt in the committee's mind whether the divulging of the letter for publication had not been arranged.

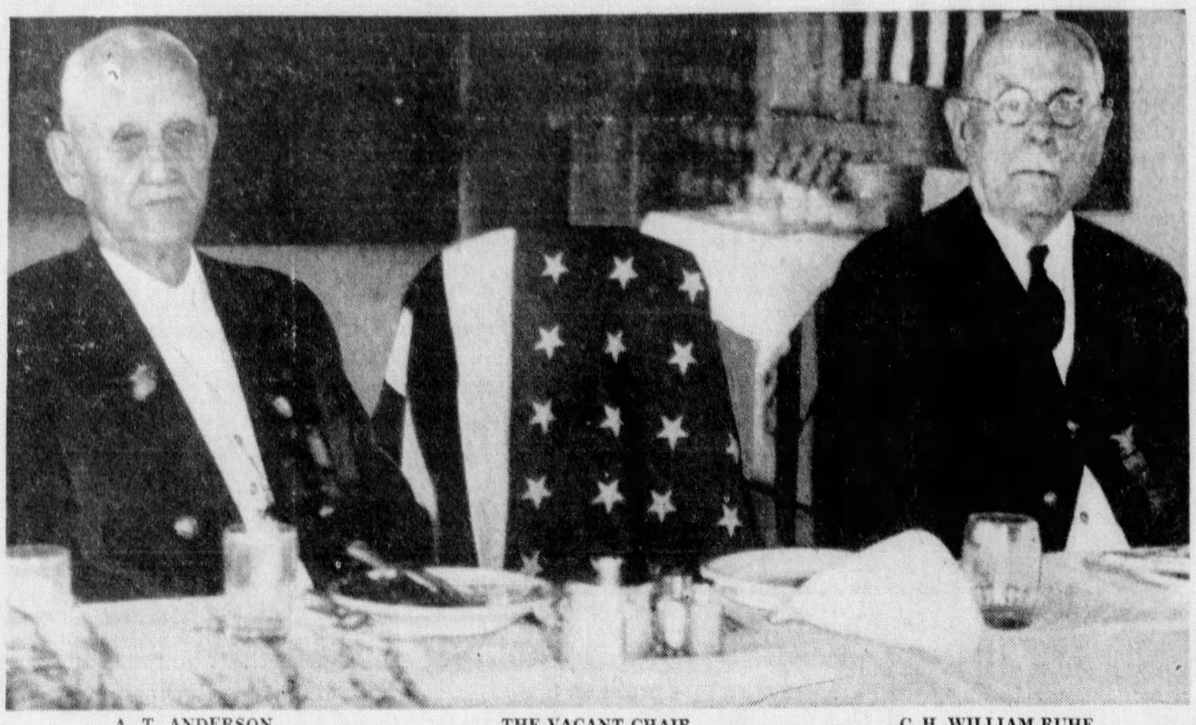
THE VACANT CHAIR FOR G. A. R. COMMANDER-IN-CHIEF



A. T. ANDERSON — THE VACANT CHAIR — C. H. WILLIAM RUHE

CHIEF'S DEATH SADDENS VETS OF G. A. R.

Another G. A. R. encampment—the sixty-seventh in Pennsylvania—has passed into history and the fast dwindling ranks of the "boys in blue" have scattered for another year.

Carrying pleasant memories of another reunion, the tottering heroes wended their ways homeward saddened by the sudden death of their National Commander, Capt. William W. Wright, whose body, reposing in a flag-draped casket, was shipped back to his home near Chicago last night.

The City Post, American Legion No. 59, passed memorial resolutions at their monthly meeting in the William Penn Hotel last night, and Post Commander Ray Lawson and a committee conveyed their sympathies to the newly elected state commander, A. T. Anderson, in person.

The last official business of the reunion yesterday was the election of officers. Besides Commander Anderson, the encampment chose the following:

Senior vice commander, John W. Williams, of Etna; junior vice commander, Louis B. Lomax, of Chester; department chaplain, Rev. E. F. Dickey, of Latrobe; medical director, Dr. L. F. Arensberg, of Uniontown, and council of administration, W. F. Hambright, B. L. Myers, G. W. Gillet, H. T. Greenwood and Jacob Barren.

Appointments of the new commander were as follows:

Assistant adjutant general and assistant quartermaster, S. P. Town, of Philadelphia; department inspector, A. M. Breckenridge, of Oil City; judge advocate, Louis Barger, of Philadelphia; chief mustering officer, Wade J. Day, of Pittsburgh; patriotic instructor, H. E. Paine, of Scranton, and chief of staff, George Gillet, of Pittsburgh.

Garrett Returns, Cites Italy's Amity

BALTIMORE, June 16.—(AP.)—John W. Garrett, retiring United States ambassador to Italy, believes that through an exchange of art and music the Italian and American nations have obtained a more intimate knowledge of the cultural pursuits of both countries.

Garrett returned to Baltimore yesterday from Italy, where he was ambassador during the Hoover administration.

SECURITIES LAW QUIZ ORGANIZES

HARRISBURG, June 16.—The legislative committee created to investigate the administration of the "blue sky law" of the State Bureau of Securities organized today by the election of Senator Frank L. Fay, of Mercer, chairman, and Representative Max Spann, Allegheny, secretary. The other members of the committee are Senators Max Aron, Philadelphia and Andrew J. Sordoni, Luzerne, and Representatives William McElwee, Jr., of Lawrence, and Wilson G. Sarig, Berks.

At the conclusion of the meeting Chairman Fay made the following statement:

"It is the intention of this committee to conduct a complete, fair and impartial inquiry into the manner in which the securities law is being administered. A number of complaints have been presented to the committee and will be studied with the purpose to report to the next session of the Legislature whether remedies in existing laws are necessary or whether the administration has been properly conducted.

"The committee does not intend to confine itself to matters presented to it, but will receive information and suggestions from any citizens of Pennsylvania who may have knowledge relating to the subject under inquiry."

27 in County Fined For Unlicensed Dogs

Fifteen Wilkinsburg residents and 12 in Ingomar were fined $5 and costs after investigations by V. D. Johnson, state officer.

Carmen's Summer Uniforms Cause 'Wisecracks'

Some observed that the carmen waited until the Grand Army of the Republic closed its annual encampment because "maybe they were afraid they would be mistaken for Confederate soldiers."

One carman grumbled that he "supposed" the resemblance to a postman's uniform would mean that he would often be called on to explain that he was not the mailman.

FAMINE REIGNS IN SHENSI

SHANGHAI, China, June 16.—(AP.)—Terrible suffering and widespread death throughout Shensi province from famine were reported in Chinese press dispatches today.

Once this area in Central China was a remarkably fertile wheat growing section, but no rain has fallen in Shensi since 1928, the advices said, and the country has been denuded of "any living vegetation."

Thousands of helpless have died. Others have turned bandit, preying on countrymen not quite so bad off as they. Few farm animals remain.

Cannibalism is widespread, the reports continue. The dispatch said:

"Wolves are abundant in the famine area. They come every night and obtain victims from among the half-starved people."

VOLKS TO BARE MARITAL WOES

Cross divorce suits have been filed in Common Pleas Court by Bernard J. Volk, 316 Ringgold street, McKeesport, and Edna J. Volk, 2414 Riverview avenue, McKeesport. Mrs. Volk seeks only a limited divorce.

Volk, a member of a well-known McKeesport family, and his wife eloped September 1, 1922. According to the bill of complaint of the wife, Volk told her that his parents objected to the marriage and claimed that she only married him for his money.

Volk avers that his wife nagged him. He claims her attitude was one in which she desired to see how much money she could get him to spend. He also claims that she struck him.

Mrs. Volk charges indignities and Volk charges indignities and cruelty.

Ex-Football Star To Face Divorce

RENO, Nev., June 16.—(Universal.)—Suit for divorce against Huntington (Tack) Hardwick, at one time famous as a Harvard football star, will be brought by his wife, Margaret Stone Hardwick, it was learned here today.

Mrs. Hardwick has established a Nevada residence and her action will be filed immediately, it was said.

Pittsburgher Held In Window Thefts

SCRANTON, Pa., June 16.—(INS.)—Roy Julian, 35, giving his home as Pittsburgh, was under arrest here today, charged with burglarizing a local jewelry store.

Police expressed the belief that several window-smashing burglaries in jewelry stores recently will be solved by Julian's arrest.

FROM 9 A.M. to 9 P.M. TOMORROW GIMBEL DAY!

HELEN OF TROY IN U. S. OPERA

NEW YORK, June 16.—(AP.)—A new American opera dealing with the latter years of Helen of Troy will be presented next fall by the opera school of the Juilliard School of Music.

It is entitled "Helen Retires," with music by George Antheil and libretto by John Erskine.

Antheil, a native of Trenton, N. J., has written another opera, "Transatlantique," which has been presented in Germany, as well as much other music. His "Ballet Mechanique" was first heard in America in 1927.

Erskine, noted as an educator, author and musician, wrote "The Private Life of Helen of Troy" and other books.

PITTSBURGHER WINS DEBATE

J. Meryl Silk, of Pittsburgh, is the winner of the "Home Town Speech Contest" at the Chicago convention of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, according to a telegram received here.

The victory makes a silver cup the permanent property of the Pittsburgh Real Estate Board, as this is the third time that a five-minute oration about Pittsburgh has won a national contest.

L. W. Monteverde won at Milwaukee in 1914, and several years later, C. Edward Keck won at Los Angeles. Silk had received honorable mention in several other "Home Town" debates.

WOMAN JAILED FOR PERJURY

Mrs. Florence Watkins, 35, of 9 Van Braam street, today had begun serving a sentence of from six months to a year in jail. She pleaded guilty to perjury yesterday before Judge S. H. Gardner.

She had testified two months ago in a damage suit brought by herself against the Pittsburgh Railways Company that her signature on a release was not genuine. Her arrest was ordered after the jury returned a verdict for the company.

Blames Dope Habit On Physician, Sues

NORTH EAST, Pa., June 16.—(AP.)—A North East widow is seeking $100,000 damages from her former physician, whose treatment, she charges, caused her to become a narcotic addict and thereby lose her position as head of a telephone exchange.

Trial of the action, brought by Mrs. Iola B. Cushman, 45, against Dr. Jeffrey C. Douville, also of North East is in a Mayville, N. Y., court.

KANSAS JUDGE BARS BEER

KANSAS CITY, Kan., June 16.—(AP.)—Beer is not flowing in Kansas today as many 3.2 advocates expected.

John C. Pollock, federal judge and outspoken foe of prohibition, yesterday denied an injunction which sought to restrain law enforcement officials from interfering with the sale of the brew in the pioneer prohibition state. The injunction was sought by a Wichita firm.

Drivers of beer trucks, waiting on the Missouri side of the state line to dash into Kansas if a favorable decision was given by the judge, took their cargoes back to the breweries.

CITY SEEKING TERMS ON SUBWAY

City Council has taken action to learn whether the Pittsburgh Railways Company will operate a subway if one is built.

A committee of three has been appointed to meet with the City Transit Commission and representatives of the railways company to find out if the latter organization will operate an underground rapid transit line, and how much, if anything, it will pay toward its upkeep.

Councilmen appointed on this committee are W. Y. English, P. J. McArdle and George S. Oliver.

Councilman Robert Garland pointed out that it is useless to take a proposition to the government for a loan unless the attitude of the railways company and full details of an operating agreement are available.

Action by Council in approaching the company was urged by George S. Davison, chairman of the City Transit Commission.

L. W. Monteverde, member of the Transit Commission, urged that Council take steps to build the subway from Duquesne way and Sixth street to Craig street, Oakland. The cost of such a project would be $10,600,000, according to Monteverde, of which almost $6,000,000 is available from a bond issue voted by the people in 1919.

McArdle pointed out that the construction of the rapid transit line may be the equivalent, so far as relieving traffic congestion is concerned, of building two new highways toward the East End.

Lieut. Bowser

Lieut. Bowser has been ordered to duty at San Diego, Cal., the West Coast base of the Marine Corps, where he will begin his new duties and be available for service wherever the soldiers of the sea are stationed.

Prior to entering the Marine Corps, Lieut. Bowser attended Crafton High School and later the Naval Academy at Annapolis, from which he was graduated a year ago. He formerly made his home with his father, A. L. Bowser, Sr., 25 Coulter street, Crafton.

JUDGE BALKS AT CUPID ROLE

CHICAGO, June 16.—(AP.)—Probate Judge Malcolm Hatfield, of Berrien County, Mich., has discovered he was elected to a busy job of marrying people, and he intends to take steps to relieve himself of that duty.

Judge Hatfield, on a visit here, announced that he favored repeal of the old Michigan statute permitting the Probate Court to set aside the five-day clause of the marriage license law and to perform marriage ceremonies immediately.

His office at St. Joseph, Mich., he said, was overburdened with marriage duties as couples from Chicago, Indiana and elsewhere learn "the ropes" and flock to St. Joseph for quick marriages. He said:

"This is my first term in office. I didn't realize what I was getting into. I thought the Probate Court was a court for the administration of estates, not a marriage court."

Firm Tells Workers To Go Over Books

AURORA, Ill., June 16.—(AP.)—Employes of the Aurora Cotton Mills numbering about 250 were told they could go over the company's books to see that everything possible was being done for them.

This announcement followed a 16 per cent wage increase, which restored in part cuts which totaled 40 per cent during the financial recession.

Line to Abandon Trolley Service

MONESSEN, Pa., June 16.—Another street car line is going to let the busses carry its passengers. The Webster, Monessen, Belle Vernon & Fayette City Street Railway Company has filed with the Public Service Commission an application for temporary discontinuance of its trolley service. Bus service by the Westside Motor Transit Company will be substituted.

SERUM TO CUT PNEUMONIA DEATH TOLL

MILWAUKEE, June 16.—(AP.)—The possibility of cutting in half the death rate from at least one of the four major types of pneumonia by injection of serum into the veins of patients was announced today before the American Medical Association.

Results of two years of experiments to learn the practical value of the serum treatment for pneumonia, which ranks second as the cause of death among people in early adult life, were reported by Drs. Gaylord Anderson and Roderick Heffron, of Boston, Mass. The tests were made to determine advisability of continuing production of the serum, usually made from the blood of horses by an expensive process.

SUCCESS TOLD

The study showed tha, there were less than half as many deaths among patients treated with the serum for type one pneumonia as among patients not given the serum. It also was fairly successful in treatment of type two, but did not produce so great a reduction of deaths. The serum is usually considered chiefly valuable in treating these two types.

The great problem, now that the serum's usefulness has been proved, the doctors said is to develop a method for wider distribution of the serum, while conserving the supply as much as possible because of its high cost. The serum is manufactured by the Massachusetts State Department of Health.

Serum offers the only practical method of controlling pneumonia, which outranks all other infectious diseases, except tuberculosis, as a cause of death.

EXPERIMENTS CITED

More than half the cases of pneumonia in young people are type one or type two, so it is advised that the serum be given even before it is determined what type has attacked a patient. It must be given within the first four days of the disease, as it is of little value after that time, when the disease has become more firmly entrenched.

The serum tests were made throughout Massachusetts in 15 areas by 63 physicians, chosen to try it on their pneumonia patients and report the results. From 1931 up to May 15 of this year these physicians had treated 431 patients, of whom 218 had type one pneumonia and 51 type two. The death rate for the entire group was 18.9 per cent but among the type one cases the rate was 10.6. In the group of patients not receiving the serum, the death rate was 25.9 per cent, more than twice that of the type one cases treated with the serum.

BROKER SLAIN, GIRL GRILLED

CHICAGO, June 16.—(INS.)—Police today were questioning Miss Diana Hendrys, 27, former chorus girl, in connection with the mysterious murder of Oscar Nelson, former real estate broker found shot to death in his home.

Arrested early today in a restaurant where she was working as a waitress, Miss Hendrys protested that she had not seen Nelson since two years ago when both were arrested in an automobile, the chorus girl being fined $100 for driving while intoxicated. A wealthy divorcee, whose name police refused to disclose, was also being sought for questioning.

Shot four times, Nelson's body was found on the kitchen floor of his home late Wednesday night. Two overturned glasses indicated that he had been shot by someone with whom he had been drinking.

TURNS ON LIGHT, ARRESTED

Because he is alleged to have tampered with light wires, James Reid, 35, was being held in the County Jail today. He has no home, he told detectives.

His arrest followed a complaint by Duquesne Light Company officials that unknown persons were rewiring current into Wilkinsburg homes from which it had been cut off.

Early this morning, County Detective Tom Calig was standing at the foot of a light pole in Center street, Wilkinsburg. Working at the top, he says he saw Reid. A moment later, the lights in a house nearby flashed on. A woman ran out onto the porch and called to Reid:

"Thank you very much."

When Reid came down, Calig arrested him. He is being held pending the filing of charges against him by the light company.

Swanson Furniture Goes Under Hammer

LOS ANGELES, June 16.—(AP.)—Sale of household furniture and equipment of Gloria Swanson, movie actress, at public auction Thursday morning, was ordered yesterday by the Sheriff's office on receipt of a writ of execution from the County Clerk.

The writ is for execution on a Superior Court judgment for $7,625.88 against the actress in favor of W. Jay Saylor, Ltd., furniture dealers.

MISS BERYL TEMPERTON

'QUEEN' OPENS LAUREL FETE

STROUDSBURG, Pa., June 16.—(AP.)—In a picturesque mountain setting made doubly attractive by Pennsylvania's newly-adopted state flower, a queen and her royal court today open the celebration of laurel blossom time in the Poconos.

Designated by Gov. Pinchot as queen of the festival, Miss Beryl Temperton, Beaver College student, reigns for 10 days over a program of pageantry, dances, dinners, receptions, outings beside the laurel, and other forms of entertainment.

Thousands of visitors are expected to roam Monroe County during the celebration to enjoy the mountainsides blooming in laurel, selected at the recent session of the Legislature as the state flower.

Seize Slot Machines In Raids; Two Held

County detectives today reported confiscating four slot machines in two raids in Brownsville road. Two men were arrested, charged before Alderman Thomas A. Flanigan with maintaining gambling devices.

J. McCann, proprietor of a restaurant at 2612 Brownsville road, and William Stormer, proprietor of a store at 2618 Brownsville road, werearrested, detectives said. Two machines were reported found in each place.

Meeting Next Week Honors Judge Smith

A testimonial meeting in honor of Judge Ralph H. Smith, of Common Pleas Court, will be held in Memorial Hall next Friday, at 8 p. m.

Attorney Joseph A. Richardson, general chairman is distributing tickets to friends of Judge Smith throughout the county. Representatives citizens are scheduled to speak.

Dual Mistake Leads To Death of Sleuth

PHILADELPHIA, June 16.—(INS.)—A double mistake today resulted in the death of Louis Moore, 34, a city detective.

Moore was fatally beaten in a fight with John MacDonald, 32, whom he sought to stop for questioning in the belief he was a robber. MacDonald said he thought the approaching detective was a holdup man.

GRADUATIONS SET FOR 4,496 STUDENTS

A series of commencement exercises in the city's senior high, short course business high and junior high schools, will begin tonight and continue through June 27.

VETERANS FLAY LABOR BUREAU

ALLENTOWN, Pa., June 16.—(INS.)—The State Department of Labor was criticized today for its failure to act promptly several years ago against sweatshops in a resolution presented at the Fourteenth annual convention of the Pennsylvania Department, Veterans of Foreign Wars, here.

Resolutions condemning the Khaki Shirts of America, and their leader, Art J. Smith, of Philadelphia, were also presented. It was revealed that Smith and his followers, who have ben labeled "racketeers" by the United States secret service officials, had attempted to "muscle in" on the veterans convention here.

Benjamin Ralsky, of Bradford, the state commander, presided at the business sessions. The state auxiliary met at the same time under the direction of Mrs. Florence Anderson, of Philadelphia.

Mrs. Whitney Gains Following Operation

NEW YORK, June 16.—(INS.)—Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney, social leader, today was recovering from a minor operation performed last night.

"Mrs. Whitney has undergone a minor operation. She is doing nicely," Mrs. Stevens Heckscher, of Philadelphia, mother of the society beauty, announced.

All of said bonds will be dated as of June 1st, 1933, and each issue thereof will mature in twenty (20) equal annual installments on June 1st, of each year. Said bonds will bear interest at the rate of four and one-half (4½) per centum per annum payable semi-annually on the first days of June and December in each year without deduction for any taxes which may be levied thereon by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, pursuant to any present or future law.

Said $500,000.00 Public Welfare Relief Bonds, 1933, are issued to provide funds for providing food, clothing, fuel and shelter for and otherwise assisting residents of the City of Pittsburgh who are without adequate means of support and were authorized by the electors at an election held April 26th, 1932.

Said $300,000.00 Public Work Relief Bonds, 1933, are issued to provide funds for providing supplies, materials, equipment, labor and supervision (including engineering expenses) for the improvement of streets, parks, playgrounds, wharves, sewers, water lines, bridges, and other public properties of the City of Pittsburgh, the labor to be provided from among the unemployed and were authorized by the electors at an election held April 26th, 1932.

Said $100,000.00 Water Works Improvement Bonds, 1933, are issued to provide funds (including engineering and other necessary expenses) for the replacement of steel water main on Smallman street, the replacement of one Allentown Water Tank and for other Water Works activities and are issued by Councilmanic authority.

Said bonds will be coupon bonds of the denomination of One Thousand ($1,000.00) Dollars, exchangeable at the option of the holder at any time for a registered bond or bonds of the same maturity and of the denomination of One Hundred Dollars ($100.00) or a multiple thereof not exceeding the aggregate principal amount of the coupon bond or bonds surrendered in exchange therefor.

Unless all bids are rejected the said bonds will be sold to the highest responsible bidder complying with the terms of sale. No bid for such bonds at less than par and accrued interest from the date of said bonds to the date of delivery will be accepted. The right is reserved to reject all bids and any bid not complying with the provisions hereof will be rejected. Any bidder may condition his bid upon the award to him of all or none of the bonds for which he bids.

All bidders are required to deposit a certified check drawn to the order of the City of Pittsburgh, on a National Bank or Trust Company for two per centum (2%) of the principal amount of bonds bid for. Checks of unsuccessful bidders will be returned upon the award of the bonds. No interest will be allowed upon the amount of the check of the successful bidder and such check will be retained and applied in part payment for the bonds or to secure the city against any loss resulting from the failure of the bidder to comply with the terms of his bid.

The City of Pittsburgh reserves the right to deliver to the successful bidder temporary typewritten or printed bonds, in the form of one temporary bond for each issue, or one bond for each maturity of each issue, which shall be substantially in the same form as the definitive bonds, with appropriate omissions, insertions and variations as may be required. Until their exchange for definitive coupon bonds, the temporary bonds shall be in full force and effect according to their terms, and shall bear interest from June 1st.

Proposals should be addressed to James P. Kerr, City Controller, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, and enclosed in a sealed envelope, marked on the outside "Proposal for Bonds." Bids must be made upon blank forms which may be obtained from the City Controller.

The successful bidder will be furnished with the opinion of Messrs. Reed, Smith, Shaw and McClay, of Pittsburgh, that the bonds are binding and legal obligations of the City of Pittsburgh.

JAMES P. KERR,
City Controller.

Dated, Pittsburgh Pa., June 8th, 1933.

SEALED proposals will be received at the office of the City Controller, first floor, City-County Building, Pittsburgh, Pa., until 9:00 o'clock A. M., Eastern Standard Time, July 6, 1933, and will be publicly opened and read in Council Chamber one hour later, for the printing of official city advertising for a period of three years beginning July 9, 1933.

Contracts will be awarded to the lowest bidder agate measure per line each thousand of circulation, the basis of circulation to be the average daily sales exclusive of Sunday, semi-weekly and/or tri-weekly issues; also (exclusive of all credits for the return of unsold papers and newspapers distributed free of charge) all such newspapers for six months next preceding the month in which said advertising may be published.

Contracts will be let to three daily newspapers of the City of Pittsburgh published within the County of Allegheny, one of which shall be a daily newspaper published in the German language, for a term of three years from July 9, 1933, and each of such contracts shall be subject to the appropriation or appropriations which may be duly made by the City of Pittsburgh each year respectively for the payment of the same, and in no case shall a contract be made involving the expenditure of a greater amount than that so appropriated.

The successful bidders will be required upon the request of any department of the city government to furnish it not to exceed one hundred copies of any issue of such newspaper containing advertisement relating to the business of such department.

All proposals must be accompanied by a bond of two freeholders of Allegheny County, probated by the City Clerk or Assistant City Clerk, or the bonds of a surety company which has complied with the Ordinances for furnishing bonds for City contracts in the amount of fifty (50%) per centum of the total bid, and must be approved by the Mayor. The Mayor reserves the right to reject any and all bids.

PRINCESS HERE GIVES SALAD RECIPE

A Princess worked in a Pittsburgh kitchen.

The Princess was none other than Alexandra Kropotkin, of Russia, now a New York columnist.

Famous for her receipes, the Princess prepared a salad for a luncheon in her honor yesterday at the H. J. Heinz Company. She is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Bell, of Sewickley.

She called the salad "Impromptu" and offered the following receipe:

Two cups of kidney beans, three-fourth cup of diced cucumber, six olives, a teaspoonful and a half of chopped onions, one half cup of shredded lettuce, one-half a tomato, teaspoonful of salt, a dash of pepper. One half teaspoonful of sugar, one-half teaspoonful of Worcestershire sauce, one-half teaspoonful of prepared mustard, two teaspoonsful of mayonnaise, one-half teaspoonful of malt vinegar and three tablespoonsful of olive oil. Place the salad in an icebox to cool.

The princess suggests that the salad be servd with thin brown bread and iced tea.

Princess Alexandra was born in London, where her father spent 41 years of exile from Russia because he befriended the peasants. When the World War broke out, the princess returnd to her father's home, and there she lived throughout the war and the revolution.

Speaking about the various forms of governments, Princess Alexandra said:

"Monachy doesn't belong to our days."

Princess Alexandra married in New York City, and there she applied her knowledge as a cook which her mother had taught her in London. There is one rule which she demands her cooks observe:

"I am allowed to be in the kitchen as much as I want."

CUBA ACCEPTS WELLES AS MEDIATOR

HAVANA, June 16.—(AP.)—The Cuban political atmosphere, supercharged for months with an intense feeling that often threatened to flare into revolution, was considerably cleared today with the ABC secret society's announcement it would co-operate with the American Ambassador's efforts to re-establish peace.

It was learned also that President Machado, whom the society has bitterly opposed, has agreed to mediation by Summer Welles, the American Ambassador, and that students and professors, many of whom have been anti-Machado, were likewise disposed to back Welles.

TO FREE PRISONERS

The ABC, in a memorandum to Welles, said it would refr. from violence against the constituted authorities. The decision, reached after a poll of its 15,000 members, indicated a rupture with a revolutionary junta in the United States, and was understood to have been taken with the tacit approval of a semi-affiliated group, the OCR—Organisacion Celular Radical Revolucionaria.

To carry out the peace negotiations, it was indicated, the President will soon sign decrees freeing several hundred political prisoners.

GIVES STAND

The ABC Memorandum said in part:

"* * * This organization infers from statements that the mediation would imply nothing more than the friendly effort of a friendly government to re-establish in this republic peace based on justice and on the desires of the nation, hence not detracting from its sovereignty.

"* * * The ABC therefore * * * declares it contracts to take pains to see that the mediation comes about loyally and with regard to the authentic ideals and interests of the Cuban people, confiding in the sense of justice of the mediator * * *

"The ABC * * * reserves the right to withdraw from the process of mediation * * * if this should be excessively prolonged, or if it assumes a trend * * * contrary to the interests and ideals of the Cuban people."

SEEKS DIVORCE SECOND TIME

Married twice, her nose broken twice by her husband, according to her testimony, and twice a mother, Mrs. Mary Snyder Reineman, 615 South Braddock avenue, told in court today of her husband's alleged cruelty in her suit for divorce from Howard M. Reineman, claim agent for the American Sheet and Tin Plate Company.

Mrs. Reineman testified before Judge John P. Egan that she was first married in 1925. She and her husband were divorced in 1931, she testified, but remarried again a short time later when they were about to receive a second visit from the stork.

HEIRESS, BROKE, HELD IN THEFT

LOS ANGELES, June 16.—(Universal.)—Georgiana Moore, 22, who in seven months descended from riches and a palatial Brentwood Heights mansion to hunger and the county jail, today is to appear for preliminary hearing in Municipal Court on charges of burglary and forgery.

Today in her cell she told of the misfortunes and temptations that led to her downfall after she became estranged from her millionaire mother, Mrs. Beatrice Moore, and left the family home last November and lived with a girl friend.

She is charged with breaking into a home in Brentwood Heights and receiving goods there from a downtown store, for which she paid with a forged check.

Miss Moore's father, Thomas Ewing Moore, once secretary of the legation at Rome, now resides in London.

SPILLED FLOUR TRAPS SUSPECT

His finger prints on flour that had been spilled on a bottle of ginger ale were responsible for the detention of John S. Ymansky, 20, of 188 Thirty-sixth street, detectives testified in Central Police Court today.

He is one of three youths alleged to have stolen two telephone pay station cash boxes and two soda mixers from the Butler Pharmacy, 3701 Butler street, recently, police said.

The bottle with the fingermarks was turned over to detectives by a clerk. Ymansky denied the charge. He was held for further investigation.

Land Bank Officer's Successor Appointed

MACON READY FOR NAVY DUTY

AKRON, O., June 16.—(INS.)—Formally recommended for preliminary acceptance by the Naval Board of Inspection and Survey, the U. S. S. Macon will leave for Lakehurst, N. J., navy base late next week, it was announced today.

The announcement of the board, which is headed by Admiral George C. Day, stated that the trial flights of the giant airship had been satisfactorily completed, and that the craft would be placed into active naval service.

In accordance with the custom of the Navy Department for all new government crafts, final acceptance of the Macon cannot be made until the ship has been in active service for at least six months.

A final inspection of the Macon, which recently completed its 48-hour endurance test flight, will be made by Navy inspectors and attaches of the Goodyear-Zeppelin Corporation, builders, before the ship takes off for Lakehurst next week.

Narcotics and their relation to crime was discussed by Raymond D. Evans, assistant United States district attorney, before a meeting of the Frank R. Kirk Post No. 145, American Legion of Crafton, last night.

FAMED OUTLAW KIDNAPS SHERIFF

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., June 16.—(AP.)—Two men, identified by Bolivar citizens as Charles "Pretty Boy" Floyd, notorious Oklahoma outlaw, and Adam Richitti, kidnaped Sheriff Jack Killingsworth, of Pork County, from in front of a garage at Bolivar, Mo., today.

The identification of the two desperadoes was made by Joe Richitti, mechanic at the garage.

He said his brother Adam, accompanied by Floyd, stopped to have some work done on their automobile.

Richitti said the sheriff stopped in for a chat. He was forced into Joe Richitti's automobile by the two men.

Richitti said his brother Adam had been a companion of Floyd in many of the bandit's ventures.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., June 16.—(AP.)—Search for the slayers of Sheriff Roger Wilson and Sergt. Ben Booth, of the state highway patrol, centered in the heavily wooded section of South Callaway County today.

Col. B. Marvin Casteel, superintendent of the patrol, has at his disposal for a concerted drive on the supposed hideout of the three men sought, two National Guard companies, state patrolmen, airplanes, peace officers and volunteers.

The officers were slain Wednesday near the business district of Columbia, seat of the University of Missouri, when they sought to question three men concerning a bank robbery at Mexico, Mo., a short time before.

Bandit Gang Robs Bank in Arkansas

Fewer Accidents Laid to Drinking Motorists

HARRISBURG, June 16.—(INS.)—Motor vehicle accidents caused by intoxicated drivers during May were less than in the corresponding month of 1932, but the number of intoxicated pedestrians involved in mishaps was higher than that of a year ago, Department of Revenue figures showed today.

Operators were reported intoxicated in 57 accidents last month as compared with 75 accidents in May, 1932.

Pedestrian intoxication in connection with motor mishaps increased from 28 in May, 1932, to 42 for last month.

CURLEY LAUDS FEDERAL JOB PROGRAM

NEW YORK, June 16.—(Universal.)—A plan for the rehabilitation of New York City's finances has been evolved by President Roosevelt, and will be divulged at the "opportune time," it was revealed by Mayor James M. Curley, of Boston, just before he sailed with his family for a six-week vacation in Europe.

As one of the first politicians to espouse the Roosevelt candidacy, and as president of the Mayors' Association of the United States, Curley is reputed to enjoy the President's confidence.

Pressed for details, Mayor Curley declined to give any, but a few moments later said:

"I know that the President believes that cities should be permitted to go into bankruptcy as one of the best means to set their house in order."

Curley paid a glowing tribute to William Randolph Hearst for his advocacy of a nation-wide public construction program, which has since been adopted by the Roosevelt administration. The Mayor said:

"Three years ago Mr. Hearst said the only salvation of the country lay in labor and construction. President Hoover then regarded it as suicide, but now Roosevelt is working out just such a plan.

"Six years ago we were carrying on a public works program in Boston and matters were adjusting themselves in fine shape. In 1932 the Hoover administration ordered curtailment of public expenditures and our home relief expenses immediately rose 150 per cent."

Bankruptcy Relief For Cities Supported

WASHINGTON, June 16.—(Universal.)—In the opinion of President Roosevelt, the only avenue through which municipalities in financial distress may obtain relief is through amendment of the bankruptcy laws to permit scaling down of their debts through court orders.

The President has made this plain to Mayor Curley, of Boston and the heads of other large American cities who have been frequent callers at the White House in behalf of relief for their municipalities.

A bill by Representative Sumners (Dem.), of Texas, provides that with the consent of 30 per cent of its creditors, a city may go into the courts seeking an agreement through which its obligations may be revised downward. Such agreement would have to receive approval by 75 per cent of the creditors.

BANKS SEEKING U. S. CHARTER

WASHINGTON, June 16.—(INS.)—Following enactment of the Glass banking bill, the Federal Reserve Board has received a considerable number of applications from state non-member banks for admission into the system.

Officials pointed out today that certain advantages are given the member banks and that this will attract many of the strong state institutions into membership.

In acting on applications for admission to the Reserve System, the board is carefully considering the assets offered by the banks in order that they will conform to the standards of what is expected eventually to be the unified banking system.

Many experts took the view that the results of the Glass bill will be the unified banking system advocated by many high government authorities for several years.

U. S. ASKS NEW $25,000,000 BID

WASHINGTON, June 16.—(AP.)—The administration approved plans today to call for bids on $25,000,000 of public building 45 days from now, in addition to a like amount on which bids are now being sought.

Postmaster General Farley and L. W. Robert, assistant secretary of the Treasury, sanctioned the arrangements.

Robert told reporters that in addition to the $50,000,000 already certain to be spent on postoffices, federal buildings, courthouses, immigration stations, etc., another $50,000,000 would be thrown on the market in 90 days, assuring that the government would seek to have $100,000,000 of new buildings under way before October.

Congress Quits Too Soon for Ellenbogen

WASHINGTON, June 16.—(AP.)—Congress adjourned just two days too soon for Representative-elect Ellenbogen, of Pittsburgh, to change his title to Representative.

Ellenbogen tomorrow will have been seven years a citizen and thus eligible to take his seat. He will present himself to take the oath when Congress convenes next January.

Germans Restore Colossal Crucifix

NUREMBERG. — (INS.) — The colossal crucifix from St. Laurence's Church, Veit Stross' masterpiece, has been rstored and is now exposed in the Germanic museum here in commemoration of the four hundredth anniversary of the artist's death.

Three coats af paint and a bronze covering, put on in the nineteenth century had to be removed to bring the sixteenth century masterpiece to its original condition.

Congress Average On Bills One Per Cent

Eighty-one of the approximately 8,100 bills introduced were passed by both houses. Thirty-five of that number originated in the Senate.

Both houses also passed 10 joint resolutions.

Approximately 2,000 bills went into the Senate's hopper, while 6,000 were introduced by Representatives.

STATES TO GET LOAN HEADS

WASHINGTON, June 16.—(INS.)—The new home owners' loan corporation created by Congress with $2,200,000,000 backing will name a general manager in every state in the Union to bring relief to mortgage-ridden home owners, Chairman William F. Stevenson said in a statement put in congressional records today.

The announcement was accompanied by a warning that the federal agency can refinance only a small part of the home mortgage indebtedness of the country, which has reached the astounding total of $20,000,000,000. Stevenson said:

"There will be a general manager for the corporation established in each state, with sufficient employes to handle the business, whose location will be well known and applications to such manager should be made by mail or personal call for blanks to fill out, making applications for loans to take up mortgages in existence."

If the application indicates the loan is one that can be made, an appraiser will be immediately assigned to value the properey, he said.

MEET OPPOSES AUTO TAX

WASHINGTON, June 16.—(AP.)—The American Automobile Association opened its thirty-first annual convention here today in a militant mood against what it considers "tax exploitation of car owners."

Thomas P. Henry, of Detroit, president of the association, said that in addition to making plans for "opposing new tax raids," attention will be given to steps for eliminating driving hazards and controlling reckless drivers.

A statement formulated by the association said:

"Taking place at a time when the Congress has just added $62,000,000 a year in gasoline taxes to the $200,000,000 in federal excise levies already paid annually by motorists, and when the threatened imposition of $30,000,000 in motor taxes in New York City is causing widespread alarm, the convention will draft a definite program to fight further tax exploitation of car owners."

COUNTY TO PUSH LOAN PLEA

Another trip to Washington will be made next week by Allegheny County representatives to determine just what bearing the public works bill will have on the tentative application the county has made for a $21,000,000 federal loan. It is believed that loans under the new bill will be more liberal than under the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

The County Commissioners, their engineers and solicitors, yesterday discussed the various projects to be included in the public works program. Attending the meeting were James S. Rae, retained by the Commissioners to negotiate the loan, and Assistant County Solicitor Churchill B. Mehard, who has been working with Rae.

P. T. A. LAUDS QUIN HALL PROGRAM

Radio programs of questionable educational value to children were protested by the Pittsburgh Council, Parent-Teachers Associations, yesterday at its closing meeting of the season in the Board of Education building.

Reports from 24 local Parent-Teachers presidents, the presentation of new officers and plans to sponsor six children's plays at Schenley High School were the other matters considered.

A letter repared by the radio committee, which objects to children's radio programs emphasizing crime, murder mysteries and detective stories, was read by Mrs. J. F. McWilliams, chairman. Copies will be mailed to the National and Columbia broadcasting chains, public, parochial and private school officials in the county and local radio stations. It reads in part:

"There are many programs on the air at the present time which result in harmful stimulation to our boys and girls, programs with emphasis on crime, murder mysteries, detective stories of wrong caliber.

"Those of us who are in a position to see the children during these broadcasts hear their comments, know their immediate reactions, as well as sense the reactions which will follow, know that something must be done to substitute a better type of program."

Quin Hall's "Junior Patrol" program which is broadcast weekly over Station WCAE, was highly praised by Mrs. McWilliams. The program can be heard every Wednesday from 4:45 to 5:15 p. m. It is broadcast in connection with Hall's comic strip "Jnior," which appears daily in the Sun-Telegraph.

The Pittsburgh Council voted to sponsor six children's plays this winter at Schenley High, which will be given by the Children's Theater Company of New York.

HEDGE LEAVES HELD RUBBISH

Hedge trimmings have been ruled within the scope of the city rubbish contract by Dr. W. W. McFarland, Director of Public Health.

Householders who have been puzzled to know what to do with their hedge clippings may pass them on to the American Reduction Company and the Allegheny Garbage Company, which are paid by the ton for removing them.

Dr. McFarland has drawn the line, however, at taking tree limbs.

UNION HONORS ROOSEVELT

"Franklin Delano Roosevelt" will be the name of a newly-organized lodge of boilermakers and plate-steel welders union if permission to use the President's name is granted.

The lodge was made necessary by the present condition of the boilermaking industry, according to James G. Sause, acting business manager. The organization will represent the workers in all dealings with the employers.

Survey Shows Rome 'Younger' Than N. Y.

NEW YORK, June 16.—(AP.)—Old Rome is younger than that youngster New York—in a sense. Figures published by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company show that 56.84 per cent of Rome's population is under 30, while New York's percentage is only 53.02. Tokio is the "youngest" of the world capitals, with a 67.07 per cent under 30.

Westminster Dean Quits After 25 Years

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., June 16.—Dr. Charles Freeman, Westminster College faculty member since 1894, has resigned as Dean of the College effective next fall. Dr. Freeman, head of the chemistry department, will devote all his time to his instructional work.

Dr. Freeman has been dean for 25 years and twice was acting president.

Blairsville Man Killed by Truck

INDIANA, Pa., June 16.—(AP.)—Run down by a motor truck on the William Penn highway, Arthur Marsh, 23, of Blairsville, was killed. Donald Eicher, 24, of Oliver, Fayette County, driver of the vehicle, and Carmen Gismondi, 24, also of Oliver, were arrested.

Gen. Balbo's Own Story Of Flight to U. S.

officers to study the situation at the Aleutian Islands, one of the most difficult zones of the trip. Later, on account of the long war between China and Japan, which would have rendered inefficacious a winged embassy of peace and progress throughout the world, I had to abandon this idea.

Cost Involved

On the other hand, the European and world crisis, which had become everywhere more acute, was being felt also in Italy. It was necessary to study a less costly flight. The following year, in 1932, an Italy-to-United States flight was decided upon, which would bring about, for the few bases to be organized and for not having to change motors, a much lesser expenditure of energies and means.

For more than two years, that is to say since 1930, the school of navigation of Orbetello, in which studies and experiences for collective flying over the high seas are concentrated, has been functioning. This is a practical school in which various officers develop a precise task and all collaborate for better results of enterprises in the course.

We admire the individual crossings and "exploits" of great aviators, but we consider them superseded by the necessities of time and by progress. The Atlantic is crossed today also by tourist planes. From this repetition and each attempt no lesson and no demonstration already known are derived.

Massed Flights

Innovation can only come from transportation in a mass of planes from one continent to another across oceans. Aviation units like navies can confront the problem of transportation by entire squadrons. Italy, with the Atlantic flight from Rome to Brazil, has given proof of these possibilities.

I maintain that by means of this aviation policy, which I effected for the first time in the world, aviation can accomplish gigantic strides in all directions—for progress of machines, for training navigators, and for meteorological organizations, mathematical and technical, which are still too sufficient.

The type of plane selected by me for the actual crossing is the same as that used for the South American flight. The hydroairplane has been subjected to many performances which have made it without doubt the best in the world. The S-55X Savoia-Marchetti has both greater control and greater speed than the preceding machine. A thoroughly proven Italian motor, the "Ace 750," an Isotta Fraschini, has been installed in the plane. This motor has been tested in action for 500 hours on the block and in flight.

Vibration Curbed

In the S-55X plane reduction gears have been abolished, eliminating the inconvenience of the vibrations which gave us troublesome fractures in the radiators in the preceding flight. Moreover, also because of the problem of vibrations, metal propellors have been adopted.

The present plane has gained 50 kilometers more in velocity. It reaches a maximum speed of 280 kilometers an hour and, for the flight itself, an average of 220 kilometers an hour.

Following our aviation policy, I have selected all the crews, not from among the aces and not according to exceptional titles, but keeping in mind best points gained by each one in the units, both for qualities for officers and for experience in flight. The major part of the participants in this flight come from land planes. Only one part of the personnel is formed by veteran pilots of Atlantic hydroairplane flying. In total, the crew aggregates 100 men.

Experts Aboard

Each plane carries a first and second pilot, a radio telegraphist, and a mechanic. In my plane there is the technical officer of the Orbetello school, who will suggest to the other planes by radio, in case of emergency, remedies to be taken urgently for any material trouble that develops.

In other hydroairplanes, three reserve officers travel to provide for every doubtful eventuality.

I have selected for the first part of the crossing, the route of the North Atlantic because it is richest on protected points between Europe and North America. Aerial communications that will be established between the old and new world must consider this fact seriously, at least during the summer months.

Our stops are Amsterdam, Holland; Londonderry, Ireland; Reykjavik, Iceland; Sandwich Bay, Labrador; Shediac, New Brunswick; Montreal, and Chicago.

To Cross Alps

The first leg of this trip is hard because it includes crossing the Alps and Europe, a difficult voyage for hydroairplanes. From Londonderry to Reykjavik and from Reykjavik to Labrador one invariably encounters fog. . .Our planes are provided with all the most modern instruments for flying fog and the pilots are very well trained in blind flying, but we propose to avoid fog banks for hundreds and hundreds of kilometers to avoid the peril of formations of ice on our wings.

For this service we obtained the services of six whaling boats distributed between Iceland, Greenland and Labrador. Aboard them we have placed our own officers and Italian scientific experts with the necessary instruments for meteorological and aereological readings.

I have also provided for an emergency at Julianhahb, Greenland.

I think that, technically, it is not possible to do more than we have done for organization of an aerial enterprise of this kind. I will even say that the most difficult work has already been accomplished. It is a case now of executing what we have conceived and prepared.

Takes No Risks

We are attempting to go to America with a squadron of 25 large hydroairplanes. It is a military squadron that is accomplishing a civilian mission. We believe that we have to our credit, after the work already accomplished, a sufficient percentage of success.

I have said we are attempting to go to America. In case of exceptionally contrary atmospheric conditions, rather than take mad risks, I am determined to order the squadron to return to Italy.

On our tricolor wings we bring the salute of Italy to the great people of the United States at a moment in which all civilized countries are preparing definite resolution of the grave problems left as an inheritance from the World War.

AUSTRIAN LOAN TO AID FIGHT ON NAZIS

By EDWARD L. DEUSS
International News Service.

LONDON, June 16.—Jubilant over his success in obtaining promises of a loan from Britain, France and Italy, Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss, of Austria, started back to Vienna today to resume his battle against the Nazis.

Taking off from Croydon Airport in his private airplane, the diminutive fighting chancellor, who won the sympathy of delegates from many nations, headed for Paris, where he will stop en route.

TO MEET BONCOUR

There he will put the finishing touches on the 300,000,000 schilling loan he has obtained for Austria. The loan amounts approximately to $35,000,000. He is scheduled to confer in Paris with Foreign Minister Joseph Paul-Boncour.

The loan that Dollfuss negotiated is the same which was promised Austria at the Lausanne conference last [illegible] change for abandonment [illegible] an Austro-German [illegible]ms union.

The loan, however, was never floated owing to French socialist objections.

WILL FIGHT UNION

Dollfuss, whose government is involved in a bitter battle with Nazis aiming at Austrian union with Germany, conferred lengthily with Finance Minister Georges Bonnet, of France, last night.

It was made plain that the loan will be used to prevent a possible Austro-German Anschluss, for which the Nazis are working, and that the nations subscribing to the loan are determined such a union will not come into effect.

GERMAN DEBTS ACCORD NEAR

LONDON, June 16.—(AP.)—Negotiations between Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, representing debtor Germany, and experts of various creditor countries, including the United States, regarding short term credits are nearing conclusion, it was said in official quarters today.

It was understood that an agreement had been virtually concluded and an official communique was expected shortly.

When the short term problem has been cleared up, Dr. Schacht, president of the Reichsbank, expects to proceed with negotiations regarding long term credits.

Representatives of creditor nations have been closeted with Dr. Schacht nearly a week in a financial district many miles away from the World Economic Conference, where Germany looks forward to alleviation of her shattered export trade.

BOY FACES JURY IN PARK SLAYING

PHILADELPHIA, June 16.—(AP.)—Moving toward speedy indictment, six-foot-six Richard Bach, 23, gets a hearing today on a charge of murder in the slaying more than five months ago of 19-year-old Rose McCloskey.

Regarded as another unsolved crime until Bach's arrest, the case developed rapidly yesterday following the announcement of police that Bach had confessed.

The body of the young saleslgirl was discovered in a secluded spot in Fairmount Park last January 5. A few hours earlier, her escort, Dennis Boyle, had been found wandering about the street in a dazed condition. He collapsed and it was several days before he could tell what had happened.

Hindenburg Vote Manager Jailed

BERLIN, June 16.—(AP.)—Guenther Gereke, President von Hindenburg's campaign manager in last year's elections, was sentenced today to 30 months in prison and fined 100,000 marks (currently $28,480) by a court which found him guilty of embezzlement.

Wisconsin Banks Get Big R. F. C. Loan

WASHINGTON, June 16.—(INS.)—The federal government moved today to ease the acute banking situation in Wisconsin with an advance of $35,000,000 from the R. F. C. to the farm credit administration, Gov. Henry Morgenthau, Jr., announced today.

YOUTH HELD IN AUTO DEATH

Following the death of an auto accident victim, August Sicora, 17, of 811 Hazel street, McKeesport, was recommended held for the grand jury on a manslaughter charge at a McKeesport inquest today.

Testimony revealed the victim, Joseph Bianco, 37, of 726 Shaw avenue, McKeesport, was struck by Sicora's car in McKeesport, June 3. Sicora did not bring his car to a stop until 150 feet beyond the body, it was testified. Bianco died June 4.

rivaled by the decorative faces they present to the world. Ireland's "Life of Napoleon" in blue levant from the Bayntum bindery of Bath is embellished with miniatures of Napoleon's family and his important battles. The aquatints by George Cruikshank in this volume of 1828 are formal and an incredible contrast to his hunting prints and his Dickens accompaniments. Dickens in the parts as they were first issued and other items also feature Cruikshank's graphic comments.

Various books with fore edge paintings, that baffling trick of painting scenes on the edge of the leaves, indicate their period as early nineteenth century. A majority of them are landscapes showing kinship with Constable's paintings of English cathedrals set in friendly landscapes.

Leigh Hunt's "The Town" with its rich gallery of eighteenth century celebrities in engravings has a charm that separate engravings do not project.

The craftsmanship in the binding and in the tooling of the leather is an important contribution as decorative art.

Empties Goldfish Bowl, Jailed For Rum

He dumped the "fishwater," he said at a court hearing, out of a window, drenching Charles Nichols, city liquor bureau officer, who was posted outside.

Officer Nichols wrung out his wet coat for a sample of "alcohol," he said. Virden was arrested for maintaining a liquor nuisance.

"Fishwater," the judge said. "Case dismissed."

TRADE BODY'S TOUR ENDS

Their trip, marred by an accident to the bus they were using near Wheeling, the 30 Chamber of Commerce good will delegates returned to Pittsburgh late yesterday, the first of four two-day tours of the Pittsburgh trading area completed. The tour took the businessmen to Morgantown, Fairmont, Grafton, Clarksburg and Wheeling, W. Va., and Washington and Waynesburg, Pa. Walter Rosenbaum was chairman of the group. The tour ended in Wheeling, where the Pittsburgh visitors were entertained at a luncheon.

None of the delegation was in the bus when it crashed into a brick wall in a parking lot, but the journey into Wheeling was delayed.

SUNDAY SHOW TO AID COX

There will be no evening show, the program running from 1:30 o'clock to 6 o'clock p. m. The only requirement, as usual, will be donations of food, and, it might be added, that Father Cox has hundreds of poor families waiting and wanting donations of this kind. Manager William Hoch of the Plaza promises a big and exciting show.

Father Cox is in Allentown, Pa., today attending the state convention of the Veterans of Foreign Wars. He has been chaplain of the Pennsylvania branch of this organization for several years and devotes much of his time to the aid of these veterans, giving them personal counsel, helping with their compensation papers, and visiting the inmates of the Veterans Hospital. Unlike other state chaplains Father Cox makes an annual report of his activities for the veterans. He is presenting this report at the convention today.

In the meantime Father Cox is forging ahead in his campaign for subscriptions for the Sun-Telegraph. He is having an unusually successful week along this line. Every subscription that comes in through his efforts or on the blank on this page brings him a liberal cash commission for his daily bread line and unemployment relief fund.

Goodwill Seeking Summer Clothing

The Pittsburgh Goodwill Industries are in search of summer clothing and bathing suits. All previous records have been broken this summer for the appeals received for lightweight wearing apparel, according to the Rev. Dr. Albert G. Curry, director.

Goodwill will make collections of apparel in response to telephone calls.

BAR TO PROTEST 'CHASING'

BEDFORD SPRINGS, Pa., June 16—(AP.)—Enactment of criminal laws against "ambulance chasing" will be recommended to the Pennsylvania Bar Association at its thirty-ninth annual sessions opening June 21.

The association's committee on civil law, assigned to investigate solicitation of cases by laymen, will report that no civil remedy is available and that "the matter calls for a criminal statute."

Clarence E. Martin, president of the American Bar Association, is among speakers scheduled for the three-day meeting.

ECONOMY HITS C. M. T. C. HERE

More than 1,500 Allegheny County youths, who have applied for enrollment in Citizen Military Training Camps this year face disappointment, as a result of an economy move by the government, it was reported by Army officers here.

Headquarters of the 3d Corps Area in Baltimore, including Pennsylvania, has announced only 1,500 of the 4,300 youths trained formerly would be sent to camps this summer. As a result of this order only former C. M. T. C. students will be accepted for enrollment.

There are more than 2,000 applications in Allegheny County alone, and approximately 1,500 of them are new applications.

ARREST LOOMS IN ATTACK ON WARD

Juvenile Prober Bares Accusations Against Blawnox Man

Judge Benjamin Lencher, of Juvenile Court, today was expected to ask for the arrest of a Blawnox man, accused of attacking a girl, now a ward of the court, as a result of the investigation into the home conditions of the wards.

The attack is said to have occurred before the girl became a ward of the court. It is said the girl fears the man, who posed as her stepfather, would attempt to gain custody of her, when she attains 16, the age at which she ceases to be a ward of the court.

Affidavis obtained by Leo Riordan, chief county investigator, state the man induced the girl's mother to desert her husband and elope with him from Cleveland seven years ago. They took the woman's four children with them to Chicago. Later, the mother died and the children were brought to Blawnox.

The girl now 15 and a brother were placed in foster homes through the Juvenile Court. It was while investigating conditions that Riordan learned of the attacks, which it is said occurred before the girl was placed in the foster home.

JOSEPH NAMED JACOBY AIDE

Announcement has been made by Wilmer M. Jacoby, publisher of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, of the appointment of Charles H. Joseph, of Pittsburgh, assistant publisher.

Mr. Joseph

Mr. Joseph has spent the greater part of his life in this community, and for the past 25 years has been associated with Frank & Seder as sales promotion manager and publicity director. Prior to that time he was engaged in general advertising work for Pittsburgh stores.

In connection with his other duties, Mr. Joseph has edited a local weekly and contributed syndicated articles and features to the daily press.

Mr. Joseph assumes his new duties immediately.

JEWELER FINED IN GEM AUCTION

H. Eisenberg, of 2013 Wightman street, proprietor of a jewelry store at 404 Smithfield street, was fined $50 with the option of 30 days in the workhouse by Magistrate T. D. Jones in Central Police Court today.

Representatives of the Better Business Bureau testified Eisenberg was conducting an auction sale without a city permit. Eisenberg said he paid a $200 pawn brokers' license and didn't know he was obliged to pay a special fee for holding an auction.

Fireman Knocked From Keating Truck

Swept from a fire truck by a tree limb while answering an alarm near Ross station, James Gilbert, 33, a member of the Keating fire department, suffered a broken arm late yesterday.

He was hurled from the truck, police said, when John Etter, driver, turned out to the side of the road to pass another machine.

THE DINNER: CHICKEN, ASPARAGUS, HOT BISCUITS

THE TABLE FOR FOUR . . . SALAD: TOMATO ROSE

THE DESERT: HOME-GROWN STRAWBERRIES, CAKE

Spring Chicken and Angel Food Cake Included

Four persons can actually banquet on food costing less than $1.50, a housewife friend of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph has proved to Mrs. Oliver J. Haller, president of the Congress of Clubs.

Mrs. Haller is one of the judges of the Prudence Penny Prize Menu Contest in which Sun-Telegraph housewife readers are competing weekly for $100 in prizes.

Mrs. Haller was honor guest at the home of the friend of the Sun-Telegraph, who, not as an entrant in the contest, but just to show what could be done with $1.50 provided the following menu for four persons:

Half Spring Chicken
Giblet Sauce
Mashed Potatoes Asparagus
Tomato Rose Salad Hot Biscuits
Sugared Strawberries
Angel Food Cake
Coffee
Assorted Nuts

And after providing that fare for Mrs. Haller and three others and re-checking her actual costs, this housewife found she could have added waffles to the menu and would still have been safely inside her alloted meal budget of $1.50.

SEASONABLE BUYING

Seasonable buying was the secret of her success with this dinner, the housewife explained, and although not a contestant she said the shopping for the ingredients, their preparation and the final result was just as much a pleasant game to her as it is being for the hundreds of Pittsburgh district housewives who right now are stacking their skill and ingenuity against each other in one of the most practical contests ever staged by a newspaper.

Mrs. Haller, who with Mrs. Cyrus Trompetter, chairman of the home economics committee of the Pittsburgh section of the Council of Jewish Women, and Mrs. Mary T. Horan, president of the Pittsburgh Council of Catholic Women, are the judges of the Prudence Penny Prize Dinner Menu Contest, said she was even more intensely interested in the contest after actually eating a sample dinner.

BEST GRADE FOODS

Explaining to Mrs. Haller that she bought only the best grade fresh food products, the housewife friend of the Sun-Telegraph analyzed her foods costs as follows:

Two spring chickens, 66⅔ cents; potatoes, 5 cents; asparagus, 10 cents; tomatoes, 8 cents; cheese, 8 cents; lettuce, 1 cent; biscuit material, 5 cents; strawberries, 5 cents; material for angel food cake, 16 cents; coffee, 4 cents; cream, 7 cents, and nuts, 5 cents, making a total of $1.40⅔.

The margin under $1.50 would have easily provided generous helpings of crispy waffles, the housewife explained, and when the meal was finished she pointed to a leftover consisting of more than half of an angel food cake. The fact that whole angel food cake cost only 16 cents for material is explained by the present low price of the best fresh eggs, the principal ingredient of such a cake. Truly remarkable things can be done with $1.50, Mrs. Haller agreed with her hostess.

In another part of today's Sun-Telegraph will be found the rules for this interesting contest and an entry blank. Menus for the first week's contest must be mailed before next Tuesday at midnight.

THREE MAYORS ATTEND PICNIC

Several hundred McKeesport city employes and their families attended the annual picnic held yesterday at Renziehausen Park, Versailles Township.

Mayor John Herron, of Pittsburgh; Mayor George H. Lysle, of McKeesport; Mayor J. R. McVey, of Clairton; Councilman W. Y. English, of Pittsburgh, and H. H. Renziehausen, of McKeesport, spoke at the gathering. Leo W. Altmyer supplied the watermelons. The affair was sponsored by McKeesport merchants.

Ninth Ward Schools Picnic at Kennywood

Ninth Ward public schools are picknicking today at Kennywood. Also the Lincoln, Larimer, Penn, Shakespeare, Lucky and Snodgrass schools. Refreshment tickets given the children insure plenty of ice cream cones and bottles of pop. A free circus act will be shown the children.

Club's Caddy Master Granted Divorce

Raymond Martin, caddy master at the Churchill Valley Golf Club, was granted a divorce by Judge A. B. Reid today from Stella Martin, on the ground of desertion.

GIRL INJURED IN AUTO LEAP, ESCORT HELD

Skull Fractured by Early Morning Jump From Speeding Car

Her skull fractured in a leap from the speeding automobile of her companion in Perry highway early today, a 22-year-old North Hills girl was in a critical condition in the Suburban General Hospital. Her companion was held without bail pending outcome of the girl's injuries, according to police.

Police said the girl, Anna Koval, employed as a domestic on a North Hills estate, leaped from the machine of Joseph Reichel, Jr., 28, of 3824 Windsap road, near the home of her employer, early today. She was removed to the hospital by Reichel, where her condition was said to be critical.

Anna and her sister, Mary, 23, of 1325 Orchlee street, had spent the evening with Reichel at Kennywood Park, according to Mary. Reichel, who, Mary said, had been her "boy friend" for two years, left her at her residence about 1 a.m., saying he would drive Anna home, Mary revealed.

RALLY PLANNED BY DEMOCRATS

Steps will be taken to increase the Democratic registration in McKeesport at a mass meeting tomorrow night at 8:30 in the Penn McKee Hotel. Speakers will be Representatives Thomas Gallagher and James L. Quinn and Attorney William McNair.

W. D. Falkenstein, M. E. Goldberg and James Graver are sponsoring the meeting, contending that increased strength of the Democratic party will result in better government through the creation of a real two-party system in Pennsylvania.

SAFES AT MINE, STORE LOOTED

Safes in a Penn avenue motor parts company office and in Castle Shannon were opened by burglars last night, according to police reports.

About $400 was taken when the office at the No. 2 Mine of the Pittsburgh Terminal Coal Corporation in Castle Shannon was entered and the safe opened.

The office of the Superior Motor Parts Company, 5614 Penn Avenue, was broken into, but the amount of the loss was not determined.

Dollar Booted Around Europe, Dime Good Here

—By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER—

While the American dollar is being kicked around Paris, Berlin and London, it is still going strong in Kansas City and Buffalo.

Here's the dope sheet on our other coins:

New Orleans: The dime opened slow, but rallied. At closing time it compared favorably with a glass of beer.

Boston: With both teams near last place, the silver quarter attained great strength. It is now good in either league.

Los Angeles: The half dollar is now accepted as legal tender. The movie stars used to use 'em to cap milk bottles.

St. Louis: The penny is in great demand in school yards, parks and playgrounds. Good for a lollipop on any stock exchange in the world.

CITY CASH SAFE, SAYS KERR

City deposits in banks other than the Pennsylvania Trust Company and the Franklin Savings and Trust Company are all properly guaranteed with bonds, according to Controller James P. Kerr.

The city's deposits in 33 banks total slightly more than $8,000,000. All of the institutions but two, according to Controller Kerr, have posted bonds approved by the Clearing House committee as surety for the city money.

In the Pennsylvania Trust Company the city has $1,075,000 secured by approximately 250 notes of individuals, including several well known politicians. City officials have expressed the belief that a large part, if not all of the money, will be paid back.

The city also has $172,000 in other restricted banks and $291,000 in closed banks, according the records at the City Treasurer's office.

Falls From Roof, Fractures His Leg

Samuel Pavlovich, 62, of 711 Jerome street, McKeesport, was in the McKeesport Hospital today with a fracture of the leg suffered when he fell through the roof at his home last night, according to a hospital report.

FACTS SOUGHT IN EVASION CHARGES

Gulf Oil Head Already Named in Two Suits For Over 7 Millions

Charges that Andrew W. Mellon, former Secretary of the Treasury, and his nephew, William L. Mellon, evaded income tax payments are being investigated by Department of Justice Agents, according to an Associated Press dispatch from Washington.

Attorney General Cummings admitted that the agents were in Pittsburgh looking into the charges brought by Representative McFadden, of Pennsylvania, and the basis for the two suits for recovery of income taxes brought by David A. Olson and A. R. Knight, of Lansdowne, Pa. Olson is a former counsel for the Senate Banking Committee and Knight a former manager of the Gulf Oil Company in Philadelphia.

The Attorney General said:

"We have begun an investigation of the Mellons and their companies in Pennsylvania. We are not concerned with suits that have been filed, but are seeking the facts."

Twenty-four hour separated the filing of the two suits, both of which are directed against William L. Mellon, president of the Gulf Oil Corporation. Olson's suit was filed Wednesday, that of Knight yesterday.

Knight asks that judgment be entered against Mellon for $5,205,325.88, double the amount of the tax evasion alleged in his statement of claim. The Olson suit charged evasion of $2,020,131 and seeks judgment in double that amount. Under an old federal statute the complainants stand to receive half the amount of taxes the government recovers.

SUITS ALIKE

In many respects the two suits are almost identical, only that Knight's covers a longer period. Mellon was served with notices of the suits by Deputy United States Marshal D. A. Goldman at his offices in the Gulf Building. The new suit was entered by Attorney Morris L. Marcus, of Pittsburgh, associate of Attorney David Stock, of Philadelphia, counsel for Knight.

The latter avers that Mellon did not pay taxes on 73,000 shares of common stock of the Gulf Oil Corporation, which he alleges were delivered to Mellon by the corporation for compensation for services performed for the corporation, in addition to cash compensation, during the years 1926 to 1930, inclusive.

STOCK VALUES

The stock at the various periods of alleged delivery had a market value of $7,734,214, according to the statement of claim. Knight avers that Mellon in his income tax returns did not make return on the stock, but instead claimed deductions of by reason of interest charges on money he represented as being owed by him to the corporation.

Knight avers that Mellon in 1931 claimed a deduction of $344,673.43 and $362,221.30 the following year.

Mitchell Tax Trial To Jury Wednesday

NEW YORK, June 16.—(AP.)—The case of Charles E. Mitchell, who is charged with evading $850,000 income taxes, will go to the jury Wednesday.

After Alfred E. Smith and other prominent men had testified yesterday that they considered Mitchell's reputation for honesty and right dealing to be good, both sides rested. The trial was then adjourned until Monday.

Health Managers To Name Officers

Officers will be elected today at the fourth annual convention of the National Association of Accident and Health Managers which opened yesterday in the Keystone Athletic Club. The delegates will be entertaned tonight at the Summit Hotel, Uniontown.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., June 16. Well, I had a tough time communicating with you all today. I first wrote one demanding the other ninety per cent of the debts. Then I got to thinking that maybe we better grab the ten per cent before they changed their minds. So I finally decided that Roosevelt would just have to handle it alone, I refuse to enter into it. A debt argument is just like a religious one, it's a mighty good thing to stay out of. Everybody's mind is made up already.

Will Rogers

When that little New England Yankee Calvin Coolidge said, "They hired the money, didn't they?" he covered all the ground.

Yours, WILL.

GIRL CONFESSES OLD SLAYING

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., June 16.—(AP.)—Chief of Detectives James A. Pitcock, announced yesterday that Helen Spence Eaton, freed a week ago from a prison sentence for the courtroom killing of her father's slayer, walked into his office and confessed the slaying of a Greek restaurant owner at Dewitt, Ark., more than a year ago.

The typewritten confession, which Pitcock said bore the 20-year-old girl's signature, gave as the reason for her admission that she was "haunted in her sleep" because of the slaying of Jim Bohots, which occurred the night of February 5, 1932.

Pitcock quoted her as saying that she left Bohot's employ because of his attentions and that he had threatened to kill "my boy friend" if she didn't cease meeting the latter. That night, she said, she went with Bohots four miles out of Dewitt in his car. There, she was quoted by Pitcock as saying, Bohots renewed his attentions to her and she drew a pistol and shot him.

JOBLESS GROUP HELD IN RAID

In an effort to curb petty thievery in the neighborhood, a squad of police swooped down on shacks and underground furnaces on a former mill site at Twenty-ninth street and the Allegheny Valley Railroad last night and arrested 29 jobless men.

Charged with vagrancy, the men were arraigned before Magistrate Thomas D. Jones and fined $25 or 30 days in jail. Police said they received reports of numerous petty robberies in the district.

DELAY HEARING OF EMPLOYER

Hearing for L. B. Samuels, owner of the National Mirror Company, of Springdale, charged with violation of the women's employment act, was postponed indefinitely yesterday by Justice of the Peace E. C. Shoop, of Springdale, when it was learned Samuels was out of town.

State Labor Inspector B. F. Davis filed information against Samuels charging he employed women more than 10 hours a day.

BRETHREN END ANNUAL MEET

HAGERSTOWN, Md., June 16.—(AP.)—The Young Peoples Union of the Pennsylvania Conference, United Brethren Church, had adjourned today after selecting Chambersburg, Pa., as next year's convention city.

In the final address last night, the Rev. O. T. Deever, general secretary of Christian education of the church, said women have more influence on men than all ministers and challenged women to lead clean and pure lives.

Drive on Loiterers Nets 25 on Hill

Twenty-five men and women, mostly Negroes, were arrested by Center avenue police last night and early today in a campaign against loiterers. The "cleanup" was made in an effort to stop petty thievery in the region.

'Bad Boy,' Only 99, Runs Away from Home for Aged

Sam Rothstein, who is only 99, disappeared yesterday. Eight hours later, while attendants were frantically searching for him, he strolled back, clad in bathrobe and black skull cap, explaining he had felt like going places.

The attendants had got excited because a year ago Sam ran away, went swimming and was almost drowned.

Seize Slot Machines, Arrest Cafe Man

Confiscation of two five-cent slot machines in a restaurant at 2307 Forbes street resulted in the arrest of Jerry Boulas last night, according to Constable John Ridge. Boulas will be arraigned today before Alderman Louis Wicks, of Oakland.

'FIREBUGS' HERE LINKED IN CASE

CLEVELAND, June 16.—(AP.)—The assertion that Ray I. Turk negotiated with members of a Pittsburgh arson ring is before a jury hearing his trial in connection with the Ellington apartment fire that killed 13 persons last June.

County Prosecutor Frank T. Cullitan charged in his opening statement that $15,000 in insurance had been taken out on the stock and equipment of the American Beauty and Barber Supply Company, located in the apartment building.

Cullitan declared an explosion of a combustible fluid occurred preceding the fire, and that the liquid had been placed in the beauty supply company's quarters so as to "feed" the flames.

Turk is charged with murder and arson.

OHIO TO ADOPT SALES TAX

COLUMBUS, O., June 16.—(AP.)—Passage of a 2 per cent sales tax by the Ohio House of Representatives is predicted by administration leaders as a result of Gov. White's purported approval of two highway assessments remitting bills.

The sales tax is the key measure in the administration program for relief of financially distressed schools and the unemployed.

Speaker Frank Cave says House leaders will announce Gov. White's approval of the highway assessment repayment bills soon.

Consideration of the Governor's program is under way and two of the measures, re-enactment of the cigaret tax and diversion of $2,000,000 of state highway construction funds, already are approved.

In the Senate the Finance Committee pursued plans to bring the $30,209,731 biennial budget bill to a vote early next week.

Read this GREAT REVIEW—

"When Ladies Meet" a hit. It may be humanly impossible to produce a 100 per cent perfect picture, but we'll shout from the housetops that "When Ladies Meet" is 99 per cent above criticism. The superb flawlessness of it runs through every department. What is more remarkable, the picture gives every promise of being as emphatic a success at the box-office as it is obviously an artistic triumph. The business "When Ladies Meet" will do is as easy to forecast as the election of Roosevelt. Ann Harding gives the finest interpretation of her career as the wife. Myrna Loy is making faster progress than any young actress in Hollywood today. Robert Montgomery eclipses his previous best as Jimmy. "When Ladies Meet" is the answer to a showman's prayer.

—Hollywood Reporter

THIS PROPHECY HAS COME TRUE!

It is a custom in Hollywood to preview important motion pictures immediately after they have been completed at the studios. The first showing of "WHEN LADIES MEET" was a memorable occasion. The audience actually cheered at the conclusion. Predictions were made that it would be one of the year's greatest pictures! That prediction has come true!

JOBS KEEP STEP WITH BUSINESS REVIVAL

Additional proof that the business revival in the Pittsburgh district and throughout the state is established is given by Dr. A. M. Northrup, secretary of the Department of Labor and Industry.

Declaring that unemployment is on the decline in the state, Dr. Northrup pointed to the "optimistic" improvement in the steel industry here and the return of workers in the oil fields and refineries at Oil City.

Other highlights in the industrial upswing, as viewed by the labor department head, include gains in railroad transportation, renewed construction activity and increased production in the textile industries.

CARLOADINGS MOUNT

In line with the mounting freight carloadings on the Pennsylvania Railroad in this territory is the company's announcement that less than a carload freight "materially increased" during May, especially at the Pitcairn transfer. Nearly 200 men are now employed at this point, the announcement said.

Bearing out reports that the industrial advance has been mirrored in the retail and wholesale markets, W. H. Ochiltree, head of Ochiltree Electric Company, announced today the concern's sales last month were the highest in its history. The company is the distributor of General Electric kitchen appliances in the Pittsburgh district. Ochiltree said:

"Sales in our territory are continuing at the May rate. The upturn in general business conditions, coupled with the fact that many home owners had put off buying home appliances, we believe is responsible for the increased sales."

OIL FIRM EXPANDS

Announcement of a $100,000 expansion project by the Canfield Oil Company at Coraopolis was announced. The company will start work July 1 on a huge still of latest design and 13 storage tanks, which will increase the capacity of the Coraopolis plant 50 per cent, according to R. W. Helm, superintendent. He stated that so far as possible all new equipment and material will be purchased in Pittsburgh.

Helm attributed the need for the expansion directly to increased confidence in future business conditions. He said:

"New equipment to keep in step with the best practice is really a necessity. Inventions and the latest refinements of certain scientific processes require the replacement of what was considered the last word not so long ago."

ELIZABETH REILLY, 17

'PERFECT' PUPIL GETS 40 A'S

For the second time in its 10 years history, Langley High School is boasting a pupil with a perfect record—Miss Elizabeth Reilly, 17, of 2934 Glenmawr avenue.

A silver loving cup, presented by the school, marks her attainment of 40 A's in her high school course. With only 40 marks available, Elizabeth never received a rating below "A" in her four years.

TWO INDUSTRIES HERE MAPPING 'NEW DEAL'

Leaders in the coal and steel industries today were reported to have made progress in their attempts to organize the tristate district under the national recovery act.

PLAN GIVEN U. S.

The Associated Press reported that Ben Grey, of New York, executive vice president of Central Coals Association, representing operators in the tristate district, has laid views of the northern operators before Gen. Hugh Johnson, administrator of the program in Washington.

The southern operators in the National Coal Association also have before them similar plans.

Another dispatch from Chicago says a code to govern the soft coal industry will be presented to the National Coal Association today by 10 operators.

PAY RAISE LOOMS

The association's convention today turned its attention to discovering new uses and ways of selling coal.

Meanwhile, the Associated Press says, a final decision on a wage increase in the steel industry, effective July 1, will be postponed until the industry has adopted its code.

Executives working with the American Iron and Steel Institute are said to have made substantial progress, although uncertainties over sections of the bill have slowed progress.

$23,000 Diamond Loot of Gunmen

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., June 16.—(INS.)—A 12½-carat diamond, valued at $23,000, and another ring, valued at $1,500, was the loot obtained by bandits who held up Ralph Huffman and his two sons, Ralph, Jr., and Robert, 7, late last night.

The 12½-carate diamond was taken from Huffman's finger as he drove into his garage.

Swissvale Youth Reported Missing

Police today are searching for Robert Himes, 22, of 2308 Woodstock avenue, Swissvale, who disappeared from his home yesterday. He is 5 feet 11 inches in height, weighs 120 pounds, and walks with crutches as his left leg is missing.

Postoffice Labor Fight Goes to Court

A fractional dispute in the Plasterers' Union, Local 31, was to be aired today in court as a result of a minority group being unable to obtain work on the new postoffice building.

A faction headed by H. B. Frazier had asked for an injunction against the Aronberg-Fried Company, general contractors, and business agents of all trade unions employed against interference with the plaintiffs obtaining work.

WIFE OBJECTS TO 19 MOVINGS

During 29 years of their married life they moved 19 times, Mrs. Daisy F. Schueler, 7219 Race street, testified before Judge A. B. Reid in asking a divorce from George F. Schueler, confectionery store owner in Lithgow street.

Mrs. Schueler testified that her husband used violent and obscene language in front of their daughters and friends. She also said that he drank to excess and struck her several times. They were married March 27, 1904. She charges cruel and barbarous treatment and indignities.

EXCHANGE RULE TIGHTENED

NEW YORK, June 16.—(AP.)—In furtherance of its campaign for accounting practices which may be understood by stockholders, the New York Stock Exchange has taken steps to prevent "unsound" writing down of assets by companies whose shares are listed on the exchange, it was disclosed today.

Corporations which would increase capital surpluses through a change in the par value of their stocks are now required to state whether they have any intention of charging off assets against these surpluses.

In compliance with this stand the Park & Tilford Company, International Hydro Electric system and Kresge Department stores, in applications for listing which were approved, stated that they had no intention of writing down the value of capital assets.

Somethin' Worth Stealin'!

It's a Gimbel Special Shirt

"She carried the daisy chain at Vassar," Louie the Dope reminisced as he toyed with the Von Gotrocks studs, appraised at a cool $10,000, "but she couldn't buy me a shirt in a drawerfull." The clock struck twelve. And, as if by some strange and mystical coincidence, Light-fingered Larry pulled out something soft and lustrous and held it to the light. "Pickin' shirts is a man's job," said Larry, pointing to the label.

Ever been robbed? Ever bought a "one-time shirt" that a wash-tub could shrink from your size to a midget's in a single Monday? Swear you'd never do a dumphool thing like that again? Gee, we'd like to have you try one or two or three Gimbel Specials—if you aren't already a rabid rooter for them.

Sewickley hostesses, noted for their hospitality, are entertaining at a number of charming small affairs for the out-of-town golfers here for the Allegheny Country Club's eighth annual invitation tournament today and tomorrow. The women are playing today, by the way, rain or no rain.

Mrs. W. C. Robinson, Jr., entertained in her home with a dinner last night for the visitors; Mrs. Lewis A. Park will give a tea this afternoon in her home, and tomorrow night Mrs. J. Bernd Rose, Allegheny's woman's golf chairman, will give a farewell dinner in her home.

Luncheon will be served at the clubhouse today and tomorrow. And the golfers will pay a visit tomorrow, too, to the Sewickley Gymkhana in the Allegheny Country Club horse show ring.

The benefit that is to have more varied attractions than a three-ringed circus, the West Penn Cot Club's benefit, scheduled for June 23 at the Fox Chapel Golf Club, has been postponed to Wednesday, June 28.

Postpone Benefit

I have some more news about the event. Mrs. Earl Robertson will be chairman of the beer garden, with Mrs. F. C. Irish as vice chairman. Their aides include Mrs. Daniel M. Clemson, Charles A. McClintock, the H. Joseph Holmeses and Dr. and Mrs. Heinz Langer.

Others in charge of this popular phase of the benefit, to start with a bridge in the afternoon, are the Raymond Ford Morelands, the John H. Ricketsons, the III, the J. Hanson Roses, Andrey Avinoff, the Paul B. Dickeys and the John W. Lawrences.

Direct Bridge

Miss Dorothy Keller is chairman of the bridge committe, with Mrs. Thomas R. Hartley, Mrs. H. H. McClintic, Mrs. Wallace Hurtte Rowe, Mrs. W. Lusk, Mrs. William H. McNaugher, Virginia Crawford and Mrs. James D. Hailman.

Among those who'll model in the fashion show are Willa Smith, Mrs. W. F. Weaber, Mrs. Wilmer M. Jacoby and Virginia Wright.

The Chester B. Storys, of the Dithridge apartments, will motor to Boston this week-end to attend the graduation Monday of their son, Winship Whittemore Story, from Tufts College. He has studied areonautical engineering. His father will attend the thirtieth reunion of his class at the same college.

Miss Ochiltree Is Married to C. W. Fulton

At 8:30 o'clock last evening in the Sixth United Presbyterian Church, Miss Margaret Ann Ochiltree became the bride of Charles Watson Fulton. The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Ochiltree, of Jackson street, and the bridegroom is a son of the Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Charles D. Fulton, of Beaver. The bridegroom's father and the Rev. Dr. A. R. Robinson, pastor of the church, officiated.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of ivory satin, made with a long-sleeved jacket of the satin from which extended the court train. Her veil of tulle was finished with tulle arranged in a turban effect and caught with orange blossoms. She carried white roses and lilies of the valley.

Her attendants all wore quaint high-waisted, bouffant skirted white organza frocks, made with short, full sleeves lined with white taffeta. Miss Emma Ochiltree, her sister's maid of honor, wore a hat with the crown made of yellow flowers, and a wide brim of white mohair, and carried a muff of yellow flowers. The bridesmaids wore hats and carried muffs of Dresden flowers.

The Rev. James Blackwood, of Cleveland, was best man, and ushers included William Campbell, Joseph McEwen, Robert Watson, of Pittsburgh; the Rev. Dean McBride, of Dayton, O.; William Gamble, of Butler, and William Andrews, of Beaver.

The bride's mother wore ashes of roses chiffon and the bridegroom's mother chose blue lace. Both had shoulder corsages of orchids.

There was a reception in the Ochiltree home after which Mr. and Mrs. Fulton left by motor for the East. After July 1 they will be at home in Beaver.

Members of College Club Keep Active Despite Windup of Season

By MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG

A glance at the College Club calendar scarcely permits you to believe that the season is supposed to be over in the club world. The membership activities alone, not to mention a number of other affairs are keeping the women busy. Mrs. George M. Swan, the president, is entertaining the campaign committee at her home in Inverness street this morning at 11:30 o'clock, and after reports there's to be a buffet luncheon. New members will be guests of honor.

Then next Friday there will be another committee meeting, the place for which has not been selected, and on the thirtieth, Mrs. K. R. Cunningham will be hostess at luncheon in her country home, "The Log Cabin," on the Dorseyville road and the applicants of the preceding two weeks will be honored.

Mrs. Albert S. F. Keister has organized a team of professional members who are to have Friday night dinners tonight and next week as their part in the drive.

One hundred and twenty-five members are working on the membership teams under the captaincies of Mrs. H. Lloyd Cleland, Mrs. Howard B. Smith, Mrs. Lawrence H. Miller, Mrs. Joseph H. Bowman and Mrs. Ralph Leavenworth.

The garden party in Mrs. Nathaniel Spear's home is another event of this month. It's to be on the twenty-first and the entire membership is invited.

ALFONSO WON BY CHARM OF SON'S BRIDE

PARIS, June 16.—(AP.)—The opposition of former King Alfonso of Spain to the marriage of his son, the Prince of the Asturias, and a Cuban girl of unequal rank is vanishing, friends said today.

The one-time monarch is almost ready to approve the marriage, and may even attend the wedding, they declared.

The radiant happiness of the young couple, and the charm of the girl, Edelmira Sampedro, daughter of a wealthy Cuban merchant, is said to be melting Alfonso's heart. The former queen is described as being very happy about it all.

The royal family is expected to acknowledge the bride as a member, assuring acceptance by the monarchists.

June 23 has been tentatively set for the ceremony, to be conducted in Lausanne. This has several sentimental reasons to commend it—the couple met on the twenty-third of one month, and were engaged on the same date of another.

The last legal uncertainty was cleared by the approval of the Spanish government to the name Count De Cavadonga, adopted by the prince after he had renounced the title of Asturias and his right of succession.

He will be married under his new name.

The succession, meanwhile, is expected to pass to his brother, Juan, instead of Jaime, because of the latter's ill-health.

BANK CLOSINGS LAID TO R. F. C.

DETROIT, June 16.—(INS.)—Refusal of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to grant a large loan to the Union Guardian Trust Company of Detroit brought on the Michigan bank holiday which precipitated the recent national bank moratorium.

This was the testimony of M. C. Taylor, deputy state banking commissioner, yesterday as Judge Harry B. Keidan launched his one-man grand jury inquiry into the Detroit bank crash.

Taylor declared that William A. Comstock declared the bank holiday early in the morning of February 14, "under pressure" from Federal officials. He named three of the Federal officials as Arthur A. Ballantyne, under-secretary of the treasury, Alfred P. Leyburn, chief bank examiner of the Chicago Federal Reserve district, and John K. McKee, chief examiner of the R. F. C.

COUNTY PARK FAIR SET

Allegheny County will stage a three-day fair, stock show, horse show and athletic meet in South Park August 31, September 1 and 2, it has been agreed by the County Commissioners. A committee of citizens to pass on the exhibits and entries and handle all the administration features is to be named.

The resolution was presented by Chairman C. C. McGovern, who within 10 days is to report on the approximate cost of erecting exhibit buildings and shelters.

MOTHER OF THE BRIDE MUST LOOK YOUNG, GAY AND SMART

ON A BRIGHT June day, the bride goes up the aisle, very lovely indeed. But just before her a little procession has gone to take places in the front pews. The mother of the bride, the mother of the groom and the families. The dresses the mothers wear must be as charming in their own way as the bridal gown with its great train and its veil. This is a day on which a mother must be charming and gracious and beautifully turned out. Everything should be planned long in advance.

* * *

ON THE morning of the day all the mother's energies will be devoted to final preparations and to the dressing of the angel child. Her own gloves, slippers, stockings, hat and bag, carefully selected long before, should be laid out the night before, so that she may dress in peace and be as calm and as radiant as her daughter. The time is gone forever, we trust, when a mother was expected to look the part in a bonnet-and-shawl sort of way. Daughters have changed all that. They want their mothers to look as smart and as young as they can. They want them to dress appropriately and certainly smart, as you will see from the sketch above which was made at a large and important wedding here recently.

* * *

On the right is a dress of grey chiffon, emphasis on the back in this season's pet manner. Fan shaped accordion pleats are set in below the knees, giving the skirt a swinging movement, very graceful for the walk up the aisle. The wispy jacket has the same pleating it veils the top which has an evening decolletage. Around the waist is twined a royal blue velvet sash. The large leghorn hat is a protection if a tear is to be shed and the flowers are gallantly gay

* * *

Soft pastels in the print of the lefthand ensemble are strikingly accented by magenta velvet hat, very becoming to grey or white hair. This dress, has a simple neck, high in the front, low and V in the back, promising for it an infinite number of future wearings. The three quarter length jacket has long sleeves, making the whole costume eminently suitable for the wedding day.

Important Mineral Salts In Green Vegetables

Leafy Plants, Served in Salads and Cooked Furnish Elements Which Combat Tendency Toward Acidity

United States Senator from New York,
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

Leafy greens served as vegetables are deservedly popular during the spring and summer. Many of these plants grew wild and our forefathers ate them in their unrefined state. Cultivation has changed these vegetables slightly, but many are still unaltered. It is unfortunate that so little use is made of these vegetables, for they are easily obtained, inexpensive and healthful.

For example, fennel leaves are an inexpensive form of greens. The seeds are used as flavoring for cookies and buns. They have a spiciness similar to anise. The common garden fennel, also known as sweet fennel, is cultivated chiefly for its leaves.

Fenel is used in salads and for garnishing meats of fish. Many cooks tie bunches of fennel together, boil them and serve as a vegetable with other foods. This green is particularly popular in Italy. It grows wild as a weed in California.

Do not confuse fennel with "Florence fennel," which is a different plant and grown mainly for the lower parts of the leaf stalks. The stalks have a sweet flavor and are eaten raw like celery, or boiled as a vegetable. It is native to Europe, but is grown in all temperate climates.

Sea kale, also known as Swiss chard, grows wild in certain parts of Europe. Due to its popularity, it has recently been cultivated in the United States. It is a form of beet grown only for its leaves and stalks which are used as "greens."

ORACH TASTY

I wonder how many of my readers are familiar with "Orach." It is a plant not well known in this country. There are three types—the white, red and green. The white kind is the most popular. Orach is a pot-herb that often grows as high as five or six feet. When properly cultivated its leaves are tender and tasty.

Watercress is a popular leafy green vegetable. It grows in patches on the banks and in the beds of creeks and rivers and in damp soils. The leaves are eaten as a salad, or cooked and served like other greens. It has a rather salty and bitter flavor and is a popular summer salad served with meats or fish.

FURNISH MINERAL SALTS

The plant grows wild and is also extensively cultivated. When cultivated it is grown in wide, shallow ditches of slowly moving water. For household use, it may be grown in the garden, but it requires copious and regular amounts of water.

All greens should be more freely marketed and eaten. Although of little importance in the diet so far as nutritive value is concerned, they furnish abundant mineral salts, such as soda, potash, iron, lime and magnesium. These minerals help the body maintain an alkaline reaction, combatting any tendency toward acidity.

In addition, greens are of great value in the relief of chronic constipation and digestive disturbances. In every way they lend agreeable variety to the diet during the spring and summer months.

One of the nicest things about June is that it brings our absent offspring home from school. And for a few weeks at least, before they dash off somewhere else on summer trips, we can enjoy having them around the house . . . that is, if we can keep them around the house.

Young men of college age, of cours, are quite hopeless. You may as well turn over the keys of the car and be done with it. But girls are different, thank goodness. Let them have little get-togethers with their chums they haven't seen all winter, and they are quite content to stay home for a while.

Such parties needn't be at all expensive. Refreshments may be simple; a pitcher of punch, a plate of sweet cakes or iced cookies, ice cream or an ice-box cake. It's the easiest thing in the world to make individual strawberry ice-box cakes, and you needn't do a bit of baking. All you need is vanilla wafers, a few crushed, sweetened strawberries, and some sweetened whipped cream. Pile four wafers on each plate, with a layer of strawberries in between; then coat the whole business generously with whipped cream and pile more berries on top. Set them in the ice box for a few hours, and there you are!

If you prefer the kind of ice-

box cake that you slice, revealing great luscious sections of fruit inside, here is one made with vanilla wafers and drained shredded pineapple. You can use either fresh or canned pineapple.

* * *

PINEAPPLE NUT ICE-BOX CAKE—¾ cup powdered sugar, ½ cup butter, ¼ cup chopped nut meats, ½ cup drained shredded pineapple, 1 egg white, vanilla wafers, whipped cream.

Cream together sugar and butter, add nut meats and pineapple and blend thoroughly. Fold in stiffly beaten egg white. Line a cake pan with the wafers, cover bottom with a layer of fruit-nut mixture, add a layer of wafers and repeat. Place in refrigerator five to six hours. Unmold, serve in slices with a garnish of whipped cream. Six portions.

* * *

PRISCILLA PARFAIT—1 cup cream, 1 tablespoon powdered sugar, ½ teaspoon vanilla, 12 Priscilla butter cookies, 6 maraschino cherries.

Whip cream and add sugar and vanilla. Coarsely crumble cookies and fold into cream. Serve in parfait glasses and garnish each with a cherry. Six portions.

ZEIDER ZEE—Filling: 2 cups milk, 2 egg yolks, 1½ tablespoons cornstarch, ¼ cup sugar. Crust: 1 package Holland rusk, ½ cup butter, ¼ cup sugar, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, 2 egg whites.

Heat the milk in top of double boiler. Blend beaten egg yolks, cornstarch, and ¼ cup sugar, and stir into milk. Cook over hot water for 10 minutes and cool. To prepare crust, roll Holland rusk fine and mix with butter, ¼ cup sugar and the cinnamon. Press half of this mixture in an even layer against sides and bottom of buttered pie plate. Fill with custard. Spreak the stiffly beaten egg whites on top of custard, and sprinkled remaining Holland rusk crumbs over egg whites. Bake in slow oven (350 degrees Fahrenheit) for 15 minutes. Chill and serve. Makes one 8-inch pie.

* * *

APPLE FRITTERS—1 cup hot milk, 12 soda crackers, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon baking powder, 2 eggs, 1 cups finely chopped cooking apples; powdered sugar or foamy sauce.

Pour hot milk over finely rolled crackers and salt, and beat until smooth. Cool, add baking powder and beaten eggs. Stir in apples. Drop by spoonfuls in deep hot fat (360-370 degrees Fahrenheit), and fry for 2-3 minutes. Serve with powdered sugar or foamy sauce. 6 portions.

* * *

FLUFFY CHEESE OMELET—4 eggs, ¾ cup hot milk, 8 crackers, rolled fine, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ cup grated American cheese, 2 tablespoons butter.

Separate eggs and beat yolks until lemon colored. Pour hot milk over finely rolled crackers and beat until creamy. Season, add ¼ cup of cheese and combine with beaten egg yolks. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Heat butter in heavy frying pan. Pour in omelet and cook, covered, over very low flame until barely set. Fold, sprinkle with remaining cheese and slip onto a hot platter. Serve at once. 6 portions.

* * *

APRICOT COBBLER—4 cups stewed dried apricots (sweetened), 2 cups flour, 4 teaspoons baking powder, 2 tablespoons sugar, 2 tablespoons brown sugar, ½ teaspoon nutmeg, 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind, 1 egg, 1-3 cup butter, 1-3 cup milk (a little more may be necessary).

Pour apricots into a buttered baking dish. Mix and sift dry ingredients. Add lemon rind. Cut into the flour, the butter. Beat the egg. Add milk and beat again. Slowly toss the milk and egg mixture into the dry. Form into a cake and knead a minute. Roll out to cover the apricots. Bake in a 450-475 degree oven. Serve with the following:

Sauce

1 tablespoon flour, 3 tablespoons sugar, ¾ cup milk, ½ cup whipping cream, ½ teaspoon vanilla.

Scald milk thoroughly; thoroughly mix sugar and flour and stir into milk. Cook until thick. Cool. Add vanilla and cream, whipped.

* * *

RICE FRUITED SNOW—1 cup heavy cream, 2 cups boiled rice, ½ cup confectioner's sugar, 2 cups drained crushed pineapple.

Whip cream—add it to the rice and sugar, add a little vanilla. Then fold in the well drained crushed pineapple. Chill well. Pile into sherbet glasses and put one teaspoon whipped cream on top of each serving, topping the cream with a cherry. Marshmallows cut fine and chopped nuts may be added.

* * *

RICE-BROWN-BETTY—1 cup buttered toast crumbs, ¼ cup brown sugar, little cinnamon, ¼ teaspoon lemon extract, 2 cups cooked rice, 4 tart apples sliced, ¼ cup maple syrup (or maple-flavored syrup).

Sprinkle a casserole with half of the buttered toast crumbs, then sprinkle with two tablespoons of the brown sugar and half teaspoon of cinnamon. Next a layer of cooked rice, then layers of crumbs, sugar and cinnamon. Repeat until used up—having the apples on top.

Pour over all the syrup which has been flavored with the lemon extract.

Bake in hot oven until apples are browned and tender.

* * *

LAMB TERRAPIN—3 cups diced cooked lamb, 2 tablespoons fat, 2 tablespoons flour, one teaspoon dry mustard, ½ teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon paprika, 2 cups stock—or 1 cup water and 1 cup milk, 2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce, 2 hard cooked eggs.

Melt the fat, add the flour, mustard, salt and pepper and paprika. When smooth, stir in the stock or water and milk. Bring to boiling point. Simmer 5 minutes. Add Worcestershire sauce, lamb and eggs, chopped.

* * *

COCOA BREAD—2 cups milk (scalded and cooled), 5½ cups sifted flour, 1 tablespoon sugar, ½ cup cocoa, 1 yeast cake, 2 eggs, ¼ cup butter, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ cup sugar.

Soften yeast in lukewarm milk with one teaspoon of sugar. Add three cups flour and beat until smooth. Cover and set aside to rise until light (about one and one-half hours), then add butter and sugar creamed, eggs well beaten, cocoa, salt and remainder of flour, or enough to make a soft dough. Knead lightly—place in a greased bowl. Cover and set aside in a warm place free from draft until double in bulk, about two hours. Mold into loaves, place in well greased bread pans. Cover and let rise again until double in bulk, about one hour. Bake about 50 minutes at 375 degrees. This will make two loaves. If desired, nuts and fruits may be added for greater richness. Tempting buns may also be made from the mixture and decorated with chocolate icing.

'Goldbergs' Revive Old Opera

Mrs. Gertrude M. Berg, author and lead of the WCAE "Goldbergs" sketches, who has a penchant for suddenly thrusting something delightfully unusual upon her listeners, has gone and done it again.

Having introduced "Sulamath Manas" into the script some time ago with follow-up programs tracing the girl's musical career, Mrs. Berg revives the popular Jewish opera of 60 years ago, "Sulamath," for her character's operatic debut tonight.

Andy's Trial

And now, with the first witness in Gwindell's alienation of affections suit scheduled to take the stand via KDKA at ", Correll and Gosden, portrayors of Amos 'n' Andy et al, bob up to explain that they're as much in the dark about the outcome as anyone else.

Seems they don't write their scripts that far in advance.

* * *

Two-Hour Show

KQV's annual treat—a two-hour show—goes on the air at 8:30 with the dramatic portion, the final episode of "The Mystery of Barlow House," by the KQV Players and a musical program by Sara Manno, soprano; Charles Thoke, tenor, and Ken Carrow's concert orchestra.

List among tonight's vocal high spots: Lee Wiley introducing her own song, "Indian Love Song," WCAE at 9:30 . . . and Grace Moore, on WJAS at 10, singing "Night and Day" and "Gypsy Love Song."

Classic tid-bits for music lovers: Nino Martini, featuring Walter Kramer's "The Last Hour," WJAS at 8; Dragonette, Bourdon and company concert, WCAE at 8; Freddie Rich's Columbians playing Ferde Grofe's "Tabloid," WJAS at 10:45.

* * *

'Shoot, If You Must'

With the atmosphere of Flag Day still doing a bit of pervading, the story of Barbara Fritchie's patriotism is listed on WJAS at 7 for Stamp Adventurers.

The big upset, expose and whatnot of pet theories concerning the intelligence of America's listening public is listed on KDKA at 10:15 with Dr. Frank H. Freeman, professor of educational psychology at the University of Chicago—and champion of the dialers, incidentally, reporting the results of the I. Q. test conducted last week.

* * *

Audition Winner

Angelina Casale, soprano winner of this week's "Message from Gimbels" auditions, is featured on WCAE at 9, co-starring with Margaret Daum, soprano, and the Pittsburghers Quartet.

The Choral Art Club of 24 voices, directed by Mathilda Flinn, comes into the "Pittsburgh Spotlight" on KDKA at 6:30.

Inaugurating a new weekly schedule, the Bridgeman Sextet—three brothers and three sisters—goes on the air from WWSW at 8:45. . . . On the same station at 9, 30 minutes of rhythm from the Peabody High School prom at the Hotel Schenley is billed.

Job Czar on Air

"Administration of the United States Industrial Control Act," an extemporaneous discussion by Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, federal administrator of Industrial Control, is to be broadcast over NBC-WCAE tonight at 11 o'clock.

The address will be delivered before the convention of the United States Coal Dealers Association in Chicago.

Air Headliner

Gertrude Berg, creator and star of "The Goldbergs," whose revival of the Jewish operetta, "Sulamath," on WCAE at 7:45 is one of tonight's aerial events. Previously, with Mrs. Berg directing, broadcasts of the impressive Jewish wedding and Seder Passover ceremonies were featured on the program. Mrs. Berg plays "Molly."

White House 'Voice' Won't Be Silenced

By AIRCASTER

Col. Louis McHenry Howe, secretary to President Roosevelt, has decided not to quit his Sunday commercial broadcasts—at least until the series of 13 is complete.

Simply because a Senator has said that it is less than ethical for a member of the White House group to take $900 a week for broadcasting, is no reason for quitting, the friends of Howe assert.

They point out that Congressmen and Senators get paid for making speeches and giving lectures.

However, Howe will hereafter avoid political subjects with controversial possibilities, and confine himself to simple interpretations of Washington's news events—in other words, the Howe talks, after this, will be of a strictly educational nature.

Gypsy Lore

It was like a faulty machine gun stammering outside the apartment. Harry Horlick, chief of the Air's gypsies, paused in his packing, glanced through the window and saw that the noise was coming from a combination covered wagon and a flivver.

From the weird vehicle stepped a grizzled gent, wearing rings in his ears. A moment later, the Horlick apartment bell buzzed. The stranger entered:

"You leave for Chicago Friday. You go by special train, I read in the papers. A fine gypsy you are, riding in coaches. Here, I, King Carolyi, offer to you ze beeg caravan."

It was indeed the gypsy king, arrived from his camp in the Fingerlakes region, to offer the orchestra leader a train of 21 rickety vehicles. But Horlick insisted that the trip would take too long. The king departed, disappointedly:

"Huh, what a flop gypsy. The treep would cost you only $1,500."

Which proves, said Horlick, who will broadcast from the world's fair until October, that you can't gyp a gypsy.

Arthur Fields and Fred Hall, the air's earliest mountaineers, have just completed a lyrical tribute to that typically American character—the Yes Man. It's a military sort of ditty and its tempo has so appealed to B. A. Rolfe, that he will introduce it Saturday night over WCAE. That's when you'll hear "The Yes Men on Parade."

Morton to Chicago

Oliver K. Morton, station manager of KDKA, has been appointed commercial representative of NBC-owned-and-operated stations—a group of 16 from coast-to coast—according to an announcement made today.

Mr. Morton, whose successor at KDKA will be William S. Hedges, veteran radio executive, will assume his new duties Monday with headquarters in Chicago.

Biblical Air Drama On 5 Stations

WSAZ, Huntington, W. Va., 1:30 p. m.; WHBC, Canton, O., 2 p. m.; WKBN, Youngstown, O., 4 p. m.; WALR, Zanesville, O., 5 p. m., and WJAC, Johnstown, 5:15 p. m.

The playlet dramatizes the biblical story of the destruction by "fire and brimstone" of Sodom and Gomorrah.

Long Sport Review WCAE Feature

Sports—reviewed by James J. Long, Sun-Telegraph sports columnist—hold the WCAE spotlight at 7 tonight.

A program for kiddies by kiddies, bringing a large group of Pittsburgh's juvenile entertainers to the air, is the Sun-Telegraph Family, presented on WCAE at 4:45 today.

Broadcasting direct from the editorial rooms, Louis L. Kaufman, Globe-Trotter of the Sun-Telegraph and Hearst Metrotone News, flashes the latest bulletins over WCAE at 9:05 a. m. and WCAE-WJAS at 12:15 p. m., 2:15 p. m. and 6:30 p. m. today.

"NOW CAN EAT ANY KIND OF FOOD, AND NO CONSTIPATION"

Mr. Durigan Finds Relief in Kellogg's ALL-BRAN

Here is his enthusiastic letter:

"Am 70 years of age, and for 40 of these years there never was a week but what I had to take a pill or some kind of cathartic.

"I took everything, but gained only temporary relief. Until last spring my daughter, who is a nurse in a hospital, brought me some Kellogg's ALL-BRAN.

"At the end of the week, I knew I had something that was it, and I kept on taking it. I haven't taken a cathartic since. I can eat meat any time, as often as I like, or any other kind of food, and no constipation." Mr. L. M. Durigan, 6811 Buffalo Ave., Jacksonville, Florida.

Laboratory tests show Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and vitamin B to help muscle tone. Also iron for the blood.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that of lettuce. Inside the body, it forms a soft mass. Gently, it clears out the intestinal wastes.

How much safer than patent medicines. Two tablespoonfuls daily are usually sufficient. With each meal in serious cases. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Globe-Trotting

—By LOUIS L. KAUFMAN—

Hello, ladies and gentlemen: Some time ago, says Mrs. C. Max, there was printed in Household Hints, a preventative whose odor would keep away mice. If some one clipped it, or knows the substance, will he enlighten us?

* * *

A. W. B., of West Brownsville, shames me by relating his experience during a blanketless chilly night. Where I had to get up for more covers he reached out and picked up the Sun-Telegraph he was reading before he dropped off, and placing it between the sheet and counterpane, comfortably warm, went back to sleep.

* * *

Miss Louise Sturm, St. Joseph street.—The answer is "yes" to both questions.

The recent legislation passed in Washington has prompted many Globe Trotters to write for information concerning jobs with new federal projects. Such information is not available at the present time. We won't forget to watch for it.

* * *

Mrs. A. Turner, Natrona Heights—As soon as the Home Owners' Loan Corporation sets up an agency here you will be able to take advantage of the mortgage relief bill. Watch the Sun-Telegraph.

* * *

Max Baer, heavyweight globe trotter, seems pent up with energy.

He is a big boy who makes any room look crowded when he steps in. There is no relaxation for him. He has to be doing something all the time, even if it is to open the window one moment and close it the next.

Dempsey hasn't lost any glamour by his association with the rugged Californian. Max beams when Jack talks to him and excitedly follows his instructions as a small boy does for his favorite teacher.

* * *

When the new Willows summer stage opens June 19, a group of Pittsburgh professionals will present "Another Language." Alexander Kann, who plays the lead, understudied the same part in the New York success.

THE MEAT THAT PEPS UP SUMMER APPETITES

There's good reason for serving Beef often during summer. Dietetic authorities agree that Beef is not only non-heating, but also furnishes the energy we need to withstand the heat. Serve it hot or serve it cold—either way it's good to eat and good for you. To acquaint you with the quality of Kroger Beef, we are holding a company-wide Meat Sale this week. Your Kroger Meat Master will be pleased to serve you to your entire satisfaction.
Here's a suggestion your family will greet with glee—

Men Are Blamed for Ways Of Modern Girls

"Any girl who is worthy of respect will get it!"

You've heard that plenty of times haven't you?

But is it true?

Not long ago a Peeved Percy informed us that it was. According to him, Miss 1933 asked for Gents to Get Fresh—

And any time she wanted to mend her wild ways and act like a sweet old-fashioned flower, the men would give her every break that a girl could ask for.

Did things work out that way for Sybil?

Listen!

Dear Miss Robinson:

I'd like to give my opinion, backed by some experience, too, on this question of a girl getting respect if she's worthy of it.

I am young. I am a high school graduate and have attended college classes in the evenings. I've always been dignified and tried to be worthy of respect, but, unfortunately, I've found that that old adage about girls getting respect is not true.

For instance, I myself have had a sad experience. What would you think of a fellow—a college graduate, from a supposedly decent family—who courts a girl for nearly a year and a half, and asks her to marry him, only to inform her later that he believes in "free love" and had never expected her to think he intended marriage? That's my experience.

Furthermore, he still sticks to the story that he loves me, but he does not wish to assume the responsibility of working and caring for a wife. I ask you—is that giving a decent girl respect?

HAS LOST FAITH

I have always held love to be something sacred and sweet. I have never permitted myself to be kissed by any other fellow since I have gone with this man. I never petted before I knew him. He was my first and only love. I have never gone out much with men, and had gone with only one before I knew this one.

I dress well. I don't drink or smoke. I have a few social accomplishments, and can hold my own in any conversation. I have always tried to be loyal, refined and good. I have passed up other fellows, even though my friend went out quite a bit—and now everything seems gone.

I don't regret losing this man so much as I regret losing all my happy faith in a goodness that I believed in and idealized. I have found, contrary to what a lot of people think, virtue doesn't always bring a reward.

BLAMES MEN

It seems that fellows today just lack the sense and intelligence to appreciate what is good. They want to make the good bad, in many cases, for their own amusement. Then, after some girl innocently falls for their "line," as I didn't, they claim there are "no good girls left." They make me tired!

Of course, women will blame men, and vice versa; but after all, girls do not go in for all this "modern stuff" because they like it. Even if they pretend, they're lying. They do it because some boy or man, who means a lot to them, seems to want them to be like that.

Girls may say they're independent, but a lot of them are still what men demand they be! If men want "nice girls," let them pay attention to that kind. They'll find there'll be plenty of them.

As it is, nine-tenths of the men are not fair. They yell for one kind of a girl—and give all the chocolate sundaes to another kind. What do they expect?

Well, I'm not going to be miserable over it. Maybe there are still some nice men! I'm hoping.

SYBIL.

So there you are!

Retirement a Wise Course for the Divorcee, Says Fay King

By FAY KING

They do this, of course, to show how little they care, and how easily they can attract others. Some even rush right into new engagements and marriages to prove how quickly they can capture new suitors.

But it would be much smarter to retire a little while from the bright lights and gay crowds. To let it be seen that they are not ashamed to weep a little over their lost loves.

This will inspire more sympathy and respect for them, and less for the husbands they otherwise seem to lose so lightly.

Better to hear it said, "I'm sorry for her," than "I guess he didn't lose much!"

Heart of a Wife -:-

Continuation of Love's Reawakening

By ADELE GARRISON

Three Friends Wait Breathlessly Behind Shrubbery

Nick did not finish his threat against Ronald and Marion, but it was no less sinister because of being unspoken. But it was not until Nick, with Tony close behind him, was beyond earshot in his dash across the fields toward the tree beneath which he had left Marion, Ronald and Charles Owen, that any of us dared to make even so slight a sound as the catching of a breath.

Ronald was the first to speak. "Their car is headed toward the road," he whispered. "Do you think we could reach it and get away before they could get back here?"

There was such sudden hope in his words that I hated to destroy it, as I must.

"That gangster is not the man to leave a car without taking the key. He knows, moreover, that my hands are free and that I can drive a car. He would be doubly cautious. No, dear, we dare not risk that."

"Then what can we do?" Ronald's despairing whisper held something vaguely akin to hysteria.

"Nothing but stay here for the present," I answered promptly, trying to infuse something sounding like hope into the words. "If that beast, Tony, has any sense, he'll try to make Nick believe that we've gone the opposite way from this."

RONALD'S GUN GONE

"That's right," Marion whispered, excitedly. "We heard him tell you to go toward Jerry's and I suppose this part of the field is the safest, at that—if anything can be called safe."

My heart echoed the despondency into which her voice trailed off, but I made my answer determinedly cheerful.

"I'm quite sure we can call this comparatively safe," I said. "It's most probable that Tony will keep quiet. And—if he does give us away—we're pretty well hidden by these bushes—they might get quite close to us without seeing us, and—if the worst should happen, why! I have a little pistol with me, and you have a revolver, Ronald, and I don't think either of us will hesitate to use them. What is it?"

My startled query was elicited by an equally startled sound from Ronald, something very like a moan.

"I can't find the revolver," he said dully. "I just looked. I must have lost it. Oh! how careless—"

"Not careless at all," I interrupted sharply. "You didn't lose that revolver, I am sure."

"That gangster, Nick, must have frisked you, Ronald," Marion put in excitedly.

"That is the explanation, I am sure," I said, but Ronald was unconvinced.

FLIGHT DISCOVERED

"No. I was conscious all of the time he was with me, and the gun was inside my coat. I'm sure he couldn't have taken it without my knowing it."

"Then, perhaps, it fell out while you were struggling with that beast, Owen," Marion said.

"That might be," Ronald's voice held sudden hope. "It wasn't very far from here. Mayn't I get over the fence, Aunt Madge, and look around for it. If I hurry I can be back before those two will get near enough to see me."

"Yes, go," I decided instantly, then suffered tortures of suspense and remorse while he noiselessly crossed the fence, and stooping low hurried toward the scene of his conflict with Owen, then melted into the darkness. I found myself holding my breat in stark terror, which did not lose its grip upon me until he emerged from the blackness again and came toward us. He came over the fence with a triumphant whisper, "I found it," just as a savage exclamation from the direction of the big tree, told us that Nick and Tony had discovered the flight of Ronald and Marion.

And then, coming from the direction of the main road, there sounded the whirr of the autogyro.

-:- Hints for the Household -:-

Save tobacco ash and use for cleaning silver or silver plate. Apply with a damp cloth and finish with a soft, dry one.

Contract Bridge -:-

HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

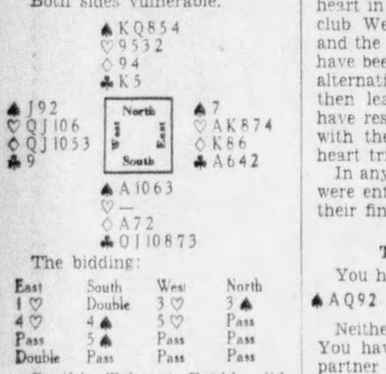
Sacrifice Bidding

Sacrifice bidding is the heart of a sound Bridge game. It is in such bidding that a player most clearly manifests the will to win, without which no player, even though he bids his hands with meticulous accuracy and plays the cards with unerring skill, can hope to be really successful. Bridge typifies struggle, and in any struggle a person must be prepared to take risks and accept losses provided the losses are not greater than the possible gains which may result.

Sacrifice bidding in Contract has two main objectives. The first is to push the opponents beyond the trick-taking possibilities of their combined hands. The second is to accept a "paying" penalty in lieu of opponents' sure game or part-score. An interesting example of good sacrifice bidding was given recently at a club in New York, by Messrs. Walter Malowan and Lee Langdon, with the North and South hands shown below.

East, Dealer.

Both sides vulnerable.



The bidding:

East	South	West	North
1 ♡	Double	3 ♡	3 ♠
4 ♡	4 ♠	5 ♡	Pass
Pass	5 ♠	Pass	Pass
Double	Pass	Pass	Pass

South's Takeout Double did not measure up in honor-tricks to the minimum required, but after all the Opening bid was a heart and Mr. Malowan had good support for a possible spade Takeout and a fairly safe refuge in clubs in case his partner should get into trouble on any response he made. West's bid of three hearts was also an overbid, designed to make it as difficult as possible for North to respond. However, it failed of its purpose. When North was unable to double five hearts South felt that he must bid five spades with the purpose in mind of taking a penalty rather than permitting his opponents to win a game.

His decision, it will be noticed, is correct, as both East and West held singletons and East would have made the five-heart contract, except perhaps against Double Dummy defense. East opened the King of hearts, which was ruffed in Dummy. Mr. Langdon then led a small club and covered with his King. East won with the Ace and next led a diamond, but it was too late. Had East refused to win the club King with the Ace the contract would have been defeated. This would not have been an extremely difficult play. It was well-nigh certain that West had some honors in diamonds, and even if North's King of clubs had been a singleton, refusing to win with the Ace could not have lost as North would then have had to discard for his losing diamond. As a matter of fact, if East had refused the first club trick North would have been helpless. If he had elected to trump another heart in Dummy after winning with the King of clubs, he could not have returned to his own hand in order to ruff a third heart in Dummy. Had he led a club West would have ruffed and the club suit still would not have been established. The third alternative, drawing trumps and then leading the club, would have resulted in East's winning with the Ace and cashing two heart tricks.

In any case, North and South were entitled to win because of their fine bidding.

Today's Question

You hold:

♠ A Q 9 2 ♡ A J 4 ◇ 7 ♣ A Q 10 6 3

Neither side is vulnerable. You have bid one club. Your partner has responded with one notrump. What do you bid?

Answer—Two spades. Although the hand contains 4-plus honor-tricks, which together with partner's response should produce a game, it is inadvisable to force with this type of hand. Two spades is sufficiently strong bid, as your spade suit obviously has only four cards, and partner, not having four spades, must at least bring the bidding back to clubs or notrump. Of course, if your partner has four spades, he probably will have sufficient playing strength to raise your spade bid; but until you find a fit of some sort on the hand or another free bid from partner, game is not definitely assured.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Notes of Thanks

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

We recently entertained at a tea in honor of our parents' silver wedding anniversary. The guests brought a great many gifts. Should cards be sent out to them for the gifts. If so, how should they be worded?

BEE.

Do not send cards of thanks. Your mother should write notes of thanks to each friend who sent a gift. This note should offer thanks for the kind thoughtfulness that prompted the sending of the gift, and then should definitely mention the gift, and chat with the friend about it . . . its beauty, its usefulness, plans for using it, and so on. The notes should be complete . . . that is, the sender should not feel a lack of appreciation because of lack of warmth in the expression of the thanks.

Graduation Gifts

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I do not wish some of my friends to send me gifts for graduation. How could I word a message on my invitations to make this known, without offending anyone's feelings?

A SENIOR.

I wouldn't advise you to do this. It's an awkward thing to do, and it wouldn't sound as gracious as you mean it. People nowadays . . . and especially in these very days . . . use their judgment about giving presents, they have to. So, if I were you, I would leave this question to their own determination and choice. If they can't give presents, they will know that you will understand, and if they can and wish to give presents, they will want to have the joy of doing this.

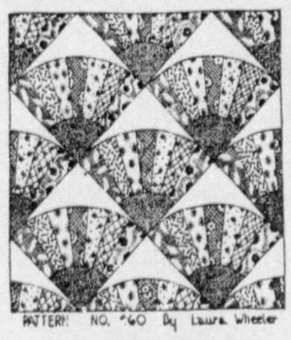
PATCHWORK QUILT PATTERN



Friendship Fan

In the days when quiltmaking first became the American handicraft there not only were certain favorite patterns but also special types of quilts. The friendship quilt was one of them. It varied in style. Some friendship quilts were made of materials donated by one's many friends; to make others, friends congregated of an evening and each friend sewed a block. This fan pattern lends itself well to the friendship quilt for the fan itself is formed by the patches donated by friends. A quaint pattern in itself, it could be made of fewer materials by using two materials alternately in the fan.

The pattern comes to you with complete simple instructions for cutting, sewing and finishing, together with yardage chart, diagram of quilt to help arrange the blocks for single and double bed size, and a diagram of block which serves as a guide for placing the patches and suggests contrasting materials.

Send 10c for this pattern to Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, Needlecraft Department, 82 Eighth Avenue, New York City.

Walter Winchell ON BROADWAY

Portrait of a Man Talking to Himself

HOLLYWOOD, Cal.: I've always wondered what the routine would be out here . . . Being confronted, I mean, by the men and women of the kodak entertainments, who felt that they had legitimate grievances . . . Only one of them, Connie Bennett, has barked the loudest since a broadcast of a year ago—which she obviously didn't hear—but which was related to her by friends who listen too fast . . . Before I leave this community in August, I hope to encounter her—just to convince her what a lot of time she has wasted alienating herself from newspaper correspondents—with her temper . . . If only some of them would realize—that the very fact they are written about—is compliment enough! . . . Last night over at the Sam Goldwyns—the Kenneth McKennas (Kay Francis) groaned a little over a misinterpreted sky-item . . . "We are not considering a divorce," said the grand Kay . . . "Who said you were?" I asked . . . "We hear that you said so on your last broadcast!" . . . "I said you kids had had your first serious breach, but I was happy to report your intimates rad closed it up" . . . "Well, I'm glad you apologize," cooed Kay . . . "But I'm not!" I replied . . . "I'm merely sorry you hadn't heard me" . . . Billie Burke's complaint seemed the most legitimate . . . Hers was directed at the "pals" of her late groom, Florenz Ziegfeld . . . "I will never be able to forgive them," she said, "for their articles after his passing. They were so cruel" . . . Mrs. Ziegfeld was most bitter about Gene Buck's pieces in a magazine.

Kay and Kenneth related an aggravating adventure through New York streets in a cab . . . When a wild crowd of autograph clunks ganged her chariot until a riot almost resulted . . . She had obliged with a few, but when traffic was congested, she hastened away, with the mob chasing . . . "So many of these autograph collectors," observed one of us, "get a book filled with well-known names—and then sell the book to people who can't be bothered waiting in line for them." . . . The long ago incident at the Brown Derby best exemplifies this . . . Jim Creelman, who writes movies, but who isn't renowned, ankled out of the place and was confronted by an intelligent youth, who said: "May I have your autograph, please?" . . . "Why, you don't want mine," said Creelman, "I'm nobody of importance." . . . "You're Jim Creelman," said the lad . . . "Well, said Jim, "what do I do?" . . . "You write moving pictures," was the answer . . . "What pictures have I written, son?" parried Creelman . . . "Well, to be honest with you, sir," said the frank fellow, "I don't know. I've never seen any of yours." . . . Then why on earth do you want my autograph?" teased Jim . . . "Because," was the devastating retort, "yesterday — you took Gloria Swanson to lunch!"

Wallace Beery, with his new contract at $5,000 a week (via a 52-week contract, with no options for 2 years) is now the consistently highest priced actor in Hollywood . . . And, after 20 years in the business—he has his own dressing room—for the first time! . . . There is a bit of irony in the companionship of Connie Bennett and Gil Roland, who was once Norma Talmadge's favorite person . . . The landlord of the dwelling in which Connie and Roland play ping pong—is Norma's mother, Peg Talmadge! . . . Jack Oakie is Hollywood's biggest sap for the "rib" . . . He is usually the goat for gags and practical jokes . . . But the newest "gag" is hardly that, and some of us who like him a lot resent it . . . A new colony in the suburbs is peoples by a handful of stars—and they are being ultra . . . Unless all the dwellers consent—an applicant is barred . . . The rumor got around that Oakie was going to become one of them . . . And they decorated trees for miles near the approach with signs reading: "Poison Oakie!" . . . The one tale that fascinates me most is the one dealing with the gangster who reformed—and is now an agent for several "names." His commissions are tremendous . . . They explain his reformation in this wise: One of the mightier producers here discovered that he could play an almost perfect game of pinochle—and made him a pal . . . When he learned he was an underworld biggie, the producer arranged the agency for him—a respectable form of highway robbery.

The item here about Gordon & Revel, the newcomers, whose songs are lovely, caught the orbs of Sam Goldwyn, who is seeking capables to prepare ditties for Anna Sten, his newest importation . . . Anna, by the way, was on the train a year ago coming to Hollywood when I was—and she's been collecting a fabulous wage every week since——merely learning how to speak English! . . . And so I trust Gordon & Revel see this here—and know that this admirer of their talent—lost no time in their interests . . . Mr. Goldwyn is anxious to have recordings of their songs—and if they are smart—they will air mail express them to him pronto—particularly: "It Was a Night in June" . . . Which, by the way, Vincent Youmans charges is a theft from his tune, but which Gordon & Revel assured me had been denied in court . . . Mr. Youmans, in justice to him—assures me the case hasn't yet been tried! . . . Go, my sons—and sin no more . . . You must know by now how I feel about echoes . . . Most imitation is the sincerest form of insult!

Policemen do not clog the walks in Hollywood . . . They tour about in police cars—and tuning in on their assignments from headquarters via the radio—is among the pastimes . . . The radio cop caller has a sensayuma, too . . . After the most exciting announcements—he ad libs: "How'm I doin', fellers?" . . . One of the neater snappers delighted me the other night when the faded wife of a movie magazine scribbler met an actor from New York—a friend of chell is in town," he remarked chell is in town," he rembarked . . . "Do I have to get my husband to pan him, again?" she nastied between hiccups . . . "Who," was the retort terrible, "is your husband?" .

Grand story that one—about the movie star who got dizzy from looking down on people . . . Particularly old friends . . . The late Grant Clark, one of Mizner's buddies, was snubbed by the star, when he attempted a meeting to discuss a new song . . . "Please don't bother me," said the sassy ham. "I don't want to hear any new songs—I'm going to take a rest, and besides I don't need songs!" . . . The writer, it appears, had supplied most of the ditties that helped the man get to the highest rungs . . . "I need a break, now," continued the phone-calling songwriter. "Please let me play my latest for you." . . . "I tell you—I'm not interested!" bellowed the star. "I've got all the money I need—I'm going to retire!" . . . The snubbed chap, whose wit was his forte, asked: "Just how much money have you, anyway?" . . . I have $400,000, sweetheart!" said the snob . . . "A very nice package," stifled Clark. "A very, very nice one, indeed. 400 Gs would buy a grand yacht—for a rich man!"

School Story Calls for Lassies

By HARRISON CARROLL

(Copyright, 1933 King Features Synd., Inc.)

HOLLYWOOD, June 15.—The embarrassing movie searchlight travels on, and now girls' boarding schools are to receive their share of publicity.

RKO has such a picture in mind to feature most of the younger actresses on the lot. The story they've picked is called "Just Off Fifth Avenue," and it is the work of two men, Louis Weitzenkorn and David Hampstead.

While care will be taken not to bring down too much wrath from school officials and from the censors, the picture will have its share of sensational material.

Some of the players already named by Kenneth MacGowan are Frances Dee, Helen Mack and the little ex-stenographer, Dorothy Wilson. It isn't hard to pick a few more likely candidates. Betty Furness almost surely will be one and Arline Judge another.

Miss Dee

The film will be ready for release by the time school takes up next fall.

* * *

Dolores Del Rio fans, hang on for a shock! The Mexican actress has bobbed her hair, and will go completely modern in her next picture. She's also taken up the study of dancing with Muriel Stuart, formerly of the Anna Pavlowa troupe.

* * *

The Hepburn lass lost no time in going back to her overalls. And she boasts of bringing back 11 weird new hats to add to her collection . . . The Jean Howard-Bill Rankin friendship seems to be doing nicely . . . Johnny Weissmiller took Jean Harlow out dancing the night before Lupe Velez flew in.

* * *

After going social with Peggy Joyce, to the extent of doffing his sweat shirt for a tuxedo, Jack Oakie has now taken up golf. Squire Wesley Ruggles and Bing Crosby broke him into the game... The story Clara Bow really want-to make for Fox was "The Humming Bird." They were afraid of the war scenes.

Mr. Oakie

That stalwart looking chap who took Estella Taylor to the cocoanut Grove was Rowland Brown, the director who has walked out on more pictures than Erich von Stroheim . . . Had you heard that Dick Powell's fan mail now tops that of all other male stars at Warners' studio? . . . The rage of Paris, writes Jerry Horwin, is none other than our George Raft, a young man who resembles the star is periodically mobbed by fans who mistake him for George.

* * *

There are 24 members of the movie public who will hear nothing against Joan Crawford. They They have been corresponding with her since 1926, when she changed her name. Joan writes these letters personally, too . . . Remember Noble Johnson, who played the bronze man in "The Ten Commandments?" He still acts occasionally, but has a more profitable sideline of training dogs. Gary Cooper's Afghan hound, Zora, is now in his charge, also wolf hounds belonging to Dick Bennett and Victor McLaglen. Johnson trains them to respond to signals instead of verbal commands.

Miss Crawford

What is an expert? Many years ago, Houston Branch spent one week working with a well capper's crew in the Tampico oil fields. Since then, he's written five oil well stories of a total of nearly 10,000 . . . A tip to Lew Ayers or anyone else concerned. Ginger Rogers is taking fencing lessons.

Fun Picture In Fulton

By JAMES A. BAUBIE

Maybe the Greeks had a word for it, but it takes a good many words in the United States to tell about "The Warrior's Husband," the screen satire on the ancient Amazons which opened in the Fulton yesterday.

The land of Pontus was ruled by women 800 B. C. So runs the movie history. Against this authentic historical background of warrior women who make love to the men while the men do their home work, is unraveled a comedy that might shock Homer but is mighty funny to John Q. Public.

Ernest Truex is the "cute" husband of the queen of the Amazons, played by Marjorie Rambeau. And he continually annoys the queen by wanting to put on a soldier's uniform that would show his legs.

What happens when the Greeks conquer the armies of the Amazons by stealing the queen's girdle, the secret of their power, is pleasing to the men back home. The war ends and the Amazons have a merry party with their conquerers. And their husbands assert themselves.

Truex, it appears, has had this eventuality in his mind all the time. In fact, he effects the theft of the queen's girdle so he can be the man of the house.

But there must be a love interest even in a war between women and men, and this is supplied admirably by Elissa Landi and David Manners. It develops that Elissa, princess of the fighting women, really wanted to be made love to all the time.

More than any other single thing, this picture proves that comedy is funniest when sensibly done. The contrast is sharp when the humor is an a serious setting.

A bit of thrill for the audience at yesterday's matinee was given "extra special" when Max Baer was introduced at the finish of the movie of his fight with Max Schmeling. It developed that Baer dropped in to see the pictures of the fight which he hadn't had an opportunity to see before arriving here yesterday.

Fine Comedy On Penn Screen

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

Credit Hollywood with having done a nice—extremely nice—job of turning Rachel Crothers' penetrating feminine comedy, "When Ladies Meet," into an interesting and diverting movie, which is on view in the Penn, with Ann Harding and Robert Montgomery costarred. However, "star" doesn't mean much in this film, which has five roles of equal importance, the others being played by Myrna Loy, Frank Morgan and Alice Brady.

Despite everything, the stage remains one medium and the screen another, movement being especially required in the latter, hence the credit to Hollywood for imparting movement and variety of scene to "When Ladies Meet" with no sacrifice of its literary or dramatic quality in any essential degree. Dialogue added to permit use of scenes not possible on the stage extends the scope of interest without slowing up the development of the story, which remains in all important respects as Miss Crothers wrote it.

Robert Montgomery is in love with Miss Loy, a novelist, who is in love with Morgan, a philandering publisher, whose wife is Ann Harding. Robert knows the girl he wants to marry has strange ideas, and that the publisher is only interested in her temporarily. Miss Loy knows he is married, and she has an idea of telling the lady all about it—the deep love of both for each other, and all of that—with the expectation that the wife will be reasonable. But the "ladies meet" without any prearrangement on the part of either, and things turn out quite differently. And Robert likely winks as he and Miss Loy go away together, for he knows the meeting was not exactly accidental.

There are moments in this picture that have explosive elements, but the explosion never occurs, because Miss Crothers knows just how, when and where to introduce a dramatic or comic interruption that keeps everything on a moderate plane without any hysteria or melodrama. The dialogue, as might be expected, is witty and pungent—never trite. The acting is restrained and natural.

REDUCED AGAIN!
NOW 3 ROLLS
for the price of ONE in 1920

. . . Yet softer and still more absorbent

GUARD your family's health with toilet tissue you know is safe. Today this protection costs little . . . for now you get three rolls of Waldorf for the price of one in 1920!

Waldorf is safe because it is pure, soft and highly absorbent. It is made only from the finest cellulose. Every precaution is taken to eliminate impurities. Even the water used in its manufacture is filtered—then sterilized. Waldorf is actually made to the same standard of cleanliness and purity as absorbent cotton.

Now is a good time to stock up your linen closet with a supply of Waldorf. Your family will appreciate the comfort and health protection it gives—and your budget will benefit by the new low price.

5¢ a roll

Be thrifty—but be SAFE. Don't take chances with harsh, inferior toilet tissues or substitutes now that Waldorf is selling at such a low price. Today this famous tissue, the largest selling brand in the world, costs only ⅓ its price of 1920.

Gambling Man

IN THE clubhouse at any of the metropolitan tracks or in the winter at the Florida horse parlors, you can generally meet the hero of this particular tale; a thin, dapper little man in his early forties. If you're one of the regulars, you'll know him. And if you're not, then step right up and shake hands with "Five Per Cent" Casey.

Mr. Casey, my dear children, is a mathematical genius. He would have undoubtedly become an accounting wizard had he been inclined in that direction. But he wasn't. His passion was, is and will always be just one thing, gambling.

Down at the tracks, he will take all bets, do some rapid calculating—and lay off most of the money. The balance is always set to give him the necessary 5 per cent.

There hadn't been many women in Casey's life until he met Clara—and when she popped into his life, he was doggone glad there hadn't been. Clara felt that Casey was her little honey lamb, and that settled the issue. They were married.

Clara was the sweet, sympathetic type. She was going to do big things with Casey. She knew he needed her badly; she admitted it herself. What she wasn't going to do for her man would be very hard to find. cording to the way she figured, the presidency of the United States for Casey would only be a hopping-off place to something really big.

It didn't take Clara more than a year to realize her mistake, which is not a bad record. Her man hadn't reformed so that anyone could notice it. He was still around the track all day, and he was still shooting craps half the night.

Of course, he was stil getting his 5 per cent at all times, and that made him a fairly good provider. But even so, Clara was getting fed up on that type of life.

Time and again—and that's still a good song title, Mr. Gordon and Mr. Revel—Clara made up her mind to leave Casey flat. But she could never quite go through with it.

"He loves me so," she told her girl friend, "and he needs me so badly. I haven't the heart to let him go on alone. Every time I talk to him about his hours, he gives me the same answer. And he's right.

"So what is there for a girl in my position to do? I just can't bring myself to leave." . . .

Clara remained where she was for another year, and then she dug up a real reason to call it a day. She fell in love with another man; a man who didn't know a dice box from an ice box, and who thought that a horse was a pain in the throat.

So she did the right thing. She went to Casey and told him all about it.

The 5 per cent man listened very carefully, and then shook his head.

"It all sounds very beautiful, honey," was his reaction, "but I think you're just a little bit goofy. I don't know who this bozo is that you're stuck on, but I'll guarantee that he isn't straight, place or show with me. I'm the only guy for you, even if you don't know it right now.

"Tell you what I'll do with you. I'm a gambling man, and I guess I always will be. I'll make a little bet with you, and it's as square a proposition as any gambling man ever offered.

"You go away some place for a few months. Say about three. Make up your mind by not seeing me or the other guy. And I'm betting you $5,000 that you'll come running back to me and tell me that you've forgotten the other mug entirely.

"You don't have to put up any dough. I'm so sure about this thing that I'll put up, and take the bet, too. How does it strike you, honey girl? It gives us both a break. Okay?"

Clara thought for a moment. Then she nodded.

"Okay," she replied . . .

Clara left for parts unknown, and Casey kept right on working. His friends said his heart was breaking, as friends always do, but they never heard a word of complaint from Casey. Every day, in every way, he was the very same Casey that he had always been.

Meanwhile, in the mountain spot she had chosen, Clara was greatly upset. She still loved the other man, and the longer she remained away, the less chance Casey had. She hadn't been gone six weeks when she could stand it no longer. She packed her bags and came home to tell Casey the bad news.

But how to tell him was the big question. She knew that it would kill him because he needed her so badly. But it had to be done. And after all, she told herself, he was a gambler—and he had learned to take the bad breaks with the good.

When she met Casey that night he embraced her fervently. He didn't ask her any questions; just took her in his arms and held her tightly. That made it all the tougher. But finally she pushed him away and cleared her throat.

"Don't, dearest," she said. "You're only making this more difficult for me. I've got to tell you, and I do hope you'll be brave about it. Because it's no use. You and I are through.

"I've tried to forget the other man. I've tried your idea, but it didn't work out. The longer I stayed away from him, the more I loved him. And that's why I came back to tell you.

"Please be sensible about it, dear. Please, I don't want any alimony from you, or anything like that. Just give me the $5,000 that I won and I will get the divorce."

Casey, his eyes lowered, looked the picture of misery.

"I'm sorry, darling," he mumbled. "Sorry you didn't understand things more clearly."

His wife sighed.

"But I do understand," she said softly. "I just can't help myself. We can't fight love. I must leave you and go to him."

Casey looked up and said:

"I don't mean that. I'm talking about the dough. Don't I always get five per cent? You only get $4,750!"

FLIER LANPHIER TURNS BREWER

NEW YORK, June 16.—(AP.)—Maj. Thomas G. Lanphier, noted flier, has decided to pay his way along the skyways by brewing 3.2 per cent beer on the ground.

He announced last night he had become president of the Flanagan-Nay Brewing Corporation, a concern active before prohibition in making beer and ale. It has bought a vast brewery outright. Lanphier said:

"It takes money to fly these days. I've got to do something besides aviation to keep up in aviation."

Lanphier is a former war flier and former commander of the crack First Pursuit Group of Selfridge Field, Mt. Clemens, Mich.

The brewery plant once was linked with the name of Ownie Madden, Broadway racketeer boss. Last December it was padlocked by a federal judge.

3 CHILDREN DIE ON RAILS

SUNBURY, Pa., June 16.—(INS.)—Three torn little bodies today told a mute story of the heroic efforts of a 15-year-old girl to save her 5-year-old step-sister from the path of a speeding railroad train while carrying a second step-sister in her arms.

The dead are Lenora St. Clair, 15; Mabel Burgess, 3, and Jacqueline Burgess, 5.

While returning to their home after bathing near Hamilton, the children decided to take a short cut and walked close to the railroad tracks. Jacqueline ran ahead of the two and stepped upon the rails.

Believed to have heard or seen the approaching train, Lenora, carrying Mabel in her arms, attempted to pull the second child to safety. The three were struck down.

Summer Is Season for Varied Skin Complaints

Dr. Copeland

At this time of the year the pores of the skin are more active, secrete more sweat and are more liable to infection. The danger of exposure to germs, parasites and contagious skin diseases, is increased by beach parties, bathing in contaminated waters and pools, and contact with poisonous plants.

Many summer skin ailments can be traced to faulty digestion, lack of proper elimination and improper food. For example, soon after eating sea food a person may break out in a rash. The rash may be confined to the chest or face, or it may involve a large part of the body. The skin itches, becomes inflamed and the condition is extremely annoying.

This chain of symptoms is due to a "sensitivity" to the proteins found in sea food. Of course it may be another food—eggs, strawberries, what not. I would advise these sufferers to avoid any foods that produce this reaction. Knowing it comes from some particular food it may not be too difficult to decide just what is the irritating one.

"Impetigo contagiosa" is a common infectious disease of the skin usually encountered during the summer months. It is caused by a germ or parasite and is spread by infected dogs and cats. It is extremely contagious, rapidly spreading from one child to another. In rare instances adults may acquire the disease in beauty shops or barber shops. That is why you select the clean, sanitary shop of which there are plenty.

Though a disagreeable disease, impetigo fortunately is not a serious one. The skin becomes covered with many blisters filled with pus. The blisters break and dry upon the skin, where they appear to be "stuck on," resembling wafers. The inflammation quickly subsides upon the application of a mild and soothing antiseptic lotion.

There are many other summer skin disturbances. I might say a word about "athlete's foot." This affliction is especially common at beaches and summer resorts where the visitors walk about without shoes or slippers. The disease is caused by a parasite usually encountered at bathing beaches, public pools and gymnasiums.

The affliction is more commonly known as "ringworm." When recognized and proper measures are taken, the disease can be easily checked. Too often it is neglected, or patent medicines are used without success.

Never neglect inflammation or itching of the skin. If you are in doubt and do not know what your trouble is, consult with your doctor. Prompt and reliable medical attention will save you many hours of unnecessary suffering and worry.

Answers to Health Queries

M. K. Q.—What causes pus under the eyes?

A.—This may be due to a kidney or heart condition. It would be well to have a urinalysis made.

Mrs. W. N. B. Q.—What causes a nervous twitching of the upper lip?

'KIDNAPED' GIRL, 14, FOUND BRIDE

She eloped and became the bride of George Legler, 24, who explained:

"We just decided to elope after a little quarrel with my mother-in-law over our marriage plans."

The couple was married in Aurora, Col., soon after the girl's grandmother, Mrs. Ida Hetzler, reported to police early yesterday the girl had been abducted from her bedroom.

Mrs. Legler, the former Miss Nickerson, said she obtained a marriage license in Denver Wednesday, giving her age as 18.

Mrs. George Legler, Sr., mother of the groom, said she accompanied the couple to Aurora and witnessed the ceremony.

21 POLICEMEN IN TRANSFERS

Two lieutenants, two sergeants and 17 patrolmen were transferred by Police Supt. Franklin T. McQuaide yesterday.

Sergt. John T. Vincent was moved from Center Avenue to Mt. Washington and Sergt. Joseph Kohnke from Mt. Washington to Center Avenue.

I. O. O. F., Rebekahs Name Pittsburghers

Three Pittsburghers were honored at the joint conventions of the Pennsylvania Odd Fellows and Rebekahs, which closed yesterday in Erie. Norval R. Daugherty, of Pittsburgh, were elected grand master of the Odd Fellows, and Mrs. Garnet Drake, of Pittsburgh, deputy president, and Tosa Morrow, also of Pittsburgh treasurer of the Rebekahs.

FIND MAN DEAD FROM FUMES

Lewis Davis, 42, of Oak drive, Leetsdale, was found dead last night in his automobile in the garage in the rear of his home, a victim of carbon monoxide poisoning, the Coroner's office reported.

The body was discovered by Mildred Oberg, who lives at the Davis home. The garage doors were closed, the ignition on the car turned on and the gasoline tank empty. Davis, an accountant, was melancholy and under the care of a physician for several years, Deputy Coroner Robert D. Newman said.

Stockholders Sue Firm for Dividend

An equity action has been filed to compel the Goodman Engine and Machine Company, Frank T. Goodman and others to declare a dividend out of surplus. The suit was filed by James Hogan, A. E. Gray and W. N. Rogan. They aver that the company, which is capitalized at $60,000, has set aside a large reserve, from which dividends should be declared.

SCHOLARSHIPS FOR TEACHERS

Scholarships to 365 teachers in Pittsburgh schools were awarded by the Henry C. Frick Educational commission at its annual meeting and dinner last night in the William Penn Hotel.

The scholarships are for summer courses in 54 colleges and universities both in America and abroad.

Indian Fighter Dies at Age of 82

HARRISBURG, June 16.—(AP.)—Amos H. Crouse, 82, who rode with the Texas Rangers and fought in Indian wars, died yesterday at his home.

He is survived by four daughters and three sons, all of Harrisburg except A. M. Crouse, of Monessen; a brother, W. A. Crouse, of Philadelphia, and a sister, Mrs. J. C. Henderson, of Charleroi.

Spann Secretary Of Securities Board

Representative Max Spann, of Pittsburgh, has been elected secretary of the Joint Legislative Committee to investigate the State Securities Commission, according to an Associated Press dispatch from Harrisburg. Senator Frank L. Fay, of Mercer County, was named chairman.

SOVIET EXTENDS FARM CONTROL

MOSCOW, June 16.—(AP.)—The Communist party tightened its grip of Soviet agriculture today by decreeing through its central committee the immediate extension of control by its "political sections" to all collective farms.

Since January 2,776 political sections, comprised of "small groups of party members, have been functioning in state farms and tractor stations in what amounts to a widespread organization of vigilantes.

The chief activities of these groups have been to perfect discipline, weed out dissident elements and generally improve production. Great successes are claimed for their operations.

CHASE REVEALS SHIRT THEFT

When City Detectives William Sullivan and Charles Waizenhofer saw John Baharm, 33, run down Penn avenue near Ninth street with a fire extinguisher last night, they joined in the race. Catching up with the "fireman," the sleuths asked:

"Where's the fire?"

Baharm said he did not know. The sleuths arrested him when they found a bundle of shirts and socks under his arm, they said. Baharm, listed as having no home, was lodged in the Central Police Station on a suspicious person charge.

THE opportunities, to which we refer, are the daily bargains to be found in every shopping area. Some people find them quite by chance . . . stumble over them blindly . . . and acquire them with astonishment. Others never seem to be in the right store at the right time: If there's a 25% marked-down sale of shoes at Smith's, they are buying at Brown & Co. . . . If a grocer three blocks away is clearing out his canned goods at half-price, they are at the corner store making routine purchases.

But—there are some people who always find these opportunities. Their money buys them more—and better—merchandise than their neighbors'. Why? Not through good luck, you may be sure; but simply because these people read the advertisements in their daily newspapers.

DEAL MAKES TERRY'S CLUB FORMIDABLE

WHILE BATTING AVERAGES that are below normal leave the present value of some of the players involved, as compared with their worth in previous years, open to conjecture, there is hardly any question that Bill Terry and Bill McKechnie strengthened their clubs greatly by yesterday's trading operations. This is particularly true of the Giants' swap with the Dodgers. Though Leslie, with an average of .319, is a fine hitter, Terry can well get along without his extra first baseman, whereas he obtains in Clark the additional capable starting pitcher the Giants needed to stay in the race, and if O'Doul regains his batting form, of which there is a chance in new surroundings, beating out the Giants will be a job for the other pennant contenders.

Bill Terry

Though Whitney and Lee have batted only .237 and .276 so far, both are capable of much higher averages, and there is no doubt that McKechnie has bolstered the Braves with needed new hitting power in obtaining them for Knothe, Schulmerich and money. The Phils again have sacrificed playing strength for cash. Brooklyn has plugged the first-base hole in getting Leslie, but unless there is something wrong with Clark it looks as though Max Carey gave up more than he received.

THE APPEARANCE OF Jimmy Pastorious in the Old Timers' game at Forbes Field recently came almost on the twenty-fifth anniversary of a memorable occasion when he was a principal in one of the greatest pitchers' battles in the history of the major leagues and the longest 1-to-0 game ever played in Pittsburgh.

The South Hills resident, then in his third season as a pitcher for the Brooklyn club, hooked up in a southpaw slab duel with Irving (Young Cy) Young, of the Pirates, at Exposition Park on Saturday, August 22, 1908, and suffered one of the toughest defeats on record by losing a game in which he shut out his opponents for 16 innings. A single run gave the contest to the Bucs in the seventeenth frame.

FOUR OTHER MEN who took part in that marathon struggle appeared in the Old Timers' game with Pastorious. They were Fred Clarke, Honus Wagner, George Gibson and Ed Abbaticchio. Of all the members of the two teams, only Gibson and Wagner now are in the big leagues.

The game was all the more remarkable because it was played under unfavorable weather conditions. Play was late in starting on account of rain, and was interrupted twice by showers. Yet, though often forced to work with a wet ball, Young and Pastorious gave a pitching exhibtion that rarely has been equaled anywhere.

PRIOR TO THE seventeenth inning, only one man on each side got as far as third base, Gibson for the Bucs in the third round and Pastorious for the Dodgers in the thirteenth, though Young was kept out of trouble on three occasions by great plays on the part of Roy Thomas, Chief Wilson and Wagner. It remained for Young himself to score the run that won his own game in the seventeenth. Young Cy, whom Pittsburgh had obtained from Boston in a trade for Pitchers Tom McCarthy and Harley (Young Cy II) Young, singled to center after Wilson and Gibson had flied out. Thomas put him on third with a single to right and took second on McMillan's unsuccessful throw to catch Young at third. Tommy Leach was given an intentional walk, filling the bases, and Dan Moeller, who had followed Clarke and Spike Shannon in left, then ended the long game with a Texas Leaguer to center that scored Young with the only run of the day.

Wilbur Cooper

THOUGH THAT WAS the longest 1-to-0 game ever played in Pittsburgh, and within one inning of the major league record for a contest of that kind, it was not the longest stretch the Bucs ever have gone through before either side scored. The Pirates and Braves set the major league record for scoreless play with 20 barren innings.

That game was played in Boston on August 1, 1918, and the Bucs won out, 2 to 0, by scoring two runs in the twenty-first stanza. Wilbur Cooper saved the day for Pittsburgh by relieving Erskine Mayer with one down in the sixteenth inning, pitching the Rovers out of a hole and hurling air-tight ball to the finish to win the decision over Art Nehf, who went the whole route for Boston.

YOU CAN'T TELL much about a fighter in an exhibition, and Max Baer is not of the exhibition type in the first place, but it's easy to imagine the rare fighting power that is stored in the rugged frame that was on display last night in the North Braddock Bowl.

With that physical equipment, including his terrific punch, the heavyweight championship may not be beyond the reach of this Jekyl-and-Hyde dual personality, who is on the one side a smiling joker and on the other a Queensberry destroyer. Baer's temperament is another asset. If he worries about anything at any time nobody has been able to discover it.

IN EXPLAINING HIS action in walking out of a Detroit ring because he found Britt Gorman, his scheduled opponent, to be a southpaw, Midget Wolgast, world flyweight champion, says Gorman violated an agreement by coming in to fight in that style. It is said that Gorman and his manager, Barry McCormick, knowing Wolgast's distaste for southies, led Midget to believe that Gorman had been converted into a right-hander, hoping in that way to gain the advantage of a surprise, to have Wolgast train for a right-hander and then confront him with a left-hander.

GORMAN AND M'CORMICK deny the charge, but in any event Wolgast has put himself in bad odor in Detroit, and the fans there want no more of him. Two weeks earlier, when he outboxed Ernie Maurer, they compared him with Pancho Villa and Frankie Genaro. Now they say that to compare him with Villa or Genaro is as ridiculous as to bracket K. O. Christner with Sullivan or Dempsey.

Harry Tuthill, veteran trainer, is among those denouncing Wolgast. He says he has been watching fights for more than 40 years and never saw anything like that before. Imagine any of the real champions of earlier years refusing to fight because they didn't like an opponent's style. They left the ring only when they had the other fellow on the floor.

AS FAST AS Duquesne University loses basketball stars by graduation new ones come in to replace them. The Dukes' chances of maintaining the intercollegiate floor supremacy of this district have helped a lot by the decision of one of the best players in the high school ranks to enter the Bluff school.

Bill Jesko

He is none other than Bill Jesko, sensational star of South High's district champions. Jesko, possessing rare ability that would have made him welcome at any college with basketball ambitions, has decided that he would like to play under Chick Davies, and he will enter Duquesne in September to become eligible for the varsity team season after next.

RIVAL COACHES WILL be casting envious glances at Davies, for the best basketball minds hereabouts consider Jesko one of the future college stars of the country. Grover Washabaugh, able coach at South High, pronounces Bill the best player he ever tutored and predicts great things for him at Duquesne. Johnny Freund, who probably made at least the second basketball if not the first, rates Jesko with such former South High stars as Baker, McGarey, Gentille, Callahan, Gross, McDonnell and Broderick, all of whom ranked among the greatest ever to play in this region in any class. Johnny goes so far as to say he believes the youngster to be a second Charley Hyatt. Jesko comes of a basketball family, as several of his brothers were fine performers, particularly Eddie, who made an enviable record at South. Aside from his basketball ability, Bill was one of the best students at South High, according to the school heads. Before becoming eligible for the varsity in his sophomore year, Jesko will be out for the freshman five at Duquesne next winter. Basketball followers have a faint notion that he will make it.

YALE, HARVARD CREWS SHARE LAURELS

REGATTA COURSE, NEW LONDON, Conn., June 16.—(AP.)—A great spurt in the last 70 yards gave Harvard's Junior Varsity a smashing victory over the Yale Jayvees by three quarters of a length and the Crimson an even break in the two morning races of the seventy-first annual regetta between these ancient rivals here today.

Yale's undefeated freshman eight had opened the program with an easy victory over the Harvard Yearlings by four lengths. Yale won the combined race last night.

Both races today were rowed over the upper two miles of the varsity course. The Crimson's time in the Junior Varsity race was 11 minutes 49 1-5 seconds. Yale was clocked in 11:49 4-5.

The Eli freshmen negotiated the two miles in 12:06 2-5, while Harvard was timed in 12:26 2-5.

These preliminaries served mainly as appetizers for the big race, the four-mile varsity pull down the river bringing the regatta to its grand climax this evening, starting at 6:45 p. m., for upwards of 40,000 spectators.

Harvard ruled a slight favorite to capture the main event for the third successive year.

Corsairs Drop Tulsa as Farm

TULSA, Okla., June 16.—(AP.)—A possibility the Tulsa Oilers would join the Fort Worth Cats as "orphans" of the Texas League loomed here today with the announcement the Pittsburgh National League Club, through William Benswanger, president, had withdrawn its support.

The Pirates last year invested $35,000 in the Tulsa farm, then affiliated with the Western League, and spent another $15,000 in improving Fairgrounds Park and installing a lighting system. So far this year Pittsburgh has spent about $5,000 on the Tulsa Texas League entry, Art Griggs, manager of the club said.

EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF YESTERDAY: THE NESTOR OF CHURCHES—St. Martin's Church in Canterbury is considered the oldest still existing church in Christendom. According to Bede, "there was near the city a church built of old in honor of St. Martin while Romans still inhabited Britain." The Romans left Britain early in the first decade of the fifth century. In historical times, Bertha, wife of Ethelbert, King of Kent, and granddaughter of Clovis, Emperor of the Franks, used this building for her devotions in 597. This would indicate a record of more than 1,300 years of uninterrupted religious service within the ancient edifice. Its walls have been hallowed by the personal presence of St. Augustine. Its squat tower, narrow body and weather-beaten surface certainly look its great age. A RECORD CHEW—The late Daniel L. Hart, who died in February, 1932, after being Mayor of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., for four terms (14 years), chewed a special brand of expensive cigar for 40 years. He acquired this habit when a newspaper man and continued the curious cigar "nursing" without a break for four decades, although he never drew a single puff of smoke.
TOMORROW: A BICYCLE FOR SEVEN.

BUCS BLANKED BY TINNING, LOSE, 5-0

CHICAGO, June 16.—The Pirates today were in full realization of the fact that they would have to find some way to rescue stranded runners else the club will soon be right back at the old .500 mark, and when a team moves along at a 50-50 clip it loses most of its prestige. True, the Pittsburgh pitching has been anything but consistent in the past three weeks, but the batters would have carried the sharpshooters over a slumping period had they produced their bingles at more opportune periods.

It is quite the usual thing for the skidding Buccos to leave 10 or more runners stranded on the runways since they went into their lethargic stride. This was the case yesterday as they dropped a 5 to 0 contest to the Cubs, and the custom shows indications of becoming a habit-forming drug.

BUCS GET BREAK

Fortunately for the Buccos the Giants were knocked off yesterday and the Freebooters did not suffer any loss of ground to Bill Terry's pacesetters, but the Bucs are still three and one-half games away from top. Furthermore, things are looking up for Memphis Bill today as a result of a slick deal be put over with the Dodgers yesterday.

The feeling in the Pittsburgh camp today was to the effect that Terry got the better of Max Carey in acquiring Pitcher Watson Clarke and Outfielder Frank O'Doul. Terry had to give up First Baseman Sam Leslie, who truly is a fine batter and a good hustler, but having two first basemen on one club is akin to having two wheels on a wheelbarrow, especially if one of the gateway tenders is as efficient as Terry.

Southpaw Bill Clarke won 20 games last season and O'Doul was the best batter in either league.

GIBSON PROTESTS

Manager Gibson finished yesterday's contest under protest after the Cubs had worked the old hidden ball trick on Pitcher Hal Smith in the fifth round. Gibby claimed that the action had been halted and that the ball therefore was not in play when Smith was touched near second. Hal opened the frame with a double. L. Waner singled out, but P. Waner singled to right. Babe Herman claimed he caught Paul's scooped single and he ran into the infield to protest the decision. Smith, who was half way to third, ran back to second. Tinning walked to the mound, but Jurges had the ball concealed and when the pitcher walked off second Jurges tagged him and the play was allowed.

Tinning pitched the entire game for the Cubs and gave up only four hits.

City School Title Game Postponed

The second game of the series between South Hills and Westinghouse for the city scholastic baseball championship, scheduled at Dormont High Field this afternoon, was called off on account of rain. No date was set for the playoff. South Hills won the first game and needs another victory to clinch the title.

The Forbes school nine won the East End-Central district grade school title yesterday, defeating Lemington, 13 to 7, and won the right to meet Brookline for the city championship. The game will be played next Tuesday at a site yet to be selected.

Rain Keeps Local Sandlotters Idle

Rain and wet grounds today prevented the playing of games scheduled in local sandlot leagues.

Among the important games affected was the Book-Dormont and Thomas-Homewood frays in the City League.

The Homestead Grays had little difficulty in knocking off the Ford City Independents at Ford City last evening, winning 13 to 5.

In the City League, the Gillespies defeated the J. L. Thomas club, 9 to 4, while the Books warmed up for their tussle with Dormont this evening by beating Whitaker, 7 to 2.

Jockey Dies After Bainbridge Spill

CLEVELAND, June 16.—Jockey Ray Arnold, of Keosoqua, Ia., died in a local hospital last night from injuries received when his mount fell during the running of the fifth race at the Bainbridge track yesterday.

Arnold's mount stumbled and threw the jockey to the ground. It was the first major accident of the meet.

KNOCKOUTS THRILL FANS AT BAER SHOW

MAXIE MAKES 'EXHIBITION' REAL FIGHT

By HARRY KECK,
Sports Editor.

The Pittsburgh district last night had its greatest all-round fight show in years before only a half-full house at the North Braddock Bowl. It was the Jack Dempsey-Max Baer exhibition card, with the turnout held down by the overcast skies and the threat of a chilly night.

Three sizzling knockouts featured the show, and when the fans who stayed away hear those who were there raving about the battles they'll be kicking themselves for not having been on hand.

So fast and snappy was the action that the entire show, which got under way at 8:45 o'clock, was over before 10, and the best exhibition bout we've ever had here was almost lost sight of in the hurricane of leather that brought the untimely finishes.

BAER SHOWS CLASS

The happy-go-lucky Baer, just a week to the night after his sensational technical knockout victory over Max Schmeling in New York, worked three full three-minute rounds with the very large 241-pound Seal Harris, Chicago Negro, and made it a fight all of the way. They used big gloves, but no headgears or full-length trunks and punched it out from bell to bell.

Baer locked every inch an Adonis of the ring, with his exceedingly broad shoulders, tapering waist and long, lean legs, and he evinced a sheer delight for fighting. Like the Dempsey of yore, he simply couldn't hold back his punches, and his ripping lefts to the body and head and rights under the heart had the hard-working Harris wobbly several times. Both came out of the scuffle with a bloody nose. Baer alternated at laughing and snarling and blazing away. He looks like no part of a false alarm as a championship threat. He stripped at 204 pounds.

M'ARTHUR STOPPED

Because of the threatening weather, the exhibition was put on after the first bout, a hotly-contested six-rounder in which Harry (Kid) Jackson, Hill Negro 172-pounder, upset the dope by outscoring Tony Di Piero, 170, to win the referee's decision.

The scheduled 10-round main preliminary followed the exhibition and was halted by Referee Jack Dempsey, who also officiated in the Baer bout, and did a good job of it, after 56 seconds of the third round to save Buddy McArthur, of Fairmont, W. Va., from further punishment from Sunny Jim McVey, Hill district Negro light-heavyweight.

DEMPSEY HALTS BOUT

Sunny Jim, a lusty belter, almost floored Buddy with a left hook in the first round, outscored him in the second and dropped him for a count with a zooming left hook at the start of the third. Another left hook made Buddy grab McVey about the body, and then, when he fell into the ropes without being hit and couldn't get up, Dempsey herded his opponent into a neutral corner and held the latter's arm aloft in token of victory. McArthur got up limping, having hurt his ankle going down the first time. The round lasted only 56 seconds.

The next bout, between Georgie Simpson, middleweight with the Baer party, and Jack Wilson, lacked 45 seconds of going one full round. Simpson, a terrific puncher, tore into Wilson at the gong and pelted him around and finally out upon the ring platform. Wilson took a count of one there and then picked himself up and clambered through the ropes and immediately went down again inside the ring without being hit.

WILSON ALSO KAYOED

The knockdown timer, Tommy Grant, properly quit counting and called the referee's attention to the fact that Wilson had gone down without being hit, a foul which calls for disqualification. The referee, Joe Orsini, hesitated, and then decided to give Wilson and the fans the benefit of the doubt and carried on up to nine. Wilson got himself straightened out and was moving around and forcing Simpson to miss some of his swings until he finally ran into another one flush on the jaw and went down on his back for the knockout.

Came then the real fireworks in the one remaining bout, which was to have been the six-round semi-final in the original order of procedure. It brought together big Jack Pallat, of Cleveland, 205½-pound former National amateur heavyweight champion, who has fought two good bouts with Frank Novak here, and Lloyd Clements, of Jeannette, weighing only 177 and outclassed in the matters of height and reach.

PALLET OUT COLD

After being punched from pillar to post in the first round, Clements started throwing his right in the second and finally connected and dropped his big opponent to one knee for a count of nine, and, as he arose, rushed across the ring and connected with a sockdologer which stretched Pallat out cold. Jack was out so stiff that for a time it was feared he was seriously injured and the crowd stayed on and milled about the ringside.

It was fully five minutes before Pallat came around, with the aid of heroic work by the doctor, Referee Red Robinson and the seconds, and even then he couldn't stand and had to be dragged to his corner. It was one of the coldest kayos we've ever had around here, and gave Bunny Buntach's stable its second knockout victory of the night, McVey having produced the first at the expense of McArthur, who in his last previous start had gone 10 rounds with Maxie Rosenbloom, the world light-heavyweight champion.

MAX BAER

W. & J. SPORTS SHOW PROFIT

WASHINGTON, Pa., June 16.—Winter and spring sports at W. & J.—basketball, wrestling, boxing, track and tennis, are certain of being continued next year, Dr. Ralph C. Hutchison said today, due to the fact each finished the school year with its financial accounts showing a positive balance.

At the start of the last school year there was some question as to whether any or all of these activities would be continued for the reason that for some years past they had been "in the red." Students were informed that each sport would have to be financially self sustaining to be continued and their co-operation toward that end was solicited. They came through furnishing transportation for the teams and holding down equipment expense as much as possible, with the result that at the year's end all five sports showed a total profit of approximately $200.

Coaches for two of the sports probably will be the same as last year, with George H. Bartholomew, director of physical education, handling wrestling, and Dr. M. A. Dickie and other faculty members tutoring the tennis players.

Track Stars Clash In Chicago Meet

CHICAGO, June 16.—(AP.)—Track and field stars of the nation, high school youths and intercollegiate sensations, brought their seven league boots to Soldier Field today to open one of the greatest assaults on world records in years.

Nine hundred athletes, 500 of them collegians, and 44 of the interscholastic variety, representing approximately 150 universities and schools from all sections of the country, competed in the preliminaries of the National Collegiate track and field championships, and the National Interscholastic title events.

The trials in both meets were to be run off simultaneously, with the finals in the interscholastic coming up for decision tomorrow afternoon and the championships in the intercollegiate division to be run off tomorrow night under the flood lights.

Iroquois Poloists To Play Here

J. E. Madden, Jr., nationally known horseman of Hamburg Place, Lexington, Ky., will bring his famous Iroquis Polo Team to Pittsburgh next month for two games with the Pittsburgh Polo and Riding Club. The games will be played Saturday and Sunday afternoon, July 29 and 30, at the Squaw Run field.

The Pittsburgh poloists and the Lexington riders have met for the last two years in Pittsburgh and Lexington and out of the five games already played, the Pittsburgh riders have won three.

The local polo club has cancelled the regular game scheduled for tomorrow afternoon because of the Sewickley horse show.

Between Rounds

The North Braddock Bowl is planning a Sammy Slaughter-Frankie O'Brien fight for next Thursday night and a Jimmy Belmont-Jack King battle for the following Thursday. James (Red) Mason is handling both O'Brien and King.

The Hickey Park Club is ready to stage that Vince Dundee-Ted Yarosz battle at Forbes Field one week from Monday. Due to the fact that the 15-round law does not go into effect until September 1, the bout will be limited to 10 rounds.

There will be three 10-round bouts at Hickey Park next Monday night, with Mose Butch boxing the first feature event again Eddie Pucci, of Canton, O. Jew Raymond meets Billy Holt and Jack Portney takes on Baby Joe Gans in the other 10-rounders.

PLAYERS UNDER BAN TRADED

COLUMBUS, O., June 16.—(AP.)—President George M. Trautman, of the Columbus Red Birds, today announced he had traded Charles Arthur (The Great) Shires, first baseman, and three other players, to the Rochester club of the International League.

With Shires, Trautman said, will go Second Baseman Charley Wilson and Pitchers Jim Lindsey and Fred (Sheriff) Blake.

In exchange, Columbus gets Mickey Heath, first baseman, formerly with the Cincinnati Reds; shortstop Benny Borgman, known also as a professional basketball player, and Pitchers Jim Winford and Ed Husser, who have been with the local club before.

Shires, Wilson and Lindsey, with Gordon Slade, shortstop, were barred from competition under Columbus colors by American Association magnates because of an alleged violation of the league's salary agreement.

CARDS RECALL SLADE

ST. LOUIS, June 16.—(INS.)—Gordon Slade, shortstop of the Columbus team of the American Association and one of four players barred by Association officials because of alleged violation by the club of the league salary limit, today had been recalled by the St. Louis Cardinals. The Cardinal organization, which operate Columbus as a farm, sent Infielder Burgess Whitehead back to Columbus.

ENROUTE WEST, June 16.—More power to Walter Johnson, and his Cleveland Injuns. But the way they've been going lately, they need more than the Big Train to pull them back in the running. They need a couple of mogul engines, too.

Nick Altrock

Peckinpaugh had 'em going nicely at the start of the season. The Indians swung mean tomahawks, scalped a lot of opponents and were making heap much wampum at the Cleveland reservation. Then someone must have put rat poison in their corn meal or something. Anyway, their first Eastern trip was just a toboggan ride. And Peck didn't even have to put on his glasses to see the handwriting on the wall.

So more power to Barney in his new position. And I hope the Big Train will keep the club out of the caboose.

RED SOX SWEEP YANK SERIES

Associated Press.

The Boston Red Sox, cellar dwellers of the American League almost since time immemorial, have climbed out of their usual position to the dizzy heights of seventh place.

The humble tail-enders picked on the New York Yankees, world champions and league leaders, as the instrument of their rise and won four straight games. An 8-to-5 triumph yesterday finally lifted them above the idle St. Louis Browns by the slim margin of a half game, which figures out to a single percentage point at the present stage of the race.

Perhaps the most noticeable improvement in the Boston team this season is its improved spirit and morale and it was that as much as anything else that enabled them to win yesterday. The Yanks cut loose with a couple of home runs, including Tony Lazzeri's eleventh, and tied the score in the seventh inning. The Sox promptly came back with some terrific slugging on their own part and, with the aid of circuit blows by Marty McManus and Roy Johnson, tallied five times in the same stanza to win the ball game.

The Yankee-Red Sox tilt was the only one played in the junior circuit, as Cleveland and Detroit were rained out and the other clubs had an open date.

MRS. HIGBEE LEADER IN WOMEN'S TOURNEY

MARY BROWNE, TITLEHOLDER, IS FOURTH

By TOM BIRKS

Mrs. H. Migbee, of Detroit, led the early finishers at the end of the first 18 holes of the 36-hole women's invitation golf tournament at the Allegheny Country Club today, finishing with an 82, five over par, despite an eight on the seventeenth.

Mary K. Browne, international tennis and golf star and defending titleholder, of Cleveland, was fourth among the early finishers with an 85.

Mrs. Higbee got away to a flying start, touring the first nine holes in 35, one under par. She got into trouble, however, on the seventeenth when she landed in a ditch on her second shot and required two strokes to get out. She finished the last nine in 47, six over par for her 82. M'KEE WINS TITLE

Claude McKee, No. 2 player on the University Pittsburgh golf team, was crowned the tristate intercollegiate champion yesterday afternoon when he defeated Jack Hoblitzell, of West Virginia, in the 36-hole final round of the first tristate intercollegiate tournament, held over the links of the South Hills Country Club.

Pitt, Tech, Duquesne and West Virginia were represented in the meet. The Blue and Gold of Pitt was victorious in the team matches.

McKee, a South Hills Country Club boy, played great golf to beat the Mountaineer. He was 2 up at the end of the morning round, and he held the advantage after lunch.

TIED FOR LEAD

Miss Betty Abernathy and Mrs. W. H. Duff II, both of Oakmont, tied for low gross honors in the one-day Women's Golf Association tournament played over the Fox Chapel course yesterday. Both had scores of 90.

Mrs. Duff won the low net prize in Section I with a 90-13-77; Mrs. Gordon Fisher, Jr., of the home club, took the honors in Section II with 97-17-80, and Mrs. Guy V. Eborgi, of Oakmont, won in Section II with 104-23-81.

GRAPHIC GOLF

PITCHING FOR THE PIN

Many strokes are seemingly wasted by the hesitancy on the part of the golfer to pitch the ball firmly and fearlessly to the green.

The ordinary player has a dread of overplaying the flag. Instead, he will try to size up the area between the green and the cup and attempt to loft the ball a certain distance and allow luck and roll to cover the remaining yards. As a consequence, the ball is not only a prey of the rough spots that may lie between and deflect its course, but it often is struck timidly and falls far short of reaching the objective.

"There are no hazards in the air."

This is true and the added advantage now is that the greens are so well watered that they generally will hold a pitch shot.

Even should the player be a few yards past it is as easy playing back as forward.

Des Moines Girl Gains Semi-Finals

The tournament medalist came from behind to win and became a favorite to take the title.

Entering the semi-finals with the Des Moines girl were Miss Phyllis Buchanan, of Denver; Mrs. Lillian Zech, of Chicago, and Mrs. D. W. Snyder, of Kansas City.

GIANTS, BRAVES GAIN IN SWAP OF PLAYERS

NEW YORK, June 16.—(AP.)—The New York Giants, Brooklyn Dodgers, Boston Braves and Phillies were the only major league clubs to put through player deals before the bars went up in the baseball market place at midnight last night.

The Giants and Dodgers staged their swap early yesterday, but the Boston-Philadelphia deal went through just before the time limit for such deals expired.

Frank (Lefty) O'Doul, greatest hitter in the National League last season, and Watson Clark, one of the game's outstanding lefthanded pitchers, moved over from the Dodgers to the Giants in exchange for slugging Sam Leslie.

The Phillies sent Third Baseman Arthur (Pinkey) Whitney and Outfielder Hal Lee to the Braves for Fritz Knothe, Wesley Schulmerich and an unannounced sum of cash, said unofficially to be "upwards to $75,000."

The trade takes away the Phillies' captain as well as one of the best younger outfielders in the league. Whitney came to the Phils in 1928, and Lee was acquired from Brooklyn in 1929.

The Giants also announced the sale of Ray Starr, right-handed pitcher, to the Boston Braves. Starr had to go because the acquisition of O'Doul and Clark raised the Giant roster one over the legal limit of 23.

PHILADELPHIA. — (AP.) — Three collegiate netmen have crashed the semi-finals of the Pennsylvania and Middle States Tennis title tourney and established themselves as prominent contenders for the coming intercollegiate championship race. They are Karl Kamrath, second-seeded star, and his teammate the Texas Conference singles titlist, Martin Buxby, survived quarter-final round play for Texas, and the Navy's one-man contingent, Ensign C. Elliott Lourhin, 1933 academy team captain.

BECKENHAM, Eng.—(AP.)—Recovering from illness that forced the postponement of her match until the cool of the evening, Mrs. Helen Wills Moody yesterday paired with Miss Elizabeth Ryan to enter the semi-final round of the Kent tennis doubles championships. The American team, favorite to win the title, defeated the all-English combination of Mrs. E. H. Harvey and Mrs. Holcroft Watson, 6-3, 6-2.

Vice Chairman John D. Holahan, of the sport committee of the Ancient Order of Hibernians' Irish Day reunion, reports that tommorw midnight will mark the deadline for all entries for the track and field events in the free school meet for pupils of the seventh and eighth grades and high schools among the parish school boys of Allegheny County. The reunion will be staged at Kennywood Park, Saturday, June 24.

From Rochester, N. Y., comes the word that Tom Davies, former all-American cridder at Pitt, now football coach at the University of Rochester, played a round of 69 at the Oak Hill Country Club golf course there last Saturday. This is two under par and one of the finest rounds ever played over the course by an amateur.

FOLKESTONE, England.—(AP.)—The United States team continued in the lead in the International Chess Federation tournament yesterday by scoring 5½ points in seven games decided in the fourth and fifth rounds against Poland and Belgium, respectively. A. W. Dake won two games for the Americans; Isaac Kashdan won one and drew one; F. J. Marshall drew twice. A. C. Simonson was the other winner.

NEW ALBANY, Ind.—(AP.)—John McDiarmid, Ft. Worth, Tex., entered the semi-finals of the Indiana State tennis tournament yesterday by defeating William Fleming, of Cincinnati, 6-2, 6-2. Arnold Simons, Louisville, also went into the semi-finals by eliminating Charles Coleman, of Danville, Ky., 6-1, 6-3.

ASCOT, Eng.—(AP.)—King George's Limelight, at odds of 7-to-1, today won the Hardwicke Stakes at a mile and a half for one of his majesty's few racing victories of the year. Limelight won by a neck from D. S. Kennedy's Nitsichin, which ran third yesterday in the two and a half mile Gold Cup, and Sir C. Chubb's Donna Sol was third, only a head back in the blanket finish. Eight ran.

JAVELIN MARK FALLS

HELSINGFORS, Finland, June 16.—(AP.)—Matti Jarvinen, Olympic javelin champion, yesterday bettered his own world record for the event, tossing the spear 249 feet 8¼ inches. His listed record is 242 feet 10¾ inches.

DARTMOUTH LOSES

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., June 16.—(AP.)—Timely hitting in the eighth inning yesterday enabled Harvard to nose out Dartmouth, 6-5, and climb into third place in the Eastern Intercollegiate Baseball League standing.

Eberle Clicks With Dempsey, May Get Job

While the entire show was clicking in big league style in the North Braddock Bowl last night, an active participant in the program was getting a break almost unnoticed by the fans. He was Ray Eberle, demon announcer, of Aliquippa, who registered in a big way with Promoter Jack Dempsey, and, as a result, may get a chance to work in New York under Dempsey's auspices.

Dempsey, while in the ring for Max Baer's exhibition and the McVey-McArthur bout which followed, got a big kick out of Ray's announcing and told him later to carry on. He said:

"If Joe Humphries is as bad off from his stroke as reports indicate, you have a big chance ahead of you. You're in a class by yourself, next to Joe, and one of these days I may be sending for you."

Was Eberle's face red?

GUNNERS VIE FOR TITLE

YORK, Pa., June 16.—(AP.)—The 200-target championship, piece de resistance of the Pennsylvania State Sportsmen's Association's annual trapshooting tournament, will be shot today, with Steve Crothers, of Chestnut Hill, Pa., defending the title he won last year.

Champions were crowned in the class championship and doubles events on yesterday's opening card.

Competing in a field of 70, Crother's shattered 149 of 150 targets to win the class championship. There was a tie for second place between W. S. Beaver, Berwin, and C. H. Newcomb, Philadelphia, at 146. In the shoot-off Newcomb broke 15 targets and Beaver 24.

Class E—R. E. Downs, Felton, 132; Dr. S. H. Ensminger, York, 127.

C. H. Newcomb, Philadelphia, captured the doubles of 50 pair with a score of 91. A. Maulhaupt, Bradford, was second with 88. The Class B winners in the doubles were T. C. Carson, Lansdowne, 86, and G. E. Painter, Pittsburgh, 81.

Eastern Women Enter Net Final

PHILADELPHIA, June 16.—(AP.)—Mrs. John H. Jessup, Wilmington, Del., and Anne Townsend, Merion, Pa., ranking players in the tournament, have gained the final round for the Pennsylvania and Eastern states women's tennis championship.

Mrs. Jessup yesterday defeated Anne Page, Merion, seeded fourth, 6-0, 6-3, while Miss Townsend eleminated the newly crowned southeastern Pennsylvania titlist, Mrs. De Lloyd Thompson, Washington, Pa., 6-8, 6-2, 6-2.

Filly Wins Race After Warm-Up Of Five Miles

Installed an 11-to-10 favorite for the fifth race at Belmont Park yesterday, the filly was feeling so frisky when she went to the post that she tossed her rider, ran away on an impromptu jaunt of five miles and plunged through a hedge.

Watch Her, still full of pep, pranced back to the starting line, and won the race like a champion in time that was only a second and three-fifths slower than the track record.

PAIRINGS SET FOR WEST PENN NET PLAY

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

A hundred and one racqueters, ranging in class from expert to novice, fare forth tomorrow in quest of the David I. McCahill Cup, symbolic of men's district singles honors, as the forty-fifth annual Western Pennsylvania tennis championships swings into action here on the courts of the Stanton Heights Golf Club.

The tremendous size of the starting field overtaxes the Stantonian playing facilities with result that contestants listed in the lower half of the draw will reel off their Saturday matches at the Pittsburgh Golf Club.

ARKLE SEEDED NO. 1

B. F. Arkle, Wheeling ace and current defender of the McCahill flagon, heads a seeded group of 12 spread through pairings pulled by Tournament Chairman Frank S. Smith and his aides in session at Stanton Heights last evening. Dr. John O'Loughlin, P. A. A. mainstay and 1932 West Penn runner-up, is second, with Bill Haseltine, crack Philadelphian and captor of the bowl in 1930 and 1931, third, and Dr. Dave O'Loughlin, Winged Head leader, and Western Pennsylvania premier in 1925 and 1926, fourth.

WOMEN STARS ENTER

Margaret Carspecken and Frances Grimes, Morgantown satellites ranked respectively second and sixth in the Middle Atlantic feminine ratings, have indicated intention to add their names to ladies' contingent that already boasts performers of the magnitude of Champion Dorothy Anderson, Mrs. Martha Guthrie Snowdon, Miriam Sullivan, Dorothy Jarvis, and Mrs. Jean Artzberger. The drawings:

Women Champions Clash for Title

READING, Pa., June 16.—(AP.) — Defending champion meets former titleholder today in the final round of the Central Pennsylvania women's golf tournament.

Mrs. Elmer Rice, of Lancaster, the titleholder, retained her right to meet Mrs. John F. Sevison, of Pottstown in the play-off, but it cost her a stiff uphill fight against 15-year-old Jane De Long, of Reading.

SPORT VIGNETTES

Suppose you went to a theater to see the moving pictures of a big fight and then, at the finish, without any warning, you were informed that the winner of the bout was sitting in your midst and had the spotlight turned upon him . . . That's what happened at the Fulton Theater yesterday at the noon performance . . . Max Baer, here to box an exhibition at the North Braddock Bowl last night, was in the crowd, seeing the pictures of his bout with Max Schmeling for the first time . . . Incidentally, he revealed that it was when he saw the pictures of Schmeling's fight with Mickey Walker, which the German won with a knockout, that he first got the idea that he could beat the other Max.

Baer was at the pier to see Schmeling depart for Germany after their bout and was impressed by the latter's personality. . . "He's a nice fellow," he said yesterday. . . . "I met some of his relatives and had a talk with Max. . . . You have to be in his company only a few minutes before you take a keen liking to him. . . . He's a good sport and a good fighter. . . . I like him a lot."

Mike Cantwell, Baer's trainer, reminesced about the Baer-Schmeling fight. . . "After Schmeling began to protest Baer's tactics in the early rounds, I told Baer when he returned to his corner to quit being so apologetic," he said. . . . "I told him to take a Sunday punch at him the next time Schmeling squawked. . . . 'Naw, he's a nice fellow and he's not hurting me, and I'll knock him out,' was his reply, and he did."

Cantwell also told of another interesting sidelight on the big bout . . . It had to do with Baer's coolness before the battle, when he took his father aside and said: Now, Pop, you go out there and find your seat and sit down and get ready to enjoy a great fight . . . Don't worry about me, or I'll be worrying about you . . . Just forget I'm your son; think of me as somebody else's boy . . . Everything will be all right . . . Remember your heart isn't what it used to be, so don't get excited."

Jack Dempsey, promoter of the Schmeling-Baer fight and partner of Baer on his exhibition jaunt, was asked by Louis L. Kaufman during their broadcast from the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph yesterday: "Jack, they tell me you have taken the place of Tex Rickard as a promoter. How does it feel to stand in Tex's shoes?" . . . Dempsey's reply was an epic for modesty . . . "Louie," he said, "there was only one Tex Rickard, and there never will be another."—HARRY KECK.

SHOOT TOMORROW

A revolver match, open to any marksman in the state firing a .38 caliber revolver, will be held tomorrow on the Bellevue police range, Union avenue, Bellevue. Prizes will be awarded winners in the various classes.

Three Members of Foursome Score Aces

OAK HILL, W. Va., June 16.—(AP.)—Three members of S. A. Scott's foursome proved to him that a hole-in-one he scored a week ago was not a miracle.

One after another they listened to Scott boast of his ace on the White Sulphur Springs course last Saturday.

DeWitt Snyder sank his from the tee on a 155-yard hole, C. E. Howard and B. C. Burnside both made holes-in-one on the 145-yard No. 8, at the White Oak Country Club course.

ROONEY SIGNS STARS FOR PRO TEAM

By JESS CARVER

It will be quite a spell before the footballers dust off their togs and the thud of leather meeting leather the smack of fist meeting chin and the plunk of John J. Fan's coin at the ticket window resound throughout the land, but there is some important gridiron goings-on hereabouts.

Art Rooney, who is going to give Pittsburgh its first big league professional football team, is hard at work lining up a ball club. He has secured a coach, Jap Douds, famous son of Wash-Jeff, former all-American tackle star, and a candidate for quarterback in George Shaffer, who quarterbacked W. & J.'s varsity last year. Douds will both coach and play for the local eleven.

Today is just Friday to most folks, but it's THE big day for Paul Reider, captain of last fall's Pitt eleven. Paul and Miss Ann Farrell were married this morning at 10 o'clock in the Holy Rosary Church, Kelly street.

Joe Beggs, Geneva's crack javelin tosser, and Howard Spencer, the Covenanters' high jump and hurdle specialist, are in Chicago today, where they will compete in the National Collegiate Athletic Association track and field championships.

Spencer will confine his efforts to the high jump, an event in which he is conceded a fine chance to take down the first place medal.

DADO MUST FIGHT

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., June 16.—(INS.)—Speedy Dado, noted Filipino bantamweight, will fight Joe Teiken, Korean battler, tonight or else—the State Athletic Commission announced that unless he goes through with the bout he will face a six months' suspension. Dado claimed his thumb was injured, but this was not borne out by X-ray examinations. Chris Pineda, also a Filipino, will oppose Teiken if Dado withdraws.

HIS MAJESTY WINS

STOCK MARKET MOVEMENT IRREGULAR

NEW YORK, June 16.—(AP.)—Further symptoms of the "dollar jitters" appeared in financial markets today as harassed traders attempted to pierce the mystic veil of foreign exchange gyrations.

Stocks, after their severe trouncing of yesterday, displayed rallying tendencies in the first hour with a number of the leaders retrieving 1 to around 3 points of their previous losses. The dollar also lost ground in terms of European exchange. Uncertainties of the Anglo-American stabilization program gave some hope to proponents of the rise, and short covering progressed at a fast pace for a time. Recoveries failed to hold very long, however, and soon there was another rush to transfer commitments. Rallies and declines followed in rapid order, but it was noticeable that volume expanded when prices sagged.

Commodities moved about as indecisively as shares. Wheat, corn and cotton moved sluggishly lower at one time, then came back with stocks. They subsequently drifted in irregular channels. Bar silver continued to sag, losing ¼ of a cent an ounce at 35¼ cents. Bonds of the secondary classes were rather heavy, but the higher grade loans were fairly steady.

While international factors were, for the moment, the motivating influence in the market, many traders continued to watch with interest the stiffening of the business and industrial structure throughout the United States. Week-end trade reviews reported little cessation in the demand for goods and commodities. That inflationary psychology is not now the sole impetus of the forward push was stressed by leading surveys of conditions. In addition, it was pointed out that there has been no evidence thus far that the business revival is merely a temporary one.

Of encouragement to the "long-pull" investment contingent were reports of further increases in wages and employment which, to the investor, mean the steady growth of purchasing power which has been limping badly for the past three years. Up to recently the rising trade barometer has been due largely to the rush by factories, wholesalers and heavy manufacturers to build up inventories and complete forward purchasing in order to forestall higher prices. Reports from retail lines now show that public consumption is beginning to take hold.

WHEAT FALLS ON NEW TAX

CHICAGO, June 16.—New downturns in grain values early today followed announcement that President Roosevelt had approved putting the process tax plan into operation as applied to wheat. Bears contended that a result would be to place surplus stocks of wheat into commercial channels and have a tendency to force prices down toward an export parity. Opening ¼-⅞ off, wheat later held near the initial limits. Corn started unchanged to ⅞ lower, and subsequently altered little.

Some transient rallies of wheat prices were attributed to assertions in various quarters that President Roosevelt's approval of putting the wheat process tax plan into operation was constructive, because his approval removed uncertainty which had existed, based on suggested differences of opinion inside of the administration.

Failure of immediate efforts to lift prices, however, became speedily apparent, and wheat market upturns were soon more than wiped out. Corn and oats gave way with wheat.

Provisions responded to grain weakness.

BOND VALUES NO GAUGE OF INFLATION

By LEWIS HANEY,
Professor of Economics New York University.

NEW YORK, June 16.—Some say that we have no real inflation yet. They point to the small changes in volume of bank credit, and to the rise in bond prices.

Others say that while there may be some inflation, it is not of a bad sort, and does not represent fear. They, too, point to bonds and say that the bond market could not go up if investors were afraid.

I think both groups are wrong. Inflation is actually with us, and high grade bonds are not up. They are down in comparison with almost everything else.

The dollar is down, at this writing, at least 20 per cent, in comparison with gold currencies. It is down in comparison with most commodities, and that is just another way of saying that commodity prices are higher.

Since April 15 commodity price averages have risen anywhere from 10 per cent to 20 per cent. Cotton has been up at least 36 per cent, wheat 19 per cent, copper 48 per cent, and lead 29 per cent. That means that a dollar will buy, wholesale, much less. It has depreciated in purchasing power. Prices in dollars are up, because dollars are down in value.

Now what about bonds? First, we must note that more "bond averages" contain a good many speculative bonds. It is rather hard to find any railway bonds, for example, which during the past year have not been obviously speculative. But speculative bonds move much as stocks do. They do not represent real investment buying.

Next we note that really high grade bonds have done relatively little. Even the averages of so-called "high-grade bonds," which contain a sprinkling of rather speculative issues, have risen only six or seven per cent during a period in which the dollar has declined 20 per cent and stocks have risen over 50 per cent.

When you select some really high grade issues, which have not been depressed by fear of default you find very little change.

The plain fact is that the holders of such bonds are losing money. That is, they might just about as well have their money in a savings bank. Each dollar of their principal and interest has become worth less in purchasing power, and for all practical purposes all really high grade bonds are likely to become worth only 50 to 80 cents on the dollar, according to how much the dollar is finally "devalued."

Why, then, does any one hold them? Well, there are still many people and institutions who will not or can not sepculate. They are helpless. What else can they do with their money?

But all I have tried to do in this article is to show that the action of bonds does not indicate the absence of inflation nor of fear of the dollar. Bonds which have risen much have been speculative. In fact, there are plenty of ordinarily good 5 per cent bonds still selling in the seventies. The helpless holders of the really "safe" bonds have seen the real value go down 20 per cent since we abondoned the gold standard, while the paper prices of their bonds have "risen" less than 2 per cent.

In all this, I say nothing about the highly artificial market made by the government for its own bonds.

Forbes

Advertising
Lifts Payroll
To New Peak

—By B. C. FORBES—

GREAT is the power of advertising. The payroll of the makers of Camel cigarettes is, I learn, the largest in the company's long history.

B. C. Forbes

It may be "fun to be fooled," but it is far more fun to be able to fill a rapidly increasing number of pay envelopes. The R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company's mammoth Winston-Salem plants—they contain 129 acres of floor space—have been expanding their working forces rapidly during recent months and now have added night shifts.

This company has the proud distinction of not having cut its wage scale one iota at any stage of the depression.

Naturally, the whole North Carolina trade territory served by Winston-Salem is booming, some of the textile mills have been compelled to employ night forces.

ADVERTISING is once again being used more freely to expand sales and, therefore, to expand employment, the goal of goals. Says George N. Thornley (of N. W. Ayer & Son):

"Today the advertiser and the potential advertiser have a quickening market, a low advertising cost, and better advertising. They have, too, another salient factor in their favor—consumer attention. . . This is the time when the businesses of the future are having their birth—the time to advertise to a public that has learned that a price does not mean value. It is the time for a sound, courageous and forceful attack on waiting markets."

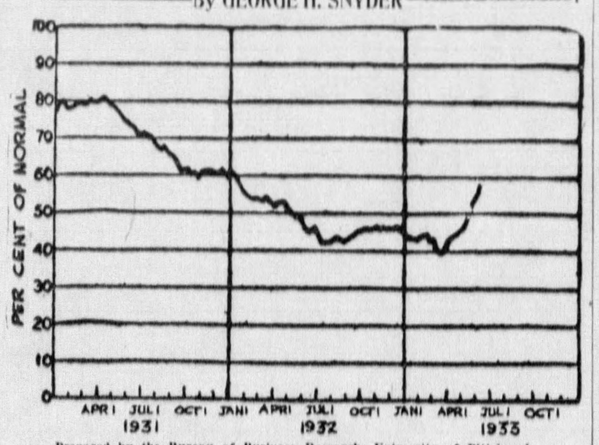
Pittsburgh District Index Continues To Advance

By GEORGE H. SNYDER



Prepared by the Bureau of Business Research, University of Pittsburgh. All Indexes are Adjusted for Trend and for Seasonal Variation. Computed Normal Equals 100.

Index	Week Ended June 10, 1933	June 3, 1933	May 27, 1933	June 11, 1932	June 13, 1931
Business activity	58.5*	55.4	52.8	44.9	72.9
Production	54.9*	50.8	48.1	37.3	67.3
Iron and steel	47.9	43.3	39.2	27.6	59.9
Electric power	71.6	68.6	66.6	64.4	82.8
Coal	69.2*	66.6	66.0	48.8	76.3
Rail shipments	48.7*	43.8	42.1	30.1	64.9
Trade	67.0*	66.2	63.8	62.7	85.8

*Preliminary.

PITTSBURGH BUSINESS continues to gain ground. The index of activity in this district, as prepared by the Bureau of Business Research of the University of Pittsburgh gained 3.1 points last week.

The index stood at a preliminary level of 58.5 for the week ended June 10. This compared with 55.4 in the previous week and with 52.8 in the week ended May 27.

The gain over the corresponding week of a year ago steadily is widening. The week just reported showed an increase of 13.6 points over last year. The previous week showed a gain of only 8.9 points over the corresponding period of 1932.

Nears High Level For Last Year

THE INDEX for the week, in addition to establishing a new high for the present year, was at the highest level since the second week of January, 1932, when it stood at 59.5. The high level for 1932 was 61.1, recorded in the first week of the year. If the index for the present week shows a gain equal to last week, the level of activity will be higher than at any time last year.

The weekly indexes are corrected for seasonal and trend variations. Business activity normally declines at this time of the year. The indexes have been adjusted to allow for this factor but actual operations of industry lead to the belief that seasonal trends are being entirely ignored at present. Gains continue regardless of the fact that activity is in a period when seasonal rescession should be expected.

* * *

Rail Shipments Lead In Gains

A MAJOR PART of the gain for the week was shown in the production factors of the index. Production stood at 54.9 as compared with 50.8 a week ago. This compared with a relatively smaller gain in trade activity. This factor stood at 67.0 as compared with 66.2 in the previous week.

The greatest gain of the factors making up the production element was shown in rail shipments. These stood at an index number of 48.7, a gain of 4.9 for the week. Iron and steel production was a close second with an index of 47.9, a gain of 4.6 for the week.

Savage Paradise

By MARGARET MATCHES

AUDACIOUS GIRL REVEALS SECRETS OF SOUTHERN SEAS

CHAPTER XXVII.

Seventeen savages, from all over the South Pacific, composed the Nuloa's crew. They were a fierce-looking lot, and not much to be relied upon when it came to standing watch. But they were willing sailors.

Two long stems of bananas hung from an awning beam at the stern of the schooner. Three or four papaws lay on some petrol tins in the sun to ripen. For a few days there were great green-skinned oranges — coarse-fleshed and refreshingly bitter—and we had a large basket of limes with which to freshen up the drinking water. There were a few eggs, too; when these gave out we should revert to the powdered variety. On the whole, with the decks cleared of cargo, things would be quite comfortable.

The previous skipper of the Nuloa had been a Scot; perhaps his economy accounted for the rottenness of the lines and canvas on the schooner. It was years since these had been renewed. Now the rotten rope began to give out; the skipper and mate swore prolifically, and with an eye to approaching monsoons the mate set about supervising the repairs. But there was little spare canvas aboard. The mate once said, "It's a crime to send a ship to sea in this condition."

We set out up the New Guinea coast. For two hours we went serenely along under engine power. Then without warning the vibration ceased, and we lay quite still seven miles out from shore. Nobody but the engineer and skipper minded; time meant nothing in any of our lives, in the blessed way of the equator zone. There was a tiny breeze; up went the sails, hardly bellying in the playing trades, and we drifted gently on until once more the engine throbbed.

COCKATOO IS MASCOT

We had a mascot on board—the engineer's pet, a grimy white cockatoo with a beautiful yellow crest. Funny how sailors lavish affection on a mascot. The engineer seemed really to love this bird. And how the cocky loved to be petted; it was entirely promiscuous in bestowing kisses directly on the mouth of any one who happened to be fondling it. The engineer spent much of his spare time with the cocky on his shoulder, or on his crooked arm, scratching the bird's crest in return for affectionate pecks on the lips. It struck me that the engineer imagined he had a pretty and accommodating barmaid in the cocky's stead, but I may do him an injustice. The mate, however, heartily disliked "that bloody bird."

I slept the sleep of the very good that night. Jim and Brearly and I had carried the little square phonograph up on the topdeck, and there we let it serenade a million constellations, while we stretched out on the skylights and helped the mate keep watch. It was late when we turned in. Even the kanakas on the foredeck had broken up their squatting circles and ceased crooning their singings of the sea and big-fella-ships. They lay on the hard deck, utterly relaxed and dead asleep. Of them all only two were awake—the Buka quartermaster, with a great red patch about one eye, steering the course set for him, and the lookout silhouetted against the sky. The quartermaster crooned to himself beneath the fitful flicker of the hurricane lamp.

VISITS PLANTATION

We were preparing to anchor off the New Guinea coast when I awoke in the very early morning. We had tacked around for several hours awaiting the dawn. I had awakened with that feeling of anticipation which grown-ups so rarely recapture. I looked out of the tiny port just above my bunk at a delightful picture. A volcano rose sheer out of rosy water, fantastically lovely with drifting clouds across its face obscuring a large part of the huge cone, but leaving its peak dark and clear against the early sky. It was Karkar, inactive, but giving out sulphur fumes from a crater three miles wide. Serene, trusting and improvident, a misson plantation lay at its feet, and three fertile plantations.

Ten minutes later, on deck, I caught the concentrated beauty of the South Pacific in one glance. We lay a quarter-mile out from shore. On the mainland, off our port bow, was Dylup Plantation under the trades fretted cocoanut fronds; it was shady, green and cool in the early morning, and grass-roofed huts clustered along the shore. To starboard, blue water broke white on a coral reef, and far off on the horizon lay banks of white clouds, like a fleet of icebergs.

We were to spend the day at Dylup. The plantation manager came out in a dory to greet us. And for breakfast there were tinned sausages, and he ate as if he had hollow legs. We had brought him some long-awaited timber. He invited over to luncheon all who cared to accept. We were to drop West here. Down the rope-ladder into the dory we climbed—except the mate (who never left the schooner) and the skipper. Gaining dry land wasn't easy. Between us and it great rollers broke on the reef, playing in foamy swirls over coral shallows. Under lubberly guidance we might well be upset and scratched raw on the coral. Maskee! It's all in the day's work. A bo'sn squatted in the bow directing the four oarsmen, all watching narrowly for the breaking combers, and to take advantage thereof to send us riding upon the reef. Landing in a dory on a reef is wet business under the best conditions, and a strand of coral prevented us from making the beach. It was then that West swung my substantial self upon his shoulder and bore me safely to shore, with flattering ease.

A NEGLECTED HOME

Like a shell from which its occupant had long since departed, the great plantation house of Dylup stood on a hill overlooking palm tops to the sea. It must have been comfortable once; it certainly could have been, with its great veranda and wide doorways. But here, as in so many of the New Guinea out-stations, was the sense of decay. Once the slope leading up to the bungalow had been a garden; now it was a tangle of weeds and choking undergrowth. The house had once been painted, but many monsoons had whipped it bare, and the wood was of a forlorn, disheartening gray. But hospitality and genuine welcome seemed to lend the dwelling a wry and careworn smile. On the veranda waited the inevitable tumblers plus whiskey and soda and beer. An iron bedstead with an uncovered tick mattress, a canvas porchswing, three or four ancient chaise longues, a couple of tables, and a phonograph, completed the furnishings of the dwelling, save for a few spare army cots and nondescript dining-room furniture.

While we lounged around sipping at tall glasses, I tried to visualize what one could do with a few bolts of chintz and some gay paint toward changing this stark house into a cheerful place. And I fell upon the ancient truth that men, despite their many virtues, are a helpless lot with blunted sensibilities. Most women would have done something with the place to make it livable.

PLANTATION ORDERLY

But the plantation showed none of the neglect of the house. Later we wandered through straight avenues of palms, between which the grass was cut neatly and throughout which cocoanuts were heaped in orderly piles. Great pods hung from cocoa trees. Copra was drying in the sun on long racks. After peeking into smoke-driers the delicious sweet and smoky odor of copra clung to my nostrils for a long time. Among these sheds stood great piles of cocoanut shell, to be used for fuel; every part of the cocoanut is utilized. (Copra shell is the fuel of the islands, for coal, when procurable, is $50 a ton.)

The advent of a woman completely upset the savoir-faire of the cook boy, and luncheon was long in coming. Not enough crockery—maskee! The host ate soup out of a gravy boat. But plenty of everything else. It would probably be a long time before such a large crowd of white men gathered again at this far place.

At sunset we had a farewell "spot" to everybody's health, and wandered cheerily down to the beach. We were carried out to the dory by kanakas. We nerved ourselves for the truly dangerous negotiation of the incoming breakers, back to the Nuloa. Four strong kanakas at the oars and a "boss boy" at the bow. There was a pause for an oncoming comber that starts far out, a chorus of "Hus-sahs!" from the bo'sn and crew, then a superhuman heave at four oars; we stood for a brief second on the rudder, we dropped, drenched, on the other side of the wave. All right, here came another "Hus-sah!" We clung for dear life, riding the breakers. We gained the safety of deep water!

The skipper and the mate were waiting for us at the top of the rope-ladder, impatient to be away in daylight. Four strong hands helped me to the deck, and I felt suddenly a strong affection for this ship—a "home" feeling. Let us be gone for many weeks, let us be gone forever—I didn't care.

So we started out again, minus one of our passengers, and minus, happily, the timber that cluttered the upperdeck.

A MODERN PROJECTILE (Science)

A projectile used in one of the famous French 75 mm. guns. The propellant is smokeless powder or gun cotton. This latter is made by treating cotton with nitric acid: $C_{12}H_{20}O_{10}$ (cotton) + $6HNO_3$ = $C_{12}H_{14}O_4(NO_3)_6$ (guncotton) + $6H_2O$. The priming cap is filled with fulminate of mercury ($Hg(OCN)_2$). The charge to be exploded after hitting the objective is T. N. T. (trinitrotoluene), obtained by heating toluene with nitric acid: $C_6H_5CH_3$ (toluene) + $3HNO_3$ = $CH_3C_6H_2(NO_2)_3$ (T. N. T.) + $3H_2O$. (Parsons: Everyday (Science).

THE ROCKET

A comparatively slow burning substance that throws out a stream of gas is used to propel rockets (by reaction) to carry life-saving apparatus to ships, for fireworks displays, etc., and has been suggested as a propellant for airplanes (to date unsuccessful). (Parsons: Everyday Science).

ROBINSON CRUSOE

The immortal tale of the shipwrecked sailor, created by the first great English journalist, Daniel Defoe (1659-1731), is still one of the most popular readings. This is due to its lasting interest, the skill of presentation and its simple, direct style. (English).

NORMAL AND DEFECTIVE EYES (Science)

In this diagram a, is a normal eye, with the focus, F, of the lens on the retina, giving sharp image. b and f are myopic (nearsighted) eyes; with F in front of the retina. The cause in case b, is deficient accomodation of the lens (it can not flatten enough for far vision) and in case f, lengthening of the eyeball. A proper concave lens causes the light rays (dotted) to focus upon the retina (b and g). The hyperopic (farsighted) eye blurs images because the focus of the rays is behind the retina (c, lens too flat; d, eyeball too short). A proper concave lens brings F back to the retina and corrects the vision. (Gruenberg: Biology and Human Life).

THE SIGNING OF THE PEACE IN THE HALL OF MIRRORS, VERSAILLES (June 28, 1919)

When the Central Powers signed the Armistice (1918), an important epoch in world history came to a close. It remained for the leaders of the nations to settle the old and prepare for the new order in the world's largest peace conference at Paris in 1919. A treaty was set up, of which the "New York Tribune" wrote (May 8, 1919): "Not since Rome punished Carthage for Punic faith has such a treaty been written." Germany lost Alsace-Lorraine, ceded to France the Saar Basin to be governed by the League of Nations (expenses paid by Germany), returned Schleswig to Denmark, relinquished certain parts to Belgium and Poland, lost all colonies. Germany also agreed to repair all damages and right injuries caused in countries overrun by her armies. For the fixation of the amount, a Reparations Commission was established. The last article provided that the treaty became effective if German representatives affixed their signatures and at least three of the Allies. The U. S. never ratified it, but passed in 1921 a congressional resolution declaring the war of the United States with Germany at an end. Subsequently peace treaties were closed by the U. S. administration and ratified by the Senate. (World's History).

SAWYER'S LAMP (1878)

This lamp was one of the several with a graphite burner operating in nitrogen gas. Heavy, fluted copper wires were used to radiate the heat and thus maintain a cool joint between the glass cover and the metal holder. (Science).

EDISON'S LAMP

So I Took the Forty Thousand

Nor retail the happy maltbubbles from lunch carts, road stands, slot machines or in paper bags, cellophane pocketbooks or folding tin cups disguised as opera hats.

Now, Commissioner, even prohibition was much more liberal than that.

If we remember consecutively the Eighteenth Amendment had no restrictions at all. You could buy the place in any establishment that boasted a door to rap upon.

Drugstores were flooded in it, lunch wagons dedicated to it and even a slap in the face with a kitchen mop produced its tonic aftermath.

It was everywhere, anywhere and allwheres. We know that there were some laws compiled to diagnose its uses and its dispensal.

But nobody paid any more attention to that than a wellfed cat does to scratching in the lath and plaster.

It was sold everywhere. And, as we back track over the footprints in the Persian doormats, we tabulate that our national sales resistance was very low. One gurgle and we were receptive, one smell and we were sold, one snift and we were shellacked, macadamized and ready for our immortal niche in the petrified forest.

New York State expects to get along comfortably on 40,000 licensed beer alcoves. That will take care of the valleys, the dells and the glens. Those who climb mountains do so at their own risk.

We think the Commissioner is close to the correct answer if it's a guessing contest. Any state should be specifically content with 40,000 lagerbarns and hopskellars.

If we discover that 40,000 is not enough we shall let the Commissioner know. We are starting on a three-day tour of the upland valleys and shall study the subject thoroughly. Stopping every few hundreds yards to mail our souvenir complaint blanks back to the old folks at home.

Hospital Support Cut

The Legislature's Failure to Face the Depression Results In an Embarrassing Situation.

With destitution more widespread, perhaps, than ever before, the state-supported hospitals have been called upon to furnish free service to an unprecedented degree.

The Legislature, it might have been supposed, would meet the situation by increasing the appropriations for the hospitals. It did, indeed, make a gesture in that direction; but it now develops that after a good deal of juggling the net result of the deliberations was to cut the hospital appropriations 30 per cent below the figures for the last previous biennium. The amount lopped off is to be restored if and when the voters approve at the polls next November a $25,000,000 relief bond issue.

The Pennsylvania Hospital Association reports that as a result of this curtailment the hospitals find themselves in an embarrassing situation. Unless they refuse charity cases they will be unable to pay their bills.

That persons in urgent need of hospitalization should be refused such service because of inability to pay will be a cruel reflection on our civilization.

The Legislature's shirking of its duty in this matter is almost certain to be advanced as another reason for a special session.

Grand Jury's Initiative

It Is Not Limited to Cases Submitted by the Prosecutor Or Suggested by the Judge.

The Sun-Telegraph is no detective agency, yet it frequently uncovers evidence of crime which the police should have discovered.

The latest instance is in the Monaca Club jury-fixing case. With a 24-hour lead the county detectives failed to learn as much about this business as the Sun-Telegraph learned in two hours.

It is not only the police heads that are lethargic. The District Attorney and the judges are often slow to act on criminal charges.

There would be an improvement in conditions if grand juries availed themselves more frequently of their power of initiative. They are not limited to the consideration of cases submitted by the prosecutor or suggested by the judge. Grand juries have the right to initiate investigations on their own motion, and if the prosecutor fails to aid them may call upon the Attorney General or the Governor for a special prosecutor.

We agree with the Association of Grand Jurors of New York County that the enforcement of criminal law would be strengthened if judges were compelled by statute to instruct grand juries on these rights and privileges.

If a few grand juries in Allegheny County were to proceed of their own initiative in cases where the county detectives and the District Attorney and the judges have not been properly energetic, the effect could not fail to be salutary.

Travel by Air

New Service Between New York and San Francisco Calls Attention to the Convenience of It.

To many people air travel is still an unreality.

The exploits of the Lindberghs and the Earharts may resound through the world. The press may be filled with almost daily accounts of some striking advance in the science of aviation.

But to many of us the air flight is still an exploit, involving both risk and daring, and remote from the actualities of our lives.

The fact remains, however, that air travel has become an established commonplace in modern life. Nothing could more forcefully bring this truth home to us than the inauguration of the new commercial air service between New York and San Francisco which accomplishes the journey in 21½ hours.

It is predicted that within a short time airplanes in this service will leave San Francisco and New York, at least one each day, and that the time of the transcontinental flight, westward or eastward, will be reduced to 21 hours, including a half dozen stops for purposes of refueling.

But there it is—a definite accomplishment. Wonder disappears and adaptation takes its place—adaptation to this new mastery of the air, this new annihilation of time and distance.

The extent to which this most modern phase of living has become established in popular acceptance and habit is revealed in the fact that in 1932 half a million passengers were carried in air liners.

It was hardly three or four years ago that the number of passengers who traveled by air was not in excess of a few hundred.

The air routes were few and scattered, while today they constitute a network that embraces practically the whole country and every population center of importance.

Workers Get a Hearing

The Restoration of Collective Bargaining at the Carnegie Steel Works Is Encouraging.

Readers of "The Life of Andrew Carnegie," by Burton J. Hendrick, published as a serial in the Sun-Telegraph, will remember that in the early days of the Carnegie Steel Company Carnegie was not averse to discussing grievances of the workers with their representatives and was irritated by H. C. Frick's refusal to do so.

Since the Homestead strike of 1892, however, nothing like trade unionism or collective bargaining has been sanctioned by the company.

It is a pleasure to learn that that reactionary policy has been abandoned, and that the company will adjust itself to the New Deal by arranging for employe representation in discussions of working conditions and industrial relations.

We do not believe the change of policy will be regretted.

The Sunday Fishing Ban

Violation of the Blue Law Is a Petty Offense, and Should Be Punished Accordingly.

By direction of Gov. Pinchot the game warden who shot a Philadelphia man whom he detected fishing on Sunday has been discharged.

The Governor has indicated he is not in favor of enforcing the Blue Law in so barbarous a manner.

Fishing on Sunday is at worst a petty offense. There is no moral turpitude in doing on Sunday what is perfectly legal on other days.

Yet Sunday fishing is punished with fines and prison sentences as severe as are imposed by some of our Allegheny County judges for heinous crimes.

A due sense of proportion calls for more lenient treatment.

"Forgotten Words"

One diversion, which helped us to forget how much money we'd lost in 1931, was the pastime of selecting the 10 most beautiful words in the English language. That was easy—because you had only to select a Latin derivative—and there you were! Glamorous, glorious, medolious, luminous, dalliance, romance, caress, ardor, lullaby, murmurous—just like THAT!

* * *

But, try to think of the 10 ugliest words, and immediately you go Anglo-Saxon or fall into American slang. Try these on your singing-voice—wretch, snooty, hog, swag, grouch, goggles, lousy, blab, snob, goulash, spinach! And I can think of lots, even more painful to a poet's ear!

A number of old-fashioned words are being revived, these days—"forgotten words," which went completely out of vogue, when stock-gambling, racketeering and four-flushing came in and joined the best circles.

* * *

For instance, the quaint old word, "honor." Many of the younger generation have never heard the word mentioned, outside of school. They'd have to look it up in the dictionary, if you should ask them what it means.

* * *

"Loyalty" is another forgotten word, which brings only a sniff from the scornful nose of the ultra-modern. He's never looked it up in the dictionary. Yet loyalty is the most vital quality in the human make-up.

Funny—even people who laugh at loyalty in a man—somehow, admire it in a dog!

* * *

But, of all the forgotten words, the one that is making the biggest comeback is the much-despised old word "decency." Now, there's a word that most people confuse with "respectability." They imagine it means keeping the front steps clean and the wash-line hidden, keeping your hair cut and hiding the family skeletons in the closet—old-fashioned respectability in its most violent mid-Victorian form.

* * *

Yet, when you think about it, decency is a grand old word. It means fair play, paying your debts, never double-crossing anybody, always being on the level and never making the other fellow feel small. It includes honor, honesty, loyalty, kindliness, cleanliness, good breeding and self-respect.

* * *

And, if you can think of a larger order than THAT, for just one word, I can

NEW YORK, June 16.—Thoughts while strolling: Everybody in the American Mercury tries to write like Mencken. William Rhinelander Stewart and Jay O'Brien look alike. So do Dot Aylesworth and Ruth Chatterton. And Ted Saucier and Emil Coleman. Count Obelensky's Floyd Gibbons eye-patch—only black.

One word description of Pepy de Albrew—silky. Ely Culbertson has the best fitting clothes hereabouts. But no one has ever topped Caruso in carrying a cane. And that reminds me Tom Geraghty goes on a cane, spat and derby spree when he blows in from Hollywood. And ashcans them when he departs, the coward!

Walter Damrosch's snow-white tuft of eyebrows. Howard Chandler Christy and his blackened briar. Ben Ames Williams, the big stiff, walks like a bear. And a bear of a novelist, too. Louis Wiley, a Hornell, N. Y., boy, who made good in the city. Who was it wondered if he missed the last supper?

One of my favorite people—George Gershwin. Whatever became of Robert Cortes Holliday? There's a grand essayist. Peggy Fears now has two taffy streaks in her hair. The great Marconi and Steinmetz always seem to me fantasies of the laboratory—never quite human.

Wish I could grin as warmly as Wallace Beery. Wonder if others thrill at a house where a great book is written? Gandhi with the jaundice gave my imagination a wrench. The genteel reticence of that grand old Roman, Frank W. O'Brien, of the Sun. As soon as a fellow gets the hang of the tango they call him a gigolo.

Fannie Hurst has a Pom that travels with her on lecture tours. It is a hop o' my thumb specimen, and in passing through train gates she throws it over her arm and conceals it with a fur piece. Recently in Columbus, O., she forgot to cover the pet. The gateman thumb-jerked toward the baggage room to have the animal checked in the baggage car. "No dogs in Pullman," he growled. Miss Hurst, flustered and in sudden blurt, said: "It isn't a dog. It's mammal." He glanced again and grudgingly snapped: "Go on in but it looks like a dog to me."

The widely filmed Grover Whalen has never seen himself in a news reel. His wife, of course, rarely misses one, and relays her impression. Mr. Whalen is well poised and expresses all the aplomb of a veteran screen player. This has been told him many times. But he fears one look will make him forever self-conscious before the camera and perhaps spoil a notable record.

Adolph Ochs' only offspring, Mrs. Arthur Hays Sulzberger, whose life is devoted largely to philanthropy, has had two experiences that would lighten Bob Ripley's chore for a day. She was once chased and attacked by an angry hen in Iceland and hooked by a cow in the Museum of Natural History. The latter adventure was the result of attending a dairy exhibit. In passing a haltered bovine she stopped to stroke its head. The next thing she knew she had been tossed in a twirling flurry a distance of 10 feet, but was happily unhurt. Relating the incident to her father that evening, his newspaper instinct predominated. He immediately thought of a grand headline: "Ochs Gored by Cow!"

* * *

Mr. Ochs has a favorite story concerning his newspaper, The Times. An esteemed servant long in his household passed on and several of her aged friends in service sat up with the body. When the publisher arrived home late he went to the servants' hall and asked the watchers if they were comfortable. Could he get them anything before retiring? A spokesman thanked him and said it was a pleasure to meet him. They had all been discussing what a wonderful paper he conducted. "No big headlines or inky cartoons," she said, "and the most satisfactory paper for shelves."

And there's Leon Gordon's yarn of the interior decorator who fluttered into a police station with news his fellow decorator was lifeless in the car at the curb. It proved true and he was asked how it happened. He explained they had been arguing about a room they were doing. He was for an effect in Copenhagen China blue and his friend held out for an orchid tint. "We had been arguing," he falsettoed. "I said blue, he said orchid, I patted my hands and again said blue, he continued to repeat orchid. Blue, I yelled. Putting his hand on his hip he screamed 'Pul-leeze!' and in throwing back his head broke his neck!"

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

Quiet little Ishbel MacDonald said four big words when she visited us recently, with her famous dad.

Someone asked her what she thought of the depression—if she didn't agree that it would "bring out the grit" in people and result in the "survival of the fittest."

"OR OF THE LUCKIEST," she retorted grimly.

And that was no "sob sister" answer. Ishbel MacDonald and her father know what depressions really are. Not mere three-year spasms of industrial discouragement, but depressions that spread from generation to generation—hard times that never end. For Prime Minister MacDonald was once a coal miner. And if a coal miner doesn't know what Bad Breaks are, nobody does.

"Survival of the fittest"—that term riled Ishbel MacDonald. She knew what it actually means in our present scheme of things.

NOT survival of the brainiest.
Nor survival of the worthiest.
BUT—
Survival of the best fed;
Of the richest born;
Of the ones with the "strongest pull,"
And the most calloused conscience.
And toughest hide.
Survival, not of the mentally or spiritually "fittest,"
But of the slickest,
The fattest,
The most selfish,
THE LUCKIEST!

Mind you, I'm not saying that birth's everything. Or the breaks, either. Or that any human has a right to sit down and whine because he wasn't born with the proverbial golden spoon in his mouth.

Nor do I believe that even a lifetime of poverty, sickness and anxiety can break a man—IF HE REFUSES TO BE BROKEN.

But just looking at things as they are, as the average human who is neither a saint nor a master-mind has to look at them. OUR PRESENT SCHEME OF LIFE IS LOUSY.

And by lousy I mean lousy. Literally. It's exactly the sort of a scheme a louse would make if he were endowed, for instance, with the brain of a Morgan or a Mitchell. It has exactly the vision and technique of all Bigger and Better Bugs. Hang on! Bore in! Grab a mouthful while the mouthful's good. And let the littler, weaker fellow go hang!

So I'm saying—my sombrero's off to Ishbel MacDonald. She called the turn.

Ours isn't a Christian society.
It's a lousy society—
A society for the Liveliest and Luckiest Insects!
Why kid yourself that it isn't?

Isn't It So?

The road to ruin is always crooked.

The Human Side of the News

Abyssinian Slave Raiders Prey on Natives of Kenya —Airplane May Stop the Practice—Sepoy Mutiny in India Recalled

By EDWIN C. HILL

THE stars hang low in the luminous African night. A thousand men, women and children sleep soundly in a native Galla town in the British territory of Kenya, in northeastern Africa. Off in the bush a lion looses a rumbling roar which jars the air. A jackal laughs in hysterical terror. The peaceful Gallas, familiar with such echoes of the night, sleep on, undisturbed.

Suddenly the echoes become a demoniac chorus. Over the village sweeps a wave of wild tribesmen from across the border in Abyssinia. The Galla men, rushing from their grass huts, half stupid from sleep, are mowed down by rifle fire and slaughtered with spears. The young men and the young women are seized and bound. The old are killed in blood-frenzy. And in the light of the burning town, the raiders from Ethiopia retreat swiftly back through the bush and are over the borders of their own country, carrying into lifelong slavery the miserable Gallas.

These raids have been all too frequent in the past year, and the British Lion growls angrily at the Lion of Judah, none other than his majesty, the Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia. The mediaeval potentate, who claims to be descended straight from King Solomon and the Queen of Sheba, is told that he must keep his slave raiders on his own side of the Kenya border or there may be unpleasant consequences.

Slavery In the Dark Continent

THERE are black crimes festering in the heart of the Dark Continent, and the blackest of all is human slavery, the bondage of men and women which "Bula Matari," Henry M. Stanley fought so hard to suppress 50 years ago. Even the penalty of death does not daunt the heartless slave raiders who make their forays, massacre whole communities and drive away columns of manacled, staggering human cattle. It is one of the most terrible problems the British have to deal with in their spheres of control and influence, and quite recently the United States has had to speak plainly to its own dark stepchild, Liberia, on the west side of the great continent.

It is interesting to note that the airplane, which is changing human existence in so many ways, may yet prove the instrument by which slavery in Africa will finally be wiped out. For the British are instituting airplane patrols of the regions that suffer from slave raids. Speedily as the raiders strike and retreat, they cannot outmarch the planes that spot them from the skies and pursue them with machine guns.

Sepoy Mutiny Caused by Stupidity

CONTINUED unrest in India recalls the interesting fact that it is just three-quarters of a century since the Sepoy Mutiny took place, one of the most frightful experiences ever suffered by the white race in an alien land. The Mutiny was a rebellion of the native troops, the "Sepoys," against British authority in India. It was provoked by an incredible piece of stupidity.

A new rifle was served out to the native troops. The cartridges had to be greased to make them slide easily into the bore of the gun. The grease was cow's fat, something thoroughly detestable to both Mohammedan and Hindu soldiers. It was necessary for them to tear off the tops of the cartridges with their teeth. They got upon their lips the hated, loathsome cow's fat. It was, by their standards, an impurity which deprived them of caste in this world and robbed them of their hope of heaven in the next.

Rebellion flamed through the great province of Bengal. Thousands of English men, women and children were butchered before the mutiny was crushed, finally, in 1858. The Mutiny produced the massacre at Cawnepore, the siege of Delhi and the relief of Lucknow. One's blood is stirred even today when one reads of the indomitable valor of those British men and women fighting to the death against hordes of bloodthirsty natives. It was one of the frightful tragedies of humanity, with power after all these years to freeze the blood with its stories of the butchery of men and women, the cool heroism of men, the patient suffering and the gallant deeds of women, and the implacable fury with which the massacre and the butchery were avenged by Britain.

British Prevent Religious War

THE tale of the British in India is a long chronicle, and a thrilling one, beginning when the little John Company clerk, Robert Clive, suddenly found himself and became one of the ablest military leaders who ever led the Red Coats. For two centuries Great Britain has sent to India her best and her bravest. Perhaps less than justice has been done to her remarkable work for a horde of 300,000,000 people, backward, steeped in superstition, enslaved by caste and divided into hundreds of hostile tribes and races.

Admitting that India has a right to freedom—to self-government—one wonders what would happen if the strong hand of Great Britain should suddenly be removed. It is more than likely that a bloody religious war would follow — Mohammedans against the hated Hindus. But it is scarcely more likely that the British will voluntarily retire from their great Asiatic Empire than it is to expect that the descendants of the settlers in our own West would abandon the lands they wrested from the Indians by force and chicanery. The British title to India is almost as respectable as the American title to America.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

How much love of nature have you?

Do you grow enthusiastic when you walk in the woods?

Do you exclaim over the number and varieties of wild flowers you see?

Some of the plants you robbed have wilted and died before you can reach your home and others cannot be revived.

That makes no difference to you, for you pick just as eagerly next time.

Sometimes you pull them up, roots and all, thinking that you might transplant them in your own small garden.

By the time you have reached home you are weary and "chuck them out."

Perhaps you try to get them in the ground, but the roots do not respond to the new environment.

You say you have no luck with flowers, and you love them so.

One experience of the kind, if you love flowers, should suffice.

You won't despoil the haunts of wild flowers and you won't leave the roots to dry if you really love the wild flowers.
